LAWSON AGREES TO GIVE NAMES IN NEW 'LEAK' INQUIRY

Present Investigation Too Tentative to Warrant Grave Revelations, He Insists.

REPEATS RUMORS HE HEARD

And Says He Could Involve "a Still Higher Official" in Stock Deals.

BARUCH ENTERS DENIAL

Statement of Similar Tenor Made by Sabin, Kahn, Curtis, and Others.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—When the House Committee on Rules ended today's session of its peace note "leak" inquiry Thomas W. Lawson apparently had jockeyed the committee into a position which might result in a dragnet investigation of the "leak" allegations by a special committee of the House.

Mr. Lawson completed his testimony and was temporarily excused. Six other witnesses were examined. These included Bernard M. Baruch, Otto Kahn, Charles H. Sabin, and Allen Curtis, figures in the financial district of New York, who testified one after another that they possessed no knowledge of the "leak."

Mr. Lawson left the stand with the promise that if a special investigating committee should be named he would furnish the name of a member of Congress alleged to have implicated in the "leak" a member of the Cabinet, "another high official" and a banker, together with all other names and information in his possession bearing on the matter. He refused to give these names to the Rules Committee. As a result two additional motions were made to hold him in contempt. The committee may vote tomorrow on the contempt charges.

Denial by Newspaper Men.

Another avenue of inquiry was practically closed when John Boyle and Henry E. Eland, Washington correspondents of The Wall Street Journal, testified that they were not responsible for any ticker report forecasting the dispatch of a peace note.

Mr. Eland testified that he was one of the newspaper men to whom Secretary Lansing announced on Dec. 20 that he would have a statement to make later in the day concerning a note sent to the belligerent powers, but which was neither a peace proposal nor an offer of mediation.

Mr. Boyle testified that, upon receiving this information from Mr. Eland, he sent a message marked "confidential" to The Wall Street Journal, saying that a statement would follow about 5 o'clock that afternoon. Mr. Boyle said he did not forecast the contents of the statement. Instead, said Mr. Boyle, he sent a news dispatch to his publication that day saying there would be no peace move by President Wilson, relying on Mr. Lansing's statement to that effect.

Mr Boyle testified further that when his newspaper telegraphed, at 12:24 o'clock, that there were rumors in Wall Street of a peace manifesto he was unable to confirm these rumors and so advised the New York office. Both correspondents testified that "confidential" telegrams to The Wall Street Journal do not go on the ticker service.

The committee seemed entirely satisfied with the explanation and Mr. Campbell, ranking Republican member of the committee, said: "Occasions are very rare, are they not, when a newspaper man breaks a confidence here in Washington?"

"I think they are very rare," said Mr. Eland.

Baruch's Stock Transactions.

Mr. Baruch frankly told of his stock transactions between Dec. 12 and 23, showing that he sold both "short" and "long" and dealt mainly in steel stocks. He led off with a written statement saying:

"I had no information of any kind, name, or nature from any one in the Administration, or directly or indirectly connected with the Administration, or from any one else in the world concerning the President's peace note or Mr. Lansing's statements or the von Bethmann Hollweg peace offer other than the public press gave information to me, as it gave it to the whole world."

Mr. Baruch said he began to sell short when the Bethmann Hollweg peace overtures were made, bought when Lloyd George delivered his speech, and sold again when he saw there was a loophole for peace in the Lloyd George speech. On Dec. 19, he said, he sold short from 20,000 to 25,000 shares of Steel, and between Dec. 12 and 19 he sold short about 30,000 shares and bought in about 20,000 shares.

Mr. Baruch's quiet announcement that his contributions to the Democratic National Campaign Fund last year totaled $50,000, instead of $35,000, as had been currently reported, aroused some interest in the committee.

"I wish we had a few more like him," Representative Garrett said.

"I do hope you gentlemen will inject no politics into the hearing," Chairman Henry said, solemnly.

While closely associated with members of the Administration, Mr. Baruch said in answer to interrogations, he could not consult the executive offices on such matters as notes without embarrassment.

Mr. Baruch denied as absolutely false the charge that he conferred with Secretary Tumulty at the Biltmore Hotel in New York, and also denied that he was registered there. He said he knew no broker by the name of "A. Curtis." He also denied that either Otto Kahn or "a man named Reich," or any one connected with the Government was associated with him in his short sales about the time of the peace note.

Mr. Kahn repeated under oath his telegram previously sent to the committee in which he made sweeping denial of advance knowledge about the peace note, and asserted that he had never sold short in his life or advised others to do so.

Mr. Curtis said he was not the writer of the mysterious "A. Curtis" letter to Representative Wood, author of the investigation resolution, and knew nothing about a "leak." He wrote his signature to show it was not that of "A. Curtis."

15,696 British Officers Killed In Total of 53,122 Casualties

LONDON, Dec. 1, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—Casualty lists published by the War Office show that in October the British Army lost 4,378 officers, of whom 1,459 were killed, 2,736 wounded, and 183 are missing. In November the total was 2,305, of whom 806 were killed, 1,386 wounded, and 113 are missing.

These figures bring the total losses among officers since the beginning of the war to 53,122, of whom 15,696 have been killed or died of wounds, 33,970 have been wounded, and 3,456 are missing. A large proportion of the wounded have since returned to duty, and the total under the heading of missing includes a portion since reported as prisoners of war.

ASSAIL 8-HOUR LAW AS A WAGE MEASURE

Railroad Attorneys Make That Their Chief Line of Attack in Test Case.

JUSTICES ASK QUESTIONS

White States the Proposition as He Sees It—Brandeis Presses Hines for Explanations.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The arguments before the Supreme Court on the constitutionality of the Adamson act neared a close tonight, after an all-day attack upon the law by the counsel of the railroads. The case will be submitted to the court for decision tomorrow. Questions of law, the merits of legislation, and the manner of its enactment were raised and discussed at length today.

The lack by Congress of authority to enact what they called railroad wage legislation was the chief line of attack today of the railroad attorneys, Walker D. Hines and John G. Johnson. They contended also that the law was incapable of operation without judicial interpretation, that it took property without due process of law, and interfered with the liberty of contract.

The difficulty of definitely applying the act was emphasized by Mr. Hines. He said that although the law fixed an eight-hour standard railroad day for train operatives, nearly all such employes were employed on mileage, trip, run, or monthly bases.

Mr. Hines laid stress on the argument that the law was not a constitutional regulation by Congress of interstate commerce, but merely a wage-fixing statute. He denied that Congress had the right to fix wages, and said that there was no analogy between rate and wage fixing.

Chief Justice White and other Justices frequently interrupted him. Justice White's questions were apparently designed to draw out argument regarding the comparative authority of Congress to prescribe wages as well as rates.

"Can Congress authorize the Interstate Commerce Commission to fix railroad wages?" asked Justice Day.

Mr. Hines replied that it was doubtful, unless wages were abnormally low and should interfere with transportation.

After asking if the brotherhoods' wage contracts were fixed prior to 1913, Justice Brandeis remarked:

"Shouldn't this court take judicial notice of the fact that there has been a great increase in the cost of living since these wages were fixed?"

Mr. Hines answered that the fact "would not justify the court in holding that evil existed which would justify Congress in exercising a power even if it had that power."

"If there is no power there can be no justification for its attempted exercise," the Chief Justice observed.

"Congress has no power to prescribe wages because they have no substantial relation to safety and efficiency in this case," replied Mr. Hines. "The direct object was for the benefit of particular cases. Any effect on public interest is incidental."

"Then you argue that this is a regulation of wages and of private relations between employers and employes remote from service?" asked Justice Pitney.

"It is a most remote regulation of commerce," Mr. Hines answered. He added that the law would undoubtedly cause increased rates.

Brandeis Questions Hines.

When Mr. Hines said that the law did not limit service to an eight-hour day, but merely fixed a wage standard providing for overtime, Justice Brandeis asked:

"Isn't it a historical fact that in the introduction of the legislative policy of reducing the hours of labor many of the States began in fixing what number of hours should be a standard day, and later, in the progress of legislation, there came an actual prohibition of more?"

Mr. Hines replied that the court had so construed the laws.

"And isn't it a fact when the legislation was introduced there never was a suggestion that the purpose of the legislation was to fix wages and not to reduce hours?" continued Justice Brandeis.

"They didn't increase wages much," replied Mr. Hines.

Chief Justice White referred to the Oregon ten-hour-day law, now before the court awaiting decision. The Oregon law, Mr. Hines responded, prescribed an overtime penalty not in the Adamson act.

"The primary purpose of the act was arbitrary regulation of private contracts," Mr. Hines asserted in concluding his address, which lasted more than three hours. "It sets aside legitimate methods, substituting an unworkable speculative arrangement. Its classifications give benefit only to the four brotherhoods which were demanding the changes, all for the benefit of a special, high-paid class. In all aspects it is of unconstitutional and bewildering unworkability, without relation to any substantial promotion of commerce."

Assails Hasty Legislation.

In the final address for the railroads, Mr. Johnston assailed the hasty enactment of the legislation by Congress, as well as the conduct of the brotherhood leaders. He said that the act was against public interest, was purely for private interest, "and arbitrarily transfers between forty and fifty million dollars from the pockets of the railroads to the pockets of the workmen."

It was, he insisted, solely and purely a wage-increase law, void and impracticable in attempting to establish an eight-hour day. To make the question of railroad wages political, to be settled by Congress from time to time, he said, would lead to unforeseen results.

"There is nothing in the Adamson act for protection of the public," Mr. Johnston continued. "The brotherhoods had the honesty not to pretend that they

WHIPPING OF BOY STARTS HUNT FOR HARRY K. THAW

CULTIVATED VICTIM A YEAR

ONE ARREST IS MADE

Philadelphia Prisoner Denies Part in Attack on Fred Gump, Jr., Enticed from California 'to be Educated.'

The police of every city last night sought Harry Thaw. Accused in the Stanford White trial of having used a silver-capped dog whip on girls, Thaw was indicted here yesterday charged with having whipped a nineteen-year-old boy.

In a room high up in the Hotel McAlpin Thaw on Christmas Eve is alleged to have lashed Frederick Gump, Jr., a Kansas City schoolboy, almost to unconsciousness, after having enticed the lad to this city on pretense of educating him.

The New York County Grand Jury in returning indictments against Thaw accuses him of kidnapping the lad. Coupled with that charge are two charges of assault. Conviction on these charges might mean fifty-five years in prison. Thaw will be 46 years old on Feb. 12.

When the indictment was found and warrants were issued yesterday Thaw and a man known as his body guard were stopping at the Belgravia Hotel, Philadelphia. When detectives entered that hotel about two hours later Thaw had left. A man suspected of being his bodyguard was, however, found and arrested charged with complicity in the kidnapping.

Inquiry at the Thaw residence in Pittsburgh last night revealed the fact that he was expected home this morning. By some it was said he might stop off at Cresson, in the Allegheny Mountains, where his mother has a Summer residence.

The charges against Thaw are based on the story that young Gump, a Kansas City high school graduate, told to his parents in the Gump home at 936 East Forty-first Street, Kansas City, a little more than a week ago. The boy's father put the matter in the hands of his best friend, Frank P. Walsh, lawyer and formerly Chairman of the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations. Mr. Walsh came here Thursday and, with the aid of Assistant District Attorney William Harman Black, got the evidence that resulted in the indictments.

Thaw Sought Boy a Year.

"Thaw's acquaintance with young Gump goes back to December, 1915," said Mr. Walsh at the Holland House yesterday. "The elder Mr. Gump is one of the leading citizens of Kansas City, and I have known his only child, Fred, since infancy. The boy's father became ill about two years ago, and when Fred was graduated from the Kansas City High School the family moved to Long Beach, Cal. Fred enrolled in the Berkeley Polytechnic Institute, but spent the week-ends with his parents in Long Beach, and it was on one of these occasions that Thaw met the lad in an ice cream pavilion.

"Fred, a fine-looking chap, appeared to interest Thaw, who told the boy he would like to have him go back to Pittsburgh with him, where a fine job could be had. Gump declined the offer, and they parted. This was early in December, and the next Gump heard of Thaw was when a postal came wishing the young student a merry Christmas. Then Thaw, writing on the letterheads of the Hieland Iron Works of Pittsburgh, of which he apparently is an officer, opened up a brisk correspondence with young Gump. Letter after letter came to Mrs. Gump addressed to her son, and in nearly all of them Thaw repeated his offer. Finally on Dec. 20 last he wrote, offering Gump $50 a month and expenses either to take a job in his plant or to enroll for a course in the Carnegie Institute. Thaw inclosed a certified check for $50, and urged Gump to accept the offer.

"After thinking the matter over, Mr. Gump advised his son to take the chance at the Carnegie School and Thaw was advised of the decision. In a wire, he directed Gump to come to New York and put up at the McAlpin, where further instructions would be wired to him. Gump arrived at the hotel on Christmas Eve and there he found a note from Thaw telling him to check his valise and go on up to the Century Theatre, where Thaw would be waiting for him with two tickets. The man and boy met at the playhouse and sat through the show until the second act, when Thaw suggested they return to the McAlpin.

Extra Rooms to Stifle Cries.

"At the hotel Thaw had reserved a big suite on the eighteenth floor and had even rented two adjoining rooms which, I think, he did to prevent strangers from hearing the cries which later came from his apartments. It was Gump's first trip away from home. The splendor of his bedroom rather bewildered him, and it was some time before he retired.

"Soon Gump heard his door opened cautiously. Almost immediately the lights were switched on and the terrified lad saw Thaw, armed with a short, stocky whip, rushing for him.

"The boy leaped to his feet, and, dodging Thaw, tried to get out of the door, and even to jump out of a window. All were locked. From that time until Gump was almost insensible his captor drove the young lad around the room, raising great welts across the boy's unprotected back. When he had beaten the boy so that his back and legs were covered with blood, Thaw stopped and quit the room as suddenly as he had entered it. Young Gump lay on the floor all night, and in the morning Thaw again came in, this time accompanied by his body guard. Thaw instructed the guard to keep the boy a prisoner, and then left.

"This was on the morning of Dec. 25—Christmas Day—and about noon the guard took Gump out for a walk. He first threatened him with bodily harm

Wild Machine Gun Rains Bullets on Hartford; Hits Buildings a Mile from Arms Factory

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 9.—Hundreds of lives were endangered and considerable property damage resulted in Hartford's older residence section this afternoon, when a new machine gun, firing 500 bullets a minute, got beyond the control of testers at the proving grounds of the Colt Company. No one was hurt, but the bullets pierced walls as far away as a mile from the factory and many persons narrowly escaped death.

A shower of bullets struck and almost penetrated one of the steel tanks of the Harford City Gas Light Company, about half a mile from the gun, and scattered a group of workmen who were oiling the tank's ways and girder rollers. The dents in the tank are an eighth of an inch deep. Another shower of the bullets struck St. Patrick's Church, a stone edifice, and persons nearby picked up some of the battered bullets which had hit an iron fence.

A crew of roofers working on a new automobile building on Allyn Street fled below when the missiles began to rattle on the roof and whistle around their heads.

The Colt factory is located in the southeastern section of Hartford, about a mile from the most distant point at which a bullet was reported. This was in the office of Dr. Frederick T. Simpson, at 122 High Street, where a bullet crashed through a window and then pierced two walls of the house.

At fire house No. 6, which is very close to the Colt works, the firemen heard a fusillade of shots, which hit the upper portions of the building and pierced the brick walls. The Andrews & Peck Window and Sash Factory also was hit. Several other buildings were reported to the police as having been struck.

Formerly the Colt machine guns and revolvers were tested at a range south of the factory buildings and running southerly along the Connecticut River into the South Meadows, but since the plant has been doing its unprecedented war business several additional ranges have been opened, one of which apparently points toward the section of the city which was bombarded today.

Although the factory managers acknowledged to the police that there had been a miscalculation on the proving range, they were vague in explaining exactly how the gun became unmanageable.

SOLDIER IN ARMORY TIED TO GUN WHEEL

VISITORS SEE HIS PLIGHT

Commanding Officers of Second Field Artillery Explain Offense—Army to Investigate.

A young soldier, Private Max Kelliner of Battery D of the Second New York Field Artillery, was tied for an hour yesterday afternoon to the wheel of a gun carriage in the armory of that command, at 166th Street and Franklin Avenue, the Bronx. From 4 until 5 P. M. he was strapped to the carriage, his arms stretched along the tires of the wheel in "spreadeagle" fashion.

Lieut. Col. Frank H. Hines, who was in command at the armory last night, admitted that the soldier had been tied to the carriage, but insisted that the matter was not important and that the soldier was none the worse for the experience.

The offense for which the soldier is under arrest is not a serious one, according to officers of the regiment, and the reason given for the infliction of the "spreadeagle" punishment was his refusal to perform police duty when ordered to do so by Lieutenant Frank A. Spencer, officer of the day at the armory. Lieutenant Spencer refused to make any statement last night, nor were newspapermen permitted to interview the disciplined soldier.

Six of the enlisted artillerymen are under arrest in the armory, and of these four were concerned in the affair which reached a climax when the man, said to have been Kelliner, was ordered made fast to the wheel on the main drill floor, where his humiliation could be viewed by visitors in the galleries. There were many visitors there yesterday, and scores of them, it is said, saw the soldier with his arms pinioned over the tires of the wheel and commented on the spectacle.

Of the six under arrest, one, a guardsman named Foley, is charged with desertion, and is waiting trial by court-martial. The other five are all charged with minor offenses, such as overstaying leave and overindulgence. The latter charge is the one held against Kelliner.

Only One Case, Commander Says.

According to the story told by some of the enlisted men at the armory, four men were tied to gun carriage wheels by order of Lieutenant Spencer. This statement was denied emphatically by Lieut. Col. Hines, who said that it was true the four offenders had been threatened with that form of punishment, but that in the end three of the men decided to obey Lieutenant Spencer's orders, and thus avoided the public humilitiation to which Kelliner, by his attitude, subjected himself.

Lieutenant Spencer in civil life is a lawyer, with offices at 60 Wall Street. One of his first acts on assuming his duties as officer of the day yesterday was to order the six prisoners to clean the armory. Four of the men rebelled because they said they had had nothing to eat. Until they got something to eat, they asserted, they would refuse to obey the order to work.

"If you don't do as ordered I shall order every one of you strapped to a gun carriage wheel," Lieutenant Spencer is said to have threatened.

The threat did not seem to have any effect, and Lieutenant Spencer, it is said, ordered the guard to get straps ready when he gave the command to tie up the four recalcitrants.

The men saw that the Lieutenant meant what he said, and, according to Lieut. Col. Hines, three submitted and went to work. The other, said to have been Kelliner, refused and his punishment followed.

News that a soldier was tied to a gun carriage on the drill floor of the armory spread through the neighborhood, and in a short time several hundred persons were at the armory. But they were not permitted to view Kelliner long, and the armory was closed to the public late in the afternoon.

When newspapermen got there early in the evening the guard at the door said he had orders from Colonel Hines not to admit them. After a brief argument, in which it was pointed out that unless some officer with authority said something to clear up the report that had come out of the armory the regiment would suffer in public esteem, the newspapermen were permitted to go to Lieut. Col. Hines's office.

"Yes, it is true," said Lieut. Col. Hines, "that one of our enlisted men became a bit too obstinate and we had to punish him. Discipline, you know, is the backbone of military service. As this is not a jail and as we have no irons, it seems that Lieutenant Spencer, the officer of the day, ordered the man tied to the wheel of a gun carriage. He remained strapped to the wheel for only one hour, and was then unstrapped and ordered into solitary confinement, where he now is."

"Some of the enlisted men insist that four men were strapped to wheels," Colonel Hines was told.

"I can assure you that that is absolutely without foundation. Only one man was tied up," he answered.

Says Men Are Well Fed.

"Will you let us interview that man?"

"I am very sorry, but I can't permit that."

"How about the complaint that the men are not getting enough to eat?"

"There is no reason for any such

SUFFRAGISTS WILL PICKET WHITE HOUSE

WILL GUARD ALL EXITS

New Campaign of Militancy Arranged When President Says His Views Are Unchanged.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Women suffragists, representing all parts of the country, disappointed over the result of an appeal which they made this afternoon to President Wilson in the East Room of the White House, held an indignation meeting and decided to adopt a new plan of campaign. They intend to post women pickets hereafter about the White House grounds. Their purpose is to make it impossible for the President to enter or leave the White House without encountering a picket bearing some device pleading the suffrage cause. The pickets will be known as "silent sentinels."

Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch, daughter of Elizabeth Cady Stanton, who presided over the indignation meeting, coined the title of "silent sentinels" for the White House pickets. These silent sentinels, all young women, commencing at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning will take up their stations near the entrances to the White House.

Raise Fund for Sentinels.

At the indignation meeting a subscription list was started to pay the cost of the silent sentinel campaign, to buy umbrellas to protect the sentinels from inclement weather, and pay other expenses. Miss Mary Burnham of Philadelphia started the subscription by giving $1,000. Mrs. Townsend Scott of Baltimore, one of the group of six suffrage leaders who flung their banner from the gallery of the House of Representatives, gave $100. Mrs. William Kent, wife of the independent member of Congress from California, subscribed $100 a month to the silent sentinel cause.

There were 300 suffragists in the delegation that went to the White House to present memorials on the death of Mrs. Inez Milholland Boissevain. The women were admitted by cards, which the White House sent to the headquarters of the Congressional Union yesterday. The delegation was headed by Sara Bard Field of San Francisco, who crossed the continent to present the Boissevain resolutions, which were adopted at a recent mass meeting in California.

Although the White House audience was arranged merely to present the Boissevain memorials, the women made it the occasion to renew their pleas that the President should support the Susan B. Anthony amendment. The President expressed his surprise, reminded the spokesmen of the party that he had not been apprised of their full purpose, and was not prepared to say any more than he had on previous occasions. His speech follows:

"I had not been apprised that you were coming here to make any representations that would issue an appeal to me. I had been told that you were coming to present memorial resolutions with regard to the very remarkable woman whom your cause has lost. I therefore am not prepared to say anything further than I have said on previous occasions of this sort. I do not need to tell you where my own convictions and my own personal purpose lie, and I need not tell you by what circumscriptions I am bound as the leader of a party.

Bound by Party Commands.

"As the leader of a party, my commands come from the party and not from private personal convictions. My personal action as a citizen, of course, comes from no source but my own conviction, and therefore my position has been so frequently defined and I hope so candidly defined, and it is so impossible for me, until the orders of my party are changed, to do anything other than I am doing, as a party leader, that I think nothing more is necessary to be said.

"I do not want to say this. I do not see how anybody can fail to observe from the utterances of the last campaign that the Democratic Party is more inclined than the opposition party to assist in this great cause, and it has been a matter of surprise to me, and a matter of very great regret, that so many of those who were heart and soul for this cause seemed so greatly to misunderstand and misinterpret the attitude of parties. Because in this country, as in every other self-governing country, it is only through the instrumentality of parties that things can be accomplished. They are not accomplished by the individual voice, but by concerted action, and that action must come only so fast as you can concert it. I have done my best and shall continue to do my best to concert it in the interest of the cause in which I personally believe."

Included in the delegation which called on the President were Miss Anne Martin of Nevada, Chairman of the Woman's Party; Miss Ella Riegel of Bryn Mawr, Legislative Chairman of the Pennsylvania Branch of the Congressional Union; Mrs. Townsend Scott, Chairman of the Maryland Branch of the Congressional Union; Mrs. William J. Ewing, Mrs. Howard Schwarz, Miss Eleanor White, and Miss Morris, all of Baltimore; Mrs. Harvey Wiley of the National Advisory Council; Mrs. Frank P. Odenheimer, President General of the Daughters of the Confederacy; Mrs. William Kent, Mrs. Lola P. Thurston, widow of Senator Thurston of Nebraska; Mrs. William Bailey Lamar of Florida, Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch of Kansas; Mrs. Charles Houghton Wood, and Miss Mary Phelps Morgan.

RUSSIAN PREMIER TREPOFF RESIGNS; GOLITZINE NAMED

NEW CHIEF BORN IN PRUSSIA

FOUR PREMIERS IN A YEAR

Trepoff's Appointment Was Regarded as a Victory for People's Representatives.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The Russian Premier, Alexander Trepoff, has resigned.

According to the Reuter correspondent at Petrograd, Count Ignatieff, Minister of Public Instruction, has also resigned.

Senator Kulchitsky has been appointed Minister of Public Instruction; M. Neratoff, Deputy Foreign Minister, has been appointed a member of the Council of the Empire.

The accident of birth may or may not be significant in the appointment of Prince Golitzine or Galtzine, who succeeds M. Trepoff as Premier. He was born in Wiesbaden, Prussia, fifty-six years ago, and in 1887 married Olga Semenovna, who then became known as Princess Dmitri Petrovitch Golitzine-Mouravline. This name "Mouravline" is the pseudonym over which her husband writes.

The Prince has been a member of the Council of Ministers for several years, and has besides held general executive offices principally concerned with charity.

In no European chancellery have so important and repeated changes been made in the last twelve months as in Russia's. The causes are as numerous and conflicting as they are mysterious—the attempt of the Baltic Germanic Russians to control the Czar and Duma, and the final revolt of the latter against the pro-German sentiment of the Stürmer administration last November, which had indicated that Russia was prepared to seek a separate peace.

Within the last fourteen months there have been eight successive holders of the portfolio of the Interior now administered by M. Protopopoff, former Vice President of the Duma, who when he became Minister last Autumn spoke for equal rights for Jews and the immediate renewal of commercial treaties with the United States.

On Feb. 1, 1916, M. Stürmer succeeded M. Goremykine as Premier, and on July 23 he also took over the portfolio of Foreign Affairs from the veteran Sazonoff. In the meantime, on March 29, General Chonvaley replaced General Polivanoff as Minister of War.

The dropping of Sturmer after his defeat in the Duma in the middle of November, and, as it was supposed, of his questionable policies, occurred on Nov. 24, when Alexander Trepoff was appointed to succeed him as Premier, and the next day M. Neratoff, Assistant Minister for Foreign Affairs, was made Foreign Minister. Already on Nov. 9 M. Krivoshein had been relieved of the portfolio of Agriculture.

It appears, however, that there was some hitch to M. Neratoff's appointment, for on Dec. 14 it was officially stated that M. Pokrovsky, Controller of the Empire, had been appointed Foreign Minister, his place being filled by M. Feodossieff, Deputy Minister of Finance.

Nicolas Nicolaievitch Pokrovsky had been for many years in the Financial Department, and has an intimate acquaintance with all the allied statesmen.

On the very day that Germany issued her note inviting the belligerents to a peace conference, Dec. 12, M. Trepoff, in the name of the Czar, reratified the compact of the Entente in a speech to the Duma, and a few days later, before the same body, announced the agreement of the Allies that Russia had a just claim to Constantinople and to the straits leading from the Aegean to the Black Sea.

AUSTRIAN CABINET IS SHAKY.

Czech Parties, by Strong Opposition, Threaten to Wreck It.

BERLIN, Jan. 9, (via London.)—A dispatch to the Tageblatt from Vienna says the Austrian Cabinet, headed by Count Clam-Martiniz, which it had been expected would be able to solve most of the existing problems, appears to be striking snags which day by day grow more difficult to overcome. The Czech parties have suddenly ceased to demonstrate the conciliatory and obliging attitude of confidence which had been expected of them and which was counted upon materially to help in settling many problems.

The Christian Socialists also, says the Tageblatt correspondent, are holding absolutely afloof and refuse to commit themselves to the Government. According to the correspondent, it has now developed that the Germans in the Cabinet joined it only under condition that "the Government supply the prerequisities for parliamentary work," which has not yet been the case.

Finally, says the correspondent, the solution of the Galician problem, which seemed easy, has become extremely difficult, and the Government also finds itself confronted with doubts about the wisdom of the ausgleich (trade agreement) with Hungary, as framed. Thus far, nevertheless, the Government still hopes to find a way out of its difficulties.

Lack of Coal in Europe Becomes a Serious Problem

GENEVA, (via Paris,) Jan. 9.—The European coal situation is becoming a serious economic problem. The Federal Council decided today to reduce railway traffic considerably at an early date, as it is not possible to procure coal from neighboring countries, while English coal is at a very high price.

Italy has not sufficient coal for itself, and France only enough for home consumption. Austria is in the same plight as Switzerland, both of them depending for coal on Germany, the supply of which is from 30 to 40 per cent. less than normal.

ROME CONFERENCE RESULTS REVEALED

Italy Won Over to Allies' Balkan Plan, and General Unity of Action Assured.

ULTIMATUM GOES TO GREECE

Occupation of Kingdom by Italians a Possibility if Constantine Does Not Yield.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Hearty satisfaction is felt here at the turn which events are taking in regard to the Greek situation. When Premier Lloyd George, who returned to London today, left for the Continent a week ago it was known that he was going further afield than Paris, and it was believed that the solution of the Greek problem was the matter uppermost in his mind.

Some people even prognosticated that his determination to carry this particular piece of business to a conclusion would carry him as far as Athens itself, and imaginative minds drew sensational pictures of the British Prime Minister having a heart-to-heart talk with King Constantine. More sober observers, of course, were aware that Rome was the furthest point to which he need go in search of the solution he wanted and which he is believed to have found.

Paris dispatches today state that "Italy has indentified herself with the allied point of view after obtaining the explanations which she asked for."

Common report credits Lloyd George with both the initiative and the chief part in the successful accomplishment of unifying the viewpoint of Italy and that of the three powers guaranteeing the Greek Constitution.

Various reasons have been assigned at one time and other for the hesitations of the allied policy in regard to King Constantine, but the greatest difficulty always has been political and not dynastic. The new ultimatum, calling for the Greek Government's acceptance within forty-eight hours of all demands previously put forward by the Allies, is hailed as a clear indication that the half measures which were used to press the three previous "ultimatums" will no longer be relied upon if Constantine attempts further procrastination and evasion.

Italy is in the best geographical position to deal with the Greek situation if a short way with King Constantine becomes necessary. She has troops available for police duties, her transport problems are slight, and she can strike at a vulnerable point, backed, of course, by the reserve of naval power which the Entente possesses in the Eastern Mediterranean.

Italy, as The Pall Mall Gazette says, "never has been hoodwinked as to the real character of the Government at Athens, and if she once sets her hand to the work of putting things to nought she will not let it be stayed by any false scruples. She would doubtless stipulate that if she is to undertake such an office she must receive a certain freedom. As the exponent of civilized standards in the Balkans she would claim to fill the place that Greece might in happier circumstances have aspired to occupy, and none can say that the ambitions of the latter country have not been rightly forfeited."

The march of events, it is held here, fully justifies the opinion that Venizelos is one of the great statesmen of Europe and that his policy would have obtained for his country all that King Constantine's leaning to Germany is likely to rob it of. D. J. Cassavetti, one of the founders of the Anglo-Hellenic League in London, said in an interview today:

"The appointment as Venizelist diplomatic representatives in the various Entente capitals of old and trusted servants of the Greek Government, as it was at the time when Venizelos was at the zenith of his power, should have a considerable effect in convincing all Greeks of the importance and responsibilities of the Venizelist movement. In addition to this, the visit of so experienced a departmental chief as M. Diomides, who was Finance Minister in the Venizelist Government at the time of the Balkan wars, should help to explain away doubts on the part of those, particularly among the large Greek population in America, who have not yet thrown in their lot with the Provisional Government of Saloniki.

"I attach great importance to this, because I know what a fine body of troops were provided for the Greek Army in the Balkan campaign by American Greeks. No fewer than 50,000, to my knowledge, were mobilized and placed in the field against the Turks and Bulgarians.

"What I think should be made as clear as possible is that the firmer the attitude which is taken against King Constantine now the better the chance the Allies will have to gain a strong accession of valuable fighting men in the Balkans. Thus, I believe that if King Constantine's influence could be relegated south of the Corinth Canal, within a month it might mean the equivalent of 100,000 or 200,000 additional French or British troops in the Balkans."

AGREE ON MACEDONIA.

Rome Conference Decision for More Effective Unity in War.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—The Petit Parisien says the Rome conference of the Entente Allies considered three questions: Concerning Greece, in regard to which Italy hitherto had made certain reservations; concerning the operations on the Macedonian front, and concerning greater and

BETHMANN HOLLWEG TO SPEAK AGAIN ON PEACE PLANS

Special Session of the Reichstag to Hear Him After Allies' Reply to President Wilson.

CENTRIST LEADER HOPEFUL

Dr. Julius Bachem Believes That Peace Will Be Attained Within Present Year.

TALK OF GERARD GOES ON

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 9, (Dispatch to The London Morning Post.)—Private messages from Berlin confirm the news that Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg will deal with the demarches, which have been made in favor of peace, at the next meeting of the Reichstag, which is expected to take place during the present month.

As soon as the reply of the Entente to President Wilson's note has been received, arrangements for this meeting of the Reichstag will be made.

The Chancellor will then explain the further attitude of the Central Powers and address himself especially to the neutral powers which supported President Wilson's step.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 9.—Von Bethmann Hollweg, the German Imperial Chancellor, may be expected to make an important declaration about the middle of the present month, according to a dispatch to the Tijd from Berlin today.

Centrist Leader Expects Peace in 1917

From a Staff Correspondent.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—How the peace leaven continues to ferment public opinion is indicated by the following statement by Dr. Julius Bachem, the Rhenish Centre Party leader:

"None will risk asserting with cocksureness that peace is near, but so much may be said with conviction, that we have come a good step nearer peace. There is no doubt that the Central Powers' peace offer has carried us ahead appreciably on the road to peace without in any way crippling or limiting our ability to bring about peace by force of arms if necessary.

"Everywhere there is talk of peace. In the press the word 'peace' is printed oftener than 'war,' particularly since the neutrals, too, have launched peace action. We don't even need to consider by what feelings toward one or the other warring side neutrals are actuated. Sufficient for the present is the fact that they, too, have raised the peace question. All the world is concerning itself with peace, working and canvassing for it.

"This point of view is in no way altered by the fact that the Entente rejected our peace proposals. One almost wonders they didn't do it more brusquely. If in their answer, at least as to its tone, they preserved a certain moderation, that is an involuntary tribute to the peace idea. All that can matter for the present is whether the populations of the enemy nations or of several of them will, as a result of the peace action, come to a realization of the true state of things.

"A radical change in the present military situation must be regarded as out of the question. To be sure the Entente may, in the course of the Winter, increase its power in men and ammunition, but it will not get ahead of the Central Powers. They will increase their armaments, too, and in a Spring offensive the Entente would simply run against an iron wall.

"The Entente may set up never so high-sounding formulas such as Lloyd George's restitution, reparation, and guarantees; formulas and phrases will not decide the war. It would be strange if 1917 did not bring peace to the world."

BERLIN PAPER DEFENDS OUR MUNITION TRADE

Lokal-Anzeiger Tells "Yankee Haters" It Is Legal and That Germany Has Enemies Enough.

BERLIN, Jan. 9, (via London.)—The delivery of American ammunition to the belligerents is defended by the Lokal-Anzeiger in a half-column article published in connection with its comment upon the sentiments voiced by Ambassador Gerard at the dinner of the American Association of Commerce and Trade. The paper says it has the greatest satisfaction concerning Mr. Gerard's utterances, but some doubt as to the finished diplomacy of some parts of his address. It takes decided issue with that portion of the press which has been more or less savagely criticising him and the whole idea of giving the banquet in his honor.

"There are, unfortunately," says the Anzeiger, "too many people in Germany who regard as degradation any result achieved by yielding and who belittle anything not gained with the fist. Meanwhile the number of Germany's enemies has so increased that it is desirable to build 'golden bridges' for those real or would-be enemies who manifest a desire to revise their earlier opinions."

In its defense of the delivery of American war munitions, after expressing gratification that the tide of criticism in the German press has receded, the Lokal-Anzeiger says:

"It must always be recalled to the German 'Yankee haters' that their standpoint is legally wrong; that The Hague Convention distinctly permits neutrals to make deliveries of ammunition, and that Germany's representatives in that convention expressly opposed changing this clause.

"Despite the large number who loudly proclaim that one more enemy would not harm Germany, there still are wide circles of persons who would like to see the war brought to a close without an accession to the ranks of our enemies, especially of an opponent truly not to be underestimated. For these reasons alone it seems useful to meet half way those who are, or seem to be, ready to work with us and go our way."

The Boersen Zeitung, leading financial organ, seizes upon the dinner given to Ambassador Gerard as an opportunity to discuss peace again.

In its comment on the dinner the Boersen Zeitung says that it is natural that Germany now looks differently upon an America "which has recovered from what may be termed its carouse over its rich war gains than on an America which Germany vainly tried to arouse to a sympathetic understanding of her situation." It goes on:

"Such a speech at the present time is significant. We have always insisted that good relations between Germany and America were important. Ambassador Gerard's words at the present moment, in the presence of the most important German statesmen, industrial leaders and business men, betoken that the leading circles in America understand our situation, that they do not ascribe the guilt for the war to us and that they are seeking to hasten the end.

"We have never expected more from America than that it should continuously guard its own interests from the warring powers instead of strengthening our enemies with temporary advantages. If it is ready to fulfill this really natural duty to itself that is sufficient for us. If God will protect us from our friends we will manage to take care of our enemies."

The Kreuz-Zeitung adopts an entirely different tone and finds Ambassador Gerard's claim that good relations exist between Germany and the United States "remarkable, quite remarkable." The paper then cites categorically some half dozen reasons which it considers cast doubt on the Ambassador's claim. Among these are the delivery of munitions to the Allies, the dismissal by Washington of German and Austrian diplomats, and the opposition of the American Government to submarine warfare.

SPECULATION OVER GERARD.

One Paper Thinks Germans Can Now Begin a Real U-Boat Campaign.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, Jan. 10.—The London Times prints the following from Amsterdam:

"The speech by Mr. Gerard created much speculation which has been increased by a Washington telegram saying that he had been asked [illegible] Government to explain the meaning of the sentence, 'The relations between Germany and America have been at no time since the beginning of the war so friendly as now.' This version appeared in the report of the Lokal-Anzeiger, and much the same appeared in other journals. The Wolff Agency's report, subsequently published, was fuller and said:

"'Many people thought he had not said enough about the relations of America to Germany. He remembered that in his first speech in Germany he repeated Talleyrand's saying:

"'"A diplomat must understand how to keep silence in seven languages." Now, when fourteen States are warring with one another, the number of these languages must be doubled. He could, however, say this much. He had always gladly contributed to the maintenance of good relations between Germany and the United States. These relations had been at no period since the foundation of the German Empire better than now.'"

The Daily Mail's Hague correspondent quotes the Tägliche Rundschau, as saying:

"If we do not use fully any single suitable weapon, we sin so gravely against the existence and future of our people that no foreign good-will and no future friendship can compensate us for it. We hope, therefore, that Mr. Gerard's words are to be interpreted as meaning that relations between Germany and the United States are now so good they can even stand the strain of a certain test if this test should result from the necessities of our defense."

The Daily Chronicle's Amsterdam correspondent says that Count Reventlow in the Tageszeitung works himself into a great rage over Ambassador Gerard's statements on German-American relations.

"In mentioning names," says Count Reventlow, "Mr. Gerard has involved the highest German military commands in political questions and the clash of rival opinions in a manner never to be expected from a foreign Ambassador in the midst of a great war. The activities of our Admirals and Generals have nothing to do with the relations between America and Germany. It is comprehensible that Mr. Gerard should have mentioned the Admirals, but it is none the less strange that he did so. In saying that so long as certain men retained their positions there would be no danger of unfriendly relations, Mr. Gerard's words must be completed thus: 'But if other men come who do not suit us, then—'. The threat is unmistakable."

Count Reventlow goes on: "From the Ambassador's words one must conclude that a far reaching but unpublished agreement exists between Germany and the United States, and the latter country, having reached its political aim regarding Germany, the fact is being celebrated in Berlin by a great demonstration."

There is a feeling in Holland, says the correspondent, that Mr. Gerard is the victim of some possibly accidental misunderstanding by those responsible for giving publicity to the report of the banquet. The correspondent goes on to say that in replying to a toast Mr. Gerard very probably coupled with it the names of certain high officials, and that the atmosphere of cordial courtesy at the banquet may have led to misrepresentations in the summarized reports.

A dispatch to The Daily Telegraph from Rotterdam says:

"Hugo Wolff, foreign editor of the Berliner Tageblatt, wholeheartedly approved Ambassador Gerard's after dinner speech, which demonstrated the necessity of friendly American relations, and he even goes out of his way to justify the United States supplying ammunition to the Allies, pointing out that the custom everywhere is to serve the world without favor."

Suspects Gerard Set Conditions.

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Jan. 9.—In its comment on Ambassador Gerard's speech the Rhenische Westphalische Zeitung says:

"We do not try to overlook the fact that Mr. Gerard attaches conditions which are not unsubstantial to his peace testimony. When he ventures to speak of peace and friendship existing only as long as his official intercourse in Germany is with the men who created the hitherto prevailing political relations of Germany with America, he expresses the opinion that a departure from the lines hitherto followed would endanger German-American relations.

"We suspect such peace messengers. We desire to use our weapons as we are bound to use them in order to settle with our enemies, and when we believe the hour has struck for every British traveler to be ruthlessly sunk by our undersea boats, we cannot answer to God or mankind if we do not do our duty."

The Dusseldorf General Anzeiger says that Count Reventlow's conclusion that apparently America has reached its political aims in regard to Germany is wrong.

"In view of recent events," says the dispatch, "it is more probable that Germany may, in the future, achieve her political aims in regard to America without being hampered by Washington, as has formerly been the case."

VIEWS SPEECH AS A WARNING.

Manchester Guardian Thinks Gerard Cautioned Extremists.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The Manchester Guardian in its comment on Ambassador Gerard's speech in Berlin says it regards it as a plain warning to Germany.

"The versions of the speech deserve careful study," the newspaper declares, "because they throw a good deal of light on the inner mind of diplomats." After quoting the version of the Ambassador's remarks in which he is made to say that so long as Germany's destiny is conducted by her present leaders he did not fear that the relations between Germany and the United States would suffer, The Guardian continues:

"That is the diplomatic way of saying that if more extreme parties came into power, or if the present rulers of Germany yielded to their clamor, he would not like to say what might happen. Evidently Mr. Gerard is anxious to support the Chancellor and his associates against the attacks of the von Tirpitz clique and wild annexationists. And he is anxious to do that because he thinks the triumph of the opposition would mean very serious trouble between Germany and the United States. It is important that the English people should understand the angle at which Mr. Gerard stands."

The Liverpool Post says: "Devious and strange are the ways of diplomacy, abounding in pitfalls for those who walk therein. The usages of diplomatic service no doubt render it inevitable that Mr. Gerard should dissemble what we may take to be his real opinion of Germany so long as he remains United States Ambassador in Berlin, but it is a puzzle to most of us to discover the reason why he should condescend to obsequious after-dinner flattery of that country and its institutions and statesmen, declaring to the world that the relations between the German and American people were never better than at present.

"A conscientious neutral, a conscientious American neutral, who is obliged to give public utterance to such sentiments, if he is obliged, while the Lusitania crime still cries for atonement and neutral ships are at the present time being wantonly sunk by the half dozen at the behest of the 'excellent statesmen and leaders,' is to be pitied."

AUSTRIA GIVES UP PEACE PLEA

Expects No Results from Allies' Reply to President.

VIENNA, Jan. 8, (via London, Delayed.)—The Austrian press has abandoned all hope of peace negotiations and discusses calmly the prospect of a continuance of the war. Emperor Charles's order to the army, informing the soldiers that the Entente had refused to accept the Central Powers' peace offer, is accepted as final, and editorial comment is confined to pointing out that the only course left is to maintain the struggle with the country's maximum effort. No results are expected from the Allies' reply to President Wilson's note, and, as far as the newspapers are concerned, the chapter of the present peace efforts is considered closed.

BAVARIAN KING URGES A PEACE BY CONQUEST

Says It "Must Be Honorable, Lasting, and Worth Gigantic Sacrifices."

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 9, (via London.)—The Munich correspondent of the Düsseldorf General Anzeiger, a copy of which has been received here, quotes the following address delivered by the King of Bavaria on the occasion of a garrison parade in honor of his birthday, Jan. 7:

"Although we are victorious, the German Emperor, in agreement with his allies, offered to conclude a peace. The offer was rejected.

"We know what we have to do: We must continue the fight until our enemies are obliged to ask us for peace, which must be honorable, lasting, and worth gigantic sacrifices. It was not we who started the terrible war. We have shown our enemies what it means when the German Empire and its allies are attacked."

CHARGE OF TOMMIES ENDS PEACE MEETING

Soldiers Eject Ramsay Macdonald and Mrs. Snowden from London Suburban Hall.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—A whirlwind rush by soldiers in khaki wound up an attempt to hold a peace meeting tonight at a hall in Walthamstow, on the outskirts of London. James Ramsay Macdonald, a Labor member of Parliament, and Mrs. Philip Snowden, wife of a pacifist member of Parliament, who herself recently visited America on a peace errand, were hustled off the platform by the soldiers, who, after clearing the hall of all pacifists, turned the affair into a meeting to push the war to a relentless end.

Mr. Macdonald, expecting to reserve for himself the opportunity of closing the meeting with a speech, allowed Mrs. Snowden to take the platform first. She launched into an impassioned demand for peace, while Mr. Macdonald acted as Chairman. She was unable to say very much, as the throng kept interrupting her, while Mr. Macdonald banged on the table, trying to keep order, so that she might be heard.

Mrs. Snowden was attempting to reply to a woman in the crowd of a thousand who wanted to know why she had been in America asking for funds for prospecting a peace campaign when suddenly through the main doorway popped twenty-five soldiers in uniform. Looking as if they meant business, they started through the main aisle when a cry went up: "Three cheers for Tommy!" Nearly the whole of the audience rose and cheered frantically, while others with peace sympathies tried to howl them down.

Mrs. Snowden stood with her face livid and hands thrust in the pockets of her jacket, regarding the soldiers, while Mr. Macdonald waved his arms in the air, trying to restore quiet.

The soldiers, led by a young Canadian Sergeant Major, looked at Mr. Macdonald for a moment and then made a rush for the platform. In an instant the hall was in furious confusion.

The Sergeant Major, his lips compressed and his eyes blazing, edged his way to the platform, and, taking Mr. Macdonald by the sleeve, urged him to make his escape from the hall.

"I won't do it!" shouted Macdonald. "This is a meeting of free Britons, and we won't let any one interrupt us."

"If you don't go quietly, we'll have to put you out," said the soldier, firmly.

Macdonald defiantly replied that he would not go, and shouted to Mrs. Snowden and the others on the platform to "stand by their guns."

Amid the uproar the soldiers formed a line and charged slowly, but resistlessly, upon the platform. Macdonald tried to cling to the edge of the table, but it was swept away and he was pushed rapidly off the platform. Mrs. Snowden, who had not had a chance to utter another word, backed quietly off the platform, with the soldiers in front of her. They politely insisted that it would be better if she took the hint and left the hall.

While the soldiers were clearing the platform the whole hall was in a wild riot. Benches were overturned by the crowd in a rush either to get out or to press to the platform, and women's muffs and men's hats were lost in the scuffle

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, who had been sitting at a table before the platform, had just time enough to step aside before the onslaught of soldiers. He saw the table thrown into the air and falling with a crash. The last he saw of Mrs. Snowden she was disappearing, pale faced, through the main doorway, with Mr. Macdonald just ahead of her. Nothing more was heard of her or Macdonald in Walthamstow after that, but it is said that they hastened back to London in a taxicab, thoroughly disgusted.

After the hall had been cleared of pacifists, many of whom reluctantly allowed themselves to be pushed through the doorway, the soldiers took charge of the meeting, and, after singing "God Save the King!" made speeches one after another for an hour and a half. Not one peace advocate tried to get back into the hall.

THINKS PEACE DEADLOCKED.

Van Dyke Does Not See Why Wilson Note Was Misunderstood.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 9.—With reference to the questions raised in the Dutch Parliament regarding the manner in which President Wilson's note was transmitted to the Dutch Government, the United States Minister, Dr. van Dyke, made the following statement today:

"The Dutch Minister is absolutely correct in saying that I handed to him President Wilson's note of Dec. 18 without any request or suggestion that the Netherlands Government support it. I did so because I was so instructed by my Government. I was told to transmit the note simply as a matter of information; no request was added.

"The reason therefor is because the American Government understands the delicate and difficult position of the Netherlands Government in the midst of the present war, and will not urge, nor even ask, it to do anything it does not judge wise, prudent, and helpful. I have done my best to promote this right understanding of Holland's position in the United States, and shall continue to do so. I have no knowledge of any instructions from Washington regarding the manner of delivering the President's note at Madrid.

"What I cannot understand is the general misunderstanding of the note. It is expressly declared that it was not an offer of mediation nor a proposal of peace. It was simply a suggestion that the belligerents on both sides should state the terms on which they would be willing to consider and discuss peace. The Entente has already done this with some clearness, and will probably soon do so even more clearly. The Central Powers have politely, even affectionately, but very practically, declined the President's invitation to state their terms. That deadlocks the peace talk at present. When both sides are equally frank, the world can judge whether peace, which all just men desire, is near or far away."

NOTE FROM GREECE RECEIVED.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—A note from King Constantine of Greece to President Wilson, indorsing the President's "peace note" to the belligerent nations, was received and translated today. The text follows:

"Athens, Dec. 29, 1916.

"Mr. President:

"I desire to express to you, Mr. President, my sentiments of sincere admiration and of heartfelt sympathy for the generous initiative that you have taken with a view of determining whether this is not a propitious moment to undertake a negotiation that might put an end to the sanguinary struggle which is devastating the earth.

"Coming from a statesman who in this critical period of humanity is at the head of the great American Republic, your humanitarian efforts, prompted by a spirit of high political sagacity and looking to a peace honorable for all, can only contribute notably to hastening the re-establishment of normal conditions and to assuring in a permanent state of international relations the evolution of humanity toward progress in which the United States of America have at all times taken a large part.

"Greece, more than any other neutral country, has suffered in this world-wide crisis; without being a belligerent, she has known the horrors of war; for more than a year since the landing of the allied troops at Saloniki the entire territory of Macedonia has been invaded on all sides by the opposing armies, which entered the cities and ports, suppressed the authorities of the country, and even seized war material therein. Long before this the islands and ports of Greece were occupied by foreign fleets, and this desire of the powers to insure the safety of the allied armies operating in Macedonia, which no one in Greece had any thought of threatening, has brought about the guarantees that have been required and furnished, even to measures of violence and coercion, after thrusting themselves into the domestic life of the country, abolishing, in fact, the functioning of the constitutional powers. Our fleet has been sequestrated and our army, reduced so as hardly to suffice for the preserving of order, has been forced to disperse and withdraw toward the south.

"A misunderstanding which we, ourselves, were the first to regret and which resulted in a sanguinary conflagration when the foreign battalions attempted to occupy the heights dominating the capital, even provoked a bombardment of an open city and of my palace.

"At the present time, in spite of the acceptance of the last ultimatum, a so-called pacific blockade has been established over the Greek coasts and islands, intercepting all communication and all commerce, even with neutral countries, and exposing the entire population of the country to starvation.

"We proposed a mixed commission of inquiry which would have laid the responsibility where it belonged, and we were ready to accept its verdict in advance. We have never received a reply. As if that were not enough a violent revolt has been added to a movement which in the beginning appeared to have as an object co-operation in the war with the hope of spreading to the capital when the sailors that had been landed marched against Athens after having spread terror throughout our new provinces where action on our part was rendered impossible. The revolt was easily repressed, thanks to the loyalty of almost the whole of the Greek nation faithfully devoted to her institutions.

"Such are the conditions in which your proposal finds my country. This succinct and necessarily incomplete picture is not intended to be a criticism of the cruel attacks on her sovereignty and neutrality, the effects of which Greece has been obliged to suffer.

"I have only desired to show you, Mr. President, how much the soul of Greece aspires to peace at the present time and how greatly she appreciates your proposal, which marks so important a stage in the course of the sanguinary, world-wide tragedy which we are witnessing. CONSTANTINE R."

SULTAN CALLS ON GOD TO HELP DESTROY FOES

Tells His Army Responsibility for Further Bloodshed Rests on the Allies.

LONDON, Wednesday, Jan. 10.—A Constantinople dispatch received by Reuter by way of Amsterdam gives the text of a proclamation of the Sultan to the army, in which, after recalling the peace offer of the Central Powers, he says:

"The enemy countries, disregarding the serious intention and sublime spirit of our purpose, disdainfully rejected our offer, and we are obliged, with our allies, to continue the war, leaving to the enemy the moral and material responsibility of fresh bloodshed and the ruin of homes."

The Sultan assures the Turkish soldiers that during the war they have "brilliantly enhanced the venerated name of Ottomanism," and expresses the conviction that "with the aid of the Almighty we shall obtain final victory and deliver our country from the avidity of our enemies."

"Henceforth, with our allies," he continues, "we will redouble our zeal and efforts in order, with the aid of God, to destroy our enemies everywhere."

China Indorses Peace Note.

PEKING, Jan. 9.—Wu-Ting-Fang, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has sent to Dr. Paul Reinsch, the American Minister, a reply to President Wilson's peace note, asserting that China is probably the greatest neutral sufferer from the war because her economic and industrial reforms require the assistance of other powers. It adds that China is sympathetic with President Wilson's desire for the restoration of peace and with an arrangement which would uphold the equality of all the nations.

MITAU MENACED BY RUSSIAN ARMY

Czar's Forces in New Offensive on Riga Front Only 12 Miles from German Base.

BIG HAUL OF PRISONERS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 9, (Dispatch to The London Morning Post.)—In the region of a score of miles around Mitau fighting is going on with but a few and brief periods of so-called tranquillity. For eighteen months past Mitau has been a very important strategic point, inasmuch as the Germans have filled it with stores and it is the junction of half a dozen railroads and roads running to all points of the compass, besides standing on the River Aa, which is navigable.

During the last few days renewed activity is being reported in the region lying between the Aa and Dvina. The Germans attacked as usual toward Riga, taking advantage of heavy frosts having rendered the vast marsh of Tirul less impassable than customary. It appears that the Germans again had been promised for the third Winter in succession comfortable Winter quarters and an ample food supply if the weary soldiers would only make yet another last effort and gain the promised land of Riga.

According to the last information I had from this front, the enemy were not supplied with Winter equipment, and for the most part were bootless and clothed in the rags of their worn-out Summer kits. Either their present activity is an effort of desperation or reinforcements have arrived. In any case, the affair, which a couple of days ago seemed merely an affair of outposts and artillery duelling, is now developing into what may perhaps prove to be a very important move.

The Russians very promptly replied to the German attack and, pushing steadily along the east bank of the Aa, captured triple positions of the enemy after hard fighting. Quarter was given to some thousands of prisoners. Sixteen guns, including the whole of one heavy battery, were taken. The movement still continues, and the Russians are within a dozen miles of Mitau, which appears to be their immediate objective.

There is no official confirmation yet of a statement current here in private circles that this very important forward base of the enemy has been captured, nor are we allowed to know what forces are engaged in this region. It is the general opinion, however, that an important movement is in progress.

This is more than probable in view of the season of the year. After a rainy Summer operations of the war on any scale are not very feasible, and in the Spring will be impossible in these regions. It is therefore likely enough that the Russians, who are thoroughly well equipped for a Winter campaign, are on the move on the northern flank once more. Hard fighting has been in progress for three days already, and the balance of success is largely on the Russian side in an operation which admittedly is only beginning.

German Offensive Repulsed.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 9, (British Admiralty, per Wireless Press.)—German troops on the northern end of the Russian front launched an offensive on the positions south of Lake Babit, in the Riga region recently taken by the Russians, but, according to today's War Office announcement, were thrown back under the fire of the Russian guns and infantry counterattacks. The Russians, by a surprise attack, recaptured the Island of Glaudon, which they lost recently and took seven machine guns and four trench mortars from the Germans, afterward repulsing a counterattack The statement reads:

South of Lake Babit, to the west of Riga, the Germans, after strong artillery fire, undertook an offensive on our new positions in the vicinity of the village of Kalnzen, but, as a result of our fire and counterattack, the enemy was thrown back.

After artillery preparation, our detachments, at 11 A. M., attacked the enemy who was occupying an island in the western Dvina, east of Glaudon, to the north of Dvinsk. The attack was so sudden that the enemy's curtain of fire came too late. The Germans could not resist and, preparing to flee, were routed by shrapnel fire from our flank sectors. The island is occupied by our detachments. On it we captured seven machine guns, four trench mortars, and seventeen prisoners.

After artillery preparation the enemy took the offensive in that sector of our position northeast of Chelvov, but being met by our fire, was driven back into his intrenchments.

During the evening yesterday enemy aeroplanes dropped bombs on Lutsk.

BERLIN, Jan. 9, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—The Russians renewed their attacks yesterday on the northern end of the Russo-Galician front, near the Gulf of Riga. Today's official report says:

Front of Prince Leopold.—Clear weather favored the activity of the artillery at various places.

Renewed hostile attacks on both sides of the River Aa were completely repulsed. Night attacks by Russian raiding detachments, between Friedrichstadt and the Mitau-Olai Road, were without success.

The Russians, during a heavy snowstorm, succeeded in recapturing the small island of Glaudon, north of Illukst, taken from them on Jan. 4. A further Russian advance against the west bank of the Dvina was prevented.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The Russians are preparing to launch a great new offensive in the Riga sector, according to a Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company, quoting German newspaper correspondents on the eastern front. The Russian troops are said to be equipped with great quantities of munitions and backed by large reserves. Near Mitau and south of Riga the artillery fire is reported to have constantly increased on both side during the last few days and to have now become extremely violent. The weather is frosty and clear, and the country covered with snow.

The correspondent of the Täglische Rundschau says that the Russians attempted a surprise, on Sunday, near the Riga bridgehead. Great masses of the attackers, with white shirts over their uniforms, succeeded during a violent snowstorm in entering the German trenches on a front of a thousand meters. The correspondent says that evidently an attempt was being made to break through the road between Mitau and Riga.

The Germans, seeing the danger, sent all available reserves into the battle, which reached a pitch of tremendous fury. The two armies fought with bombs and bayonets until sunset when, according to the correspondent, the Russians retreated to their previous positions, over the snow that had been reddened with blood.

BATTLES ON BORDER HILLS

Teuton Forces Trying to Break Into Moldavia Make Progress in Kasino Valley.

BERLIN, Jan. 9, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—Desperate fighting in the valleys leading into the interior of Northern Rumania is reported in today's War Office communication. Notwithstanding determined Russian resistance, the Teutonic troops stormed defenses on both sides of the Kasino and Suchitza valleys. Field Marshal von Mackensen's troops have captured the Rumanian town of Galreaska, and taken more than 5,400 prisoners. The statement reads:

Front of Archduke Joseph—The enemy is tenaciously defending the valleys leading from the Bereczk Mountains into the Moldavian plain.

In spite of unfavorable weather and the most difficult terrain in the rugged wooded mountains, our troops are pushing back the enemy every day, step by step. Again yesterday, on both sides of the Kasino and Suchitza valleys, positions strongly constructed and with barbed-wire defenses were taken by storm and in hand-to-hand fighting, and maintained despite desperate counterattacks.

Army Group of Field Marshal von Mackensen—Taking advantage of their victory, the German and Austro-Hungarian troops advanced further to the north, defeated hostile rearguards, and reached the Putna sector, where the enemy holds the opposite bank in a new position.

On both sides of Fundeni, the Russians were driven into the Crangeni-Nanesti line. Galreaska was captured by storm and hand-to-hand fighting, and maintained against nocturnal attacks.

The booty and prisoners reported taken yesterday have reached a total of 99 officers, 5,400 men, 3 cannon, and 10 machine guns.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 9.—The Russians along one sector of the front of Rumania have fallen back without hindrance by the Teutonic forces, to new positions along the line of the Putna and Sereth Rivers, the War Office announced today. On the Moldavian west frontier, attacks in the Oituz and Suchitza valleys were beaten off, but the Rumanians were forced back slightly in the Kasino Valley. The statement reads:

Rumanian Front—The enemy attacked a sector of our position south of the Oituz River. All the attacks were beaten back.

The enemy attacked and slightly pressed back the Rumanians six versts west of Monestar-Kachinul, on the River Kasino.

Our troops, without interference from the enemy's flank, took up new positions along the line of the Rivers Putna and Sereth.

RUMANIA ACCUSES TEUTONS OF CRUELTY

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Official text of the protest addressed by the Rumanian Government to neutral representatives at Bucharest and complaining of the violation of "all the laws of war" by Germany arrived in Washington today. The protest was made before the capture of Bucharest by the forces of the Central Empires.

The complete text of the Rumanian protest follows:

"Since the day Rumania declared herself in a state of war with Austria-Hungary, Bulgarian troops, after having attacked without declaring war, have continued, with the assistance of her allies, their struggle against Rumania in successively violating all the laws of war.

"Putting aside for the moment the horrible atrocities committed on the Rumanian troops and population in the Dobrudja as well as the employment of means of destruction forbidden by international conventions, not to speak of the manner in which the enemy has carried on the aerial struggle in regard to us, we address ourselves to neutral States to whom devolves under the present circumstances the honor and the duty to raise thir voice in favor of the principles of justice and humanity which should guide civilized nations in time of war, and we bring to their knowledge the following:

"German aviators do not cease day or night to throw bombs on the town of Bucharest without having succeeded in producing other results than that more than 250 innocent victims, dead and wounded, of which more than 200 are women and children, and among the other victims several invalids and cripples because more than fifty-eight bombs were thrown on hospitals, almshouses, and workhouses. This act is repeated almost daily in different open towns in the country.

"The representatives of foreign powers present in the capital of the kingdom have been in a position to verify this themselves, and have doubtless informed their Governments.

"In exposing these reiterated violations of the right of war the Rumanian Government believes it has the right to hold Germany directly responsible. In effect it is German aeroplanes which fly over our towns. It is under orders from German commandants that the enemy armies are operating on the two fronts. Therefore, inasmuch as Germany is one of the powers who signed the convention of The Hague, she cannot avoid the responsibility which falls on her owing to her contempt of the laws of justice which the International Conference set down with a view to reducing to a strict minimum the evils of war in assuring loyalty of fighting, in limiting it to belligerent armies, in putting civil populations who are unable to defend themselves, institutions of charity and culture, monuments of art which are the fruit of pacific work of civilization, in shelter from useless destruction from the point of view of the results of the war, as well as in the interest of neutral States that this way of making war should be stigmatized by all those who hold in honor the veneration of right and respect of treaties.

"For this reason the Rumanian Government protested with the strongest energy against the reprehensible acts which have been above stated, in addition on account of their abomination are of a nature to provoke dangerous counterstrokes and to sow among the peoples sentiments of hatred and vengeance on which one cannot found anything lasting or useful to humanity."

WARNINGS OF U-BOATS SENT FROM CAPE RACE

Officers of Ships Arriving Here Report British Admiralty Radios—Seven Vessels Missing.

Officers of incoming steamships from European ports said yesterday that the British Admiralty was still sending out warnings from Cape Race, N. F., to look out for U-boats on the Atlantic.

It is believed that the Voltaire, Georgic, and five other missing steamships have been torpedoed and sunk 400 to 500 miles from the Irish coast and that their crews have been left to their fate in open boats.

Nothing has been heard of the German raider, about which warnings were recently issued, since she stopped the steamship Samland, on Dec. 4, about 900 miles west of the Fastnet. According to the Captain's report, a German officer boarded his ship, and after examining the papers, ordered the wireless apparatus to be taken down and threw it overboard. Then he returned to the supposed raider and permitted the steamship to proceed on her way to Rotterdam.

"As regards Greece," this newspaper says, "Italy accepted the point of view of her allies after having obtained the explanations she desired. The agreement as to the operations in Macedonia also is complete, thanks largely to the presence of General Sarrail (the Entente commander on the Macedonian front) and General Cadorna, (the Italian Commander in Chief,) and Great Britain, Russia, France, and Italy will apply one policy toward Greece and toward making the necessary effort at Saloniki.

"We are obliged to maintain the closest reserve as to the organization of allied resources in men and material, as well as their distribution among the different sectors of the single front, but we can say that exchanges of material among the allied countries will be intensified methodically and regularly.

"As to effectives, the decisions naturally are bound up with the plans of action discussed at the meetings which were held by military chiefs apart from the political conferences in Rome."

While on his way back from Paris, from the Rome conference, Premier Briand made the following statement at Turin to a correspondent of the Petit Journal:

"All the chiefs of the Allied Governments decided to maintain the strictest reserve as to the character and scope of the decisions reached at the conference. I may say, however, that during the discussions we found that an absolute agreement existed among the Allies. We decided to accentuate still further the co-ordination of our efforts.

"Such was the principal object of the conference, and it has been realized. I am personally highly satisfied with the results of our meetings, and after the conference at Rome I have more than ever a deep conviction of our ultimate victory."

After the Premier's arrival in Paris another brief council was held by the French Ministers, in the waiting room, at the railroad terminus.

Why Conference Was Held in Rome.

According to private dispatches received in New York, the allied conference was held in Rome at the earnest solicitation of Premier Boselli and Foreign Secretary Sonnino, in order to counteract the effect of the propaganda that Joseph Caillaux has been conducting in Italy, with the support of Italian neutralists, advancing that the time had come for Italy and France to withdraw from the war and leave England and Russia to fight it out.

This propaganda, it is authoritatively stated, while having had no perceptible effect on the Italian mind, has been so reported abroad as to lead foreigners to suppose that the people of Italy regarded it in a sympathetic and ever-encouraging manner.

Moreover, certain French and English military leaders had criticised the Italian General Staff for not having co-operated better with the Allies at Saloniki; particularly when the Serbo-French lines advanced north of Monastir. This co operation should have been performed by the 360,000 Italian troops at Avlona, only 120 miles away. On the other hand, it was pointed out that these troops could not become operative until all danger had been removed of any attack on the right flank by the loyal troops of King Constantine, and that France and England had undertaken to remove this danger through either diplomacy or force, but had not done so.

The private advices referred to also confirm the expressions of the Italian press cabled to this country to the effect that David Lloyd George dominated the conference from first to last. He opened on the council table, it is said, a complete scheme dealing with the Greek embroglio, with the aspects of the Greek King and his loyalists, of Venizelos and his provisional army, and with the inactivity of General Sarrail at Saloniki and of General Piacentini at Avlona, and his plan was enthusiastically accepted.

TROOPS LEAVING THESSALY.

Armed Women Replacing Guards on Railroads and Bridges.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Dispatches from Athens say that the ultimatum of the Entente Powers handed to the Athens Government today, which gives Greece forty-eight hours to comply with the demand contained in their note of Dec. 31, guarantees in the event of compliance that there shall be no extension of the revolutionary movement.

The withdrawal of Greek troops from Thessaly has virtually been completed, it is said. Women armed with rifles are replacing the guards on the railroads, bridges, and passes.

SWISS READY TO FIGHT FOR THEIR NEUTRALITY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—The Matin publishes an interview with General Wille, Commander in Chief of the Swiss Army, regarding the rumors of threatened violation of Swiss neutrality by Germany.

"It goes without saying," said the General, "that when rumors of an impending German offensive across Swiss territory were circulated we felt some anxiety. We believe now that our anxieties were unjustified. According to information furnished our General Staff, the Germans don't harbor the intention of advancing their troops across Swiss territory to fall on the flank of the French and Italians.

"However, you may be certain that in case our neutrality were violated by one of the belligerents, whoever he might be, the Swiss army would do its duty to the end without wavering, and in strict co-operation with the adversaries of its enemies, who would automatically become our allies. The entire Swiss army is firmly resolved to defend its national patrimony against whoever attacks it. The honor of the army is inviolable. The confederation is neutral and intends defending its neutrality against all comers. Furthermore, in consequence of the alarmist rumors which were circulated lately, we have not only redoubled our vigilance, but have also taken precautions where we thought them necessary.

"Make it clear to the French that the doubts expressed here and there regarding the sentiments prevailing in the Swiss General Staff have no serious basis. The Swiss army is ever at its post of action, ready for all sacrifices for the honor of the country."

Wilson Thanks Switzerland.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—President Wilson today personally thanked Dr. Paul Ritter, the Swiss Minister, for the offer of the Swiss Government to cooperate with the United States in the President's suggestion to the belligerents that they state their peace terms. Dr. Ritter called at the White House, and discussed the prospects for peace for twenty minutes.

LITTLE FIGHTING IN FRANCE.

Trench Raids and Intermittent Artillery Bombardments Reported.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—The official communication issued tonight by the War Office reads:

In Champagne an engagement between patrols occurred west of Navarin.

In Alsace, in the region of the Rhone-Rhine Canal, our artillery fire destroyed an enemy supply depot near Illfurt. The cannonade was intermittent on the rest of the front.

The War Office announced this afternoon that north of the Oise, after a lively bombardment last night, the Germans attempted unsuccessfully to raid a French trench north of Ribecourt. On the rest of the front calm prevailed during the night.

SERBIAN MINISTER IS SURE OF VICTORY

Mr. Mihailovitch Comes Here Confident the Allies Will Restore Small Nations.

VOICES HOPE FOR PEACE

But It Must Be on a Basis of Justice and Freedom—New Envoy's Extensive Career.

Lioubomir M. Mihaïlovitch, newly-appointed Serbian Minister to the United States, arrived here yesterday on the American Line steamship St. Paul. He will remain in New York for a short time before proceeding to Washington. He is stoping at the Holland House.

"It is undeniable that all we Allies are wishing for peace—but a peace which will be on a basis of justice and freedom," said he. "However, one ought not forget who brought on this war. Serbia has been the country that has made concessions up to the last limits in order to preserve peace. We have full confidence in the ultimate result, so much the more so because all neutrals are sure to be on our side, which is fighting for justice and for the freedom of all great or small States, which may prevent similar aggressions and wrongs in the future."

Affairs in Serbia have been growing worse, according to Minister Mihaïlovitch, who said there was ever present the need for food and clothing. Fortunately, through the help of American scientists, typhus has been stamped out. When peace is declared, Mr. Mihaïlovitch said, the Allies will immediately set about the restoration of Serbia as well as Belgium. Already means to restore the devastated country are being considered by the allied Governments as well as by Serbia.

Minister Mihaïlovitch took occasion to deny vehemently that there were any Serbians who felt that they had been neglected by the allied Governments when the Germans overran their country. Generally it was believed that the Allies had done everything possible. Serbia successfully had met the first onset of the Austrian forces. They even hoped for victory over the German troops, but then the unexpected happened.

When the terms of the Allies finally are made known, according to the Serbian Minister, his Government will expect one great concession:

"It is the unification of the Serbian race, which now is divided in various countries. Serbia's ambition is to see a consolidation of the Slavs of the South."

Mr. Mihaïlovitch is a man of medium height and of athletic build. He has a ruddy complexion, and his most distinctive features are quick, black eyes and a black mustache. Mr. Mihaïlovitch is 45 years old and unmarried.

He was graduated from the University of Belgrade, where he studied law. His education was finished in Paris. For the last eighteen years he has been in the diplomatic service, for the most part in the provinces inhabited by Serbians formerly under Turkish Government. At the beginning of the war he was at Rome as Chargé d'Affaires. Later he was sent as Minister to Montenegro. He went to France when the Serbian capital was removed from Belgrade.

BELGIAN KIDDIES, LTD., A NEW RELIEF SOCIETY

Mining Engineers Organize to Assist in Work of Feeding the Children of That Land.

The starving children of Belgium have a new American friend. It is the Belgian Kiddies, Limited, and its promoters are mining engineers of the United States. The new organization, which will work through the Belgian Relief Commission, of which Herbert C. Hoover, himself an eminent mining engineeer, is Chairman, wants funds to guarantee every child in Belgium at least one meal a day.

The idea originated with D. H. Browne of the International Nickel Company.

Last night at the annual dinner of the Mining and Metallurgical Society, held at the Engineers' Club, 32 West Fortieth Street, the new organization was formally indorsed, and Mr. Browne told of the plans. J. R. Finlay, the retiring President, who acted as toastmaster, also eulogized the work of Mr. Hoover.

Mr. Browne explained that the work would have no overhead charges, so that every dollar contributed would go for actual relief. The plan is to issue "stock" at a par value of $12 a share. Members of the American Institute of Mining Engineers will co-operate in the movement.

The public interested may contribute by sending sums in the care of the Belgian Relief Commission, 120 Broadway. Neither the amount already subscribed or that hoped for was disclosed last night.

SAYS SHAUGHNESSY WILL RULE IRELAND

Canadian Peer Reported Chosen to Solve Island's Problem as Lord Lieutenant.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9. — John Callan O'Laughlin, in a special dispatch from Montreal to The Herald, says that Lord Shaughnessy, railroad builder and the only Canadian who is a member of the British House of Peers—the same Shaughnessy who was born in Milwaukee of Irish parentage on Oct. 6, 1853, and who began his railroad career in the purchasing department of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway—has been picked by the powers that be in England to solve the Irish problem.

Lord Shaughnessy, in Montreal today, would neither affirm nor deny the truth of the statement. But he did not deny—and this will be news to America and England alike—that he had been offered a place in the new British Cabinet. This proffer he declined, but it is said that within two months he will return to England, and it is intimated that he will be appointed Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

Lord Shaughnessy declined today to give his views on the Irish question. The Herald correspondent learned, however, that he believed the problem offered no insuperable difficulty. Under the plan proposed, the different counties would have local Parliaments, and there would be in addition a general Irish Parliament, and an Irish Ministry, under a constitution similar to that of Canada.

BARONESS ACCUSED OF $125,000 SWINDLE

DEFENDANT NOW MISSING

Miss Shaver Charges "Baroness May de Pallandt" Conspired to Get Her Estate.

A richly-gowned woman, known here and abroad as the Baroness May de Pallandt and also as the Baroness de Pallant Van Eerde, divorced wife of a wealthy Dutch nobleman, whose sister was the Baroness Greenings Van Zoellen, lady-in-waiting to the Dowager Queen of Holland, disappeared suddenly from the Hotel Savoy yesterday afternoon after a hearing before Supreme Court Justice Cohalan in which she was charged with defrauding the daughter of a wealthy Pittsburgh man out of $125,000.

Coupled with the accusations made before Justice Cohalan in behalf of Miss Frank Gray Shaver, who charged that the Baroness and others conspired to get from her all the property she received from her father, were allegations that the Baroness was "a most dangerous woman." It was also charged that a police record concerning an act committed in San Francisco had been offered in evidence in the London courts two years ago in a suit against her. The Baroness, according to papers in the case, has denied that she had been arrested for larceny in San Francisco in 1889 and had skipped her bail and fled to China.

The charges of conspiracy against the Baroness de Pallandt also centred around her brother, Jean Dugas of Menominee, Mich., where the Baroness was born, and Miss Daisy H. Andrews, a play broker and one time agent in this country for the late George Edwardes, London musical comedy producer. She went into bankruptcy in March, 1915, owing $131,459, after Cartier's, the jewelry firm, got a judgment against her for $6,210 for a marquise ring which figures in the accusations of Miss Shaver against the Baroness. Jean Dugas, brother of the Baroness, is said to have proposed marriage to Miss Shaver after a courtship which was stated to be part of the conspiracy to get Miss Shaver's money.

The history of the Baroness, part of which became known in the trial of the suit brought in London by Dr. Ernest Villiers Appleby, former lecturer at the University of Minnesota and son of Archdeacon Appleby of St. Paul, to recover $20,000 from her, with many hitherto unknown facts concerning the defendant, was made known before Supreme Court Justice Cohalan just before 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Shortly after that hour the Baroness paid her bill at the Hotel Savoy and had her trunks checked to the Grand Central Terminal. The hotel management said she left no forwarding address.

The Baroness had been living at the Savoy for three months under the name of Mrs. de P. Eerde. She had with her a three months' old child. Her presence at the hotel had been discovered by a woman detective employed by the law firm of Young & Hughes of 2 Rector Street. Assuring herself of the identity of the woman the detective entered an elevator in the hotel with her and served her while they were ascending. The Baroness tossed back the papers and insisted that she wasn't served.

The action pending before Justice Cohalan is an application by Miss Shaver to continue an injunction restraining the Baroness from disposing of 160 shares of Westinghouse Air Brake stock, which she has been trying to induce the Equitable Trust Company, agent for the Westinghouse Company, to transfer to one E. A. Morrisey. Miss Shaver had been hunting for the Baroness since last March, but got no trace of her until Dec. 20 last, when her attorneys were notified that the Baroness was insistent that the stock be transferred, and had threatened litigation if it wasn't done. Miss Shaver's attorneys at once got a temporary injunction preventing the Baroness and the Westinghouse Company from making any disposition of the stock.

James A. Hughes, who appeared for Miss Shaver yesterday, told Justice Cohalan that the proceedings here were only a side issue to a $125,000 fraud action against the Baroness brought a few months ago in the Circuit Court in Michigan, which is to go to trial on Jan. 22, and was brought for the purpose of saving the only property standing in the name of the Baroness which has not already been disposed of.

REPORTS U-BOAT SANK 3 WAR CRAFT IN WEEK

Berlin Tells of Feat of Submarine in Mediterranean—The Gaulois One of Its Victims.

BERLIN, Jan. 9, (via London.)—An official statement issued today by the German Admirality announcing the sinking of the French armored cruiser Gaulois and the British transport Ivernia, previously reported officially from Paris and London, says that a German submarine on Jan. 3 sank, in the Mediterranean, an armed and heavily laden transport steamer of about 6,000 tons. The text of the statement reads:

"One of our submarines, commanded by Lieutenant Steinbauer, sank with a torpedo on Dec. 7 in the Aegean the convoyed French ship of the line Gaulois. The same submarine sank on Jan. 1 in the Mediterranean the fully laden English troop transport Ivernia, which was convoyed by destroyers, and on Jan. 3 it sent to the bottom an armed and heavily laden transport steamer of about 6,000 tons."

SAY SPANISH CRISIS IS DUE TO GERMANS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, Jan. 10.—Count Romanones, the Spanish Premier, tendered his resignation yesterday. The King refused to accept it.

The Daily Mail says:

"The action of the Spanish Premier, Count Romanones, in tendering his resignation follows on violent attacks on his ministry by German agents and the pro-German press which have been made since he refused to associate himself with President Wilson's peace note. In these attacks the hand of the German Ambassador himself has not been difficult to mark. It is possible Romanone's resignation was in nature of a challenge to the pro-German party.

"Only a few days ago the German controlled newspaper La Nacion published an interview with the German Ambassador at Madrid, saying that he 'has placed himself frankly on the side of the Allies to whom he is bound by material interests.' It is said at the same time that if Spanish ships were sunk by German submarines Romanones was the cause.

The London Times comments editorially o nthe campaign carried on by the Germans against Romanones's administration. It says:

"Were Spain under German military occupation their activity could hardly be more audacious and less respectful of the dignity and neutrality of the proud nation. German attempts at intimidation should not be ignored, and when, as in regard to President Wilson's dignified and lofty neutral attitude, the Allied Governments should not fail t oshow their appreciation and to give her every possible moral support."

NOYES SEES TEN YEARS OF FIGHTING AHEAD

English Poet, Returning Here, Tells of British Misunderstanding of Wilson's Note.

Alfred Noyes arrived yesterday on the American liner St. Paul, which was two days late on account of the New Year holiday. The English poet, who will make a short lecture tour before returning to his duties at Princeton University, said that no one could foretell when or how peace would be achieved, but he spoke with enthusiasm of the efficiency of the British preparations on the Somme front.

"I was there recently," he said, "and it looked to me as if the war could go on for ten years without victory for either side. There is nothing spectacular about the fighting there. It is a very grim affair, and looks just as if a great nation were slowly pushing its way toward its goal. The English and French are moving slowly, but certainly, toward the Rhine, and the Germans are as gradually falling back. But there is doubt if the Rhine is ever reached.

"There is scarcely a family in England that has not lost a member. There are five gone in my family. That makes us serious. I have offered my services to the War Office three times, but have been rejected on account of my eyesight. In spite of all this loss of life, there is no hatred in England against the enemy—not a bit."

Mr. Noyes said that the British Army on the Somme had plenty of ammunition and stores of every description to carry on the war right through the Winter, and that there would be no slackening day or night.

"There is certainly a preponderance of Allied aircraft," he said, "along the Somme front, and a superiority of heavy artillery. I saw great flocks of aircraft of all kinds soaring from our lines when I was there, less than a month ago, while there were no Germans in the air. The British kept up a heavy bombardment with their guns, with few replies from the enemy. Artillery officers informed me that the reason was that the Germans had no observation balloons, and one must be economical of shots when they cost from $500 to $1,000 each, mustn't one? They don't use that sort of ammunition at random."

ARNOLD DALY IN HOSPITAL.

Actor Is Operated On for Abscess—Condition Serious.

Arnold Daly, the actor, was lying at the point of death in Roosevelt Hospital at midnight last night, following an operation. He had been suffering since Friday, but his ailment was not considered serious until yesterday, and he had continued acting in "The Master" last week at the Fulton and Monday night at the Bandbox.

The operation showed that peritonitis had set in as the result of the bursting of an abscess which had formed on the large intestine. While there is a chance for recovery it was said at the hospital after the operation that the patient's condition was most critical.

On Monday night Mr. Daly was suffering such acute pain that he was able to finish the performance only with the greatest effort. Just before theatre time last night his manager, Clarence Willett, Jr., received a telephone massage from Dr. Peck saying that Mr. Daly would not be able to appear. Shortly after that it was decided that an immediaee operation was imperative, and the actor was taken from his home at 1 West Sixty-fourth Street to the hospital.

When "The Master" failed to win wide popularity after an engagement of several weeks at the Fulton, Mr. Daly bought the production and rights and transferred the play to the Bandbox. The drama is from the German original of Herman Bahr and Mr. Daly thought that in the east side theatre, which has been identified with German drama during most of its history, the play would have a broader appeal.

INDICT HARRY THAW FOR WHIPPING BOY

if he should attempt a break for liberty, and frequently, when the boy made a move, the man tightly gripped his arm, acting so that any one who observed him might think that he was merely fooling. The pair went to the Aquarium and the Bronx Zoological Gardens. They got back to the McAlpin about 5 o'clock, and, when they were in Thaw's suite, the boy—seemingly for the first time—regained his senses. He told the guard that he was going down to the lobby for a soda, and for some reason O'Beirne, or whatever his name is, made no move to restrain him. Once free, Gump ran all the way from the hotel to the Baltimore & Ohio ferry at Twenty-third Street and took the first train home."

According to Assistant District Attorney Black, the lad's story that he was taken to the McAlpin has been corroborated. A porter, the maid on the eighteenth floor, and ten other witnesses who saw the boy with Thaw have identified Gump's photograph as a likeness of the lad who accompanied Thaw to his rooms on Dec. 24.

Immediately after the charges were made against Thaw, District Attorney Swann assigned Detective Bernard Flood to watch the Belgravia Hotel in Philadelphia, where Thaw was registered, and yesterday Detective Cuniff joined Flood in Philadelphia with bench warrants issued by Judge Mulqueen of General Sessions. But Thaw had left.

Harry Kendall Thaw began to figure in the news almost as soon as he had been graduated from the Western University of Pennsylvania. Thereafter he spent most of his time in Europe. He is the son of Mrs. Mary C. Thaw and the late William Thaw, who was Vice President of the Pennsylvania Railroad lines west of Pittsburgh, and after he had obtained a large share of the great income left by his father he quickly attracted attention by his lavish expenditures.

His real notoriety began after his meeting with Evelyn Nesbit, their marriage and his murder of Stanford White. There was the famous series of trials in which William Travers Jerome, then District Attorney, acted as chief prosecutor, and which ended with Thaw's commitment to the Matteawan Asylum for the Criminally Insane. From April 22, 1908, until July 26, 1912, Thaw, backed by the family millions, and assisted by many of the leading lawyers of the country, maintained an unremitting fight to obtain his liberty.

On Nov. 22, 1912, Thaw gave $25,000 to J. N. Anhut to influence Supt. Russell of Matteawan to obtain his release. This failed, and on May 16, 1913, Thaw testified against Anhut in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court in New York County, stating he hoped by his bearing and testimony to substantiate his claim to sanity. Again he failed, but on Aug. 17, 1913, he escaped from Matteawan in a motor car and fled to Canada.

His capture there, his fight to prevent extradition, and his return to this city ended finally in release from all custody on July 16, 1915, and set him officially at liberty for the first time since the night of July 25, 1906, when he shot White on the roof of Madison Square Garden. Thaw was only 35 years old then. Today his forty-sixth birthday is close at hand. It falls on Feb. 12.

Meantime Thaw had got a divorce from Evelyn Nesbit. Thaw, through the Pennsylvania courts, provided that Russell Thaw, or "Pom-Pom," whose parentage Thaw denied, should inherit part of the Thaw millions.

Mr. Jerome, who followed his earlier part in the Thaw case by directing the efforts of New York State to bring Thaw back into custody from Canada, declined last night to comment on the present charges, except to grin and exclaim: "Extraordinary!"

GUMP FAMILY SILENT.

Parents of Boy Figuring in Thaw Case Refuse to Make Statement.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Gump, parents of the boy mentioned in connection with the indictment of Harry K. Thaw in New York, took up their residence here today in the south side section. Efforts to see them were unavailing. Mr. Gump formerly conducted a trunk factory in Kansas City. He left here for Long Beach, Cal., about two years ago, after having closed his business. He returned here only a few weeks ago.

FIND LETTERS FROM BOYS.

Addressed to Thaw, Philadelphia Police Take Them from Friends.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—Although Frederick Gump, Jr., who arrived here tonight with a representative of District Attorney Swann of New York, could not identify him, the police held a man suspected of being George O'Beirne, bodyguard of Harry K. Thaw, whom they had arrested at a railroad station today as he was about to leave the city. He was held in Night Court in $1,200 bail for a hearing on Friday.

In his pockets the police say they found letters addressed to Thaw by boys, in which the writers spoke about getting jobs. Thaw is accused of having enticed Gump from California to New York, first by offering him work and then by proposing that he aid in his education.

Although admitting, according to the detectives, that he was acquainted with Thaw and that he had been with him in this city until last month, the prisoner denied that he was the man wanted in New York. He said he had no knowledge of the charges upon which he was taken into custody, and that he had been with Thaw only as a friend. He said his name was Oliver Brower, that he was a Pittsburgh salesman, and that he had known Thaw for some time.

Barney Flood, the New York detective who assisted in making the arrest, said tonight that the description he had of O'Beirne fitted the prisoner, and that he was convinced he was the man wanted. In support of this belief Flood said the police had found in the prisoner's pocket a telegram dated Dec. 23, from the authorities of Long Beach, Cal., replying to a message alleged to have been sent by Thaw seeking information as to the whereabouts of the Gump boy.

Thaw was here yesterday in connection with a small damage suit against his mother as a result of an automobile collision between her car and one driven by a local resident. Both his attorney and a private detective, who said he had been engaged to act as a bodyguard for the Pittsburgher while he was here, said Thaw had left last night for Washington, and that he intended leaving the capital tonight for Pittsburgh. Efforts to find him here were futile.

Cannot Find Thaw in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—If Harry Thaw came to Washington today he kept his presence a secret and did not stop at any of the hotels. The police here had not been asked tonight to look for Thaw and knew of his indictment only through newspaper dispatches.

NEWS STIRS PITTSBURGH.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 9.—This city was stirred tonight by the news that Harry K. Thaw was in trouble again, for he had been so active in business and church life here since getting his liberty that his public appearances caused only perfunctory notice. Thaw recently began to take great interest in the affairs of the Third Presbyterian Church and the mission maintained by it in the Soho district, where many foreigners are employed in mills and factories.

The Rev. W. L. McEwan, who performed the ceremony that united Harry Thaw in marriage with Evelyn Nesbit, and also that of Alice Thaw and the Earl of Yarmouth, has established the mission and put his assistant, the Rev. John Fisher, in charge. Harry K. Thaw has paid a great deal of attention to this work, and on a recent visit there contributed liberally to the mission's support.

Thaw also became greatly interested recently in the athletic teams of the University of Pittsburgh, and was a guest at a recent banquet at the Hotel Schenley, when the 1917 football Captain was elected. He has recently maintained a suite of offices in the Highland Building and has undertaken the active business control of his affairs.

EVELYN NESBIT OPERATED ON.

News Kept from Thaw's Former Wife, Ill of Nerve Affliction.

About the same time yesterday that news of Harry K. Thaw's indictment came out Mrs. Jack Clifford, who, as Evelyn Nesbit, was a central figure in the trials of Thaw, went under the surgeon's knife in her home, 23 West Eleventh Street. Last night her condition was so critical that her physicians forbade the news being carried to her.

According to her husband, Mrs. Clifford has been ill of a disease of the nerves ever since she returned from the Clifford lodge in the Adirondacks some months ago. Her condition steadily becoming worse, the operation was necessary.

complaint. They are getting all the food they can eat. Two of our mess wagons were delayed en route from the border, but both have arrived and there is no trouble over food."

Governor Whitman was informed last night of the punishment and was asked if he would take any action. He replied that he would not, as the regiment is still in the Federal service and subject to orders of the War Department.

No comment was made at Governors Island, but it is understood that a regular army inspection officer will make an investigation today. An army officer said last night that he thought the only punishments permitted by the regulations were confinement, forfeiture of privileges, fines, and solitary confinement when the latter is authorized by a court martial.

Colonel George A. Wingate, the commanding officer of the Second Field Artillery, who lives at Clermont and Myrtle Avenues, Brooklyn, where half the regiment is domiciled, while the other half is in the Bronx, said last night there was no truth in the rumor that there was any dissatisfaction in the regiment.

PENALTY IS PERMISSIBLE.

Washington Army Officers Think Spencer Was Within Rights.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The action of Lieutenant Spencer in having an enlisted man of the Second New York Field Artillery tied to a gun carriage today as a punishment for refusing to obey an order to do police duty has not been officially reported to the War Department here. While the punishment adopted seems unusual, it is not contrary to army regulations, according to officers here. The only punishments prohibited in the army are flogging and branding. These are forbidden by the Articles of War.

LAWSON AGREES TO GIVE NAMES

nied knowledge of the peace note before he read it in the newspapers. He said he did not deal in stocks and took no interest in the market except to keep track of the value of securities held as collateral or for investment by his bank.

Referring to a prediction made by him last October that the peace move was to be made, Mr. Sabin said:

"It is true that about Oct. 6 I informed certain newspaper men in New York, writers on financial matters, that I had received information that the German Government had requested the President to approach the Allies in the interest of peace. I said nothing more than that and nothing less. I have neither added to or subtracted from that statement since. I did not make any reference to the stock market or securities, and I never thought about the price of securities."

"Did that information come from any official of this Government or any one connected with this Government in any way?" asked Mr. Chiperfield.

"It did not," said Mr. Sabin. "I am under oath and I say the source of my information was not any one connected with the Government."

"What was your purpose in making such a statement in October to newspaper men?"

"Only this: My personal judgment was that the matter should be known. Here was a great war raging. If there was a possibility of peace, I thought the world should know it."

Mr. Sabin said he preferred not to disclose the confidential source from which he obtained his information in October, and the committee did not press him.

Beyond Mr. Lawson's promise to reveal something in the future, little testimony has been obtained by the Rules Committee to justify it in reporting a resolution to appoint a select investigating committee. A member of the Rules Committee said privately today that the question now before the committee is "whether the promised Lawson revelations—considering Lawson's disappointing testimony to date—are sufficient to justify a probe by a special committee."

Mr. Lawson's promise to reveal names to a special committee was made during a colloquy between Chairman Henry and the financier.

"Mr. Lawson, do you state on your responsibility as a witness and your honor as a man that if Congress takes you at your word and an investigation is ordered there will be competent evidence furnished that a member of the Cabinet and a member of Congress or an official of the Government had something to do with the things we have been talking about?" asked Chairman Henry.

"Yes, I do," said Mr. Lawson.

"What is that something?"

"I shall disclose that a member of Congress mentioned to me the name of a banker, a Cabinet member and another person, whom I will refer to as a great official. I shall mention names and the amount of money involved—more than a million dollars. I will furnish three names and the amount of money."

"Will you disclose what the Cabinet officer did?" asked Mr. Garrett.

"I will disclose my information that a Cabinet officer furnished information which enabled another man to sell stock short at times and buy at other times, and that large sums of money were divided among the different parties."

The examination of Mr. Lawson was again marked by clashes between the financier and Representative Chiperfield of Illinois. Mr. Lawson accused Mr. Chiperfield of using "police court methods of cross-examination," and asserted he would not answer a number of the questions asked by the Illinois member. He furnished the name of one stockbroking firm, H. Content & Co., with which he said he dealt during December.

"I give orders to certain of my people and do not attempt or want to know the names of the brokers handling them," said Mr. Lawson. "After this I shall be more careful than ever not to know about it."

Efforts by Mr. Chiperfield to induce Mr. Lawson to state the amount of his profits on the stock market during December were futile. Lawson maintained he did not know whether he made $1,000,000 or $500,000. Answering Mr. Chiperfield, Mr. Lawson again declared he had no direct knowledge through a "leak" of the coming of the President's peace note. By a process of elimination, Mr. Chiperfield then established by questions that Lawson had no knowledge which would be accepted in court of any broker, including Bernard Baruch, who was operating on a "leak," of any officer of the Government who had any knowledge of a "leak," or of any member of either house who operated on the Exchange during December either on "leak" or otherwise.

Mr. Chiperfield then urged Lawson to give the name of the "leaker" he was reported to have given to Chairman Henry in confidence ten days ago. Mr. Lawson refused to answer on the ground that to make public the name would result in more serious consequences to the country than his being punished for refusing to answer.

"Did you give any name to Chairman Henry?" persisted Mr. Chiperfield.

"I did not."

After persistent demands were made that he give the name now, Mr. Lawson said: "I would rather take the consequences than to mention the names now. There is another name that might be mentioned that would precipitate even more serious consequences. But this is not the time nor the place."

"You really have no interest in any investigation about the leak anyway, have you?" asked Representative Garrett. "All on earth you want is an investigation of the Stock Exchange that will lead to Federal regulation, is it not?"

"Yes, that's true," said Mr. Lawson frankly.

"The only motive behind your agitation of this matter is to force a drastic inquiry into the stock exchanges for legislative purposes?"

"Absolutely," said Mr. Lawson.

"I cannot name the Cabinet officer to whom I have referred," Mr. Lawson replied to renewed questioning by Representative Harrison, "without mentioning another officials of a high position, and that would be more serious than if I cast a cloud over the entire Congress and was sent to jail myself for life."

DAVID LAMAR MAY BE 'CURTIS'

Atlanta Prison Officials Are Investigating a Queer Story.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Jan 10.—An investigation involving a prominent Atlanta woman and Mrs. David Lamar, wife of the "Wolf of Wall Street," is pending at the Federal Prison, following revelations indicating that the "A. Curtis" letter, figuring in the Washington "leak" investigation, may have been written by Lamar, now a prisoner in the penitentiary, and smuggled from his cell.

Logan Martin, recently released from the prison, is authority for the statement that Mrs. Lamar confided to friends last month that Lamar proposed to create a furore in official Washington before a certain date.

MUCH ILLNESS IN BERLIN TRACED TO LACK OF FOOD

Sick Benefit Society, Swamped by Patients, Will Issue Free Meal Tickets.

BERLIN, Jan. 9, (via London.)—The Sick Benefit Association of Berlin, in which the working classes are insured in case of sickness, has come to the conclusion, after an inquiry among physicians, that a large amount of prevailing illness is due to inadequate nourishment, which also decreases the powers of resistance of the patients.

The association, therefore, has decided to make special provision for the feeding of patients where recommended by physicians, and has arranged to issue free meal tickets in such cases.

ASSAIL 8-HOUR LAW AS A WAGE MEASURE

were protecting the public, but stood upon their own selfish ends."

Regarding the statement that the act was passed to prevent a strike Mr. Johnston added:

"Have we come to that? Have we reached the period when the men who threaten a strike shall be rewarded? I am not comparing men, only methods, but we might as well buy off a gang of highwaymen with a bribe to prevent interference with commerce."

Hagerman Defends the Law.

Half an hour before court adjourned Frank Hagerman of Kansas City, special assistant to the Attorney General, began the closing address of the hearings. He defended the law as being capable of operation by a mere change of railroad bookkeeping, and said Congress enacted it in the face of a "great emergency."

"It wasn't a one-sided affair," he said. "There were railroad representatives who acted upon the assumption that railroads owe nothing to the public."

"Assuming that Congress can raise wages for a limited period, can it do so for an unlimited period?" asked Justice Pitney. "Where do you draw the line between private operation and public management?"

"I don't draw the line," Mr. Hagerman answered.

"But it may be necessary for the purposes of this argument," Justice Pitney observed.

Justice White's Understanding.

Chief Justice White then stated the following proposition:

"Here is a question of a strike. More pay is asked. The other saide says more pay means higher rates. Congress says, 'We haven't had a chance to investigate this matter, but we'll put a temporary arrangement into effect and give an opportunity for full investigation, with a temporary increase of wages and also an increase of rates. Now that's your proposition, isn't it?"

Mr. Hagerman agreed with the Chief Justice's statement of the case. Continuing he asserted that "no self-respecting man" would have accepted the proposition the carriers made to the President.

"The carriers were pretending," he said, "that they wanted arbitration, but they refused to arbitrate the eight-hour day demand unless all other questions also were arbitrated."

"What has this got to do with the law question?" Chief Justice White asked. "I don't want to interrupt you, but we have a question of law and you are discussing things we have no cognizance of."

"I did'nt start it, your honor," said Mr. Hagerman.

"I know that, but I suggest that you conclude it," the Chief Justice responded, and Mr. Hagerman concluded his remarks for the day.

POLICEMEN THRIVE ON DIET TEST MENU

THEY GET LIBERAL PORTIONS

Bellevue Official Watches Experiment, Hoping Cost of Feeding Patients Can Be Reduced.

The twelve police rookies who compose the squad now undergoing a diet test under the supervision of Dr. Eugene L. Fisk, medical director of the Life Extension Institute at 49 Lafayette Street, finished the first twenty-four hours of the three weeks' experiment last night apparently satisfied with meals that cost only 25 cents a day per man.

At breakfast most of them asked for and received a second helping of oatmeal and two cups of coffee. Miss Morin Walker, the dietitian in charge, is not worried over this, as she believes that while some may frequently demand a second portion, the supply will be equalized by those with smaller appetites.

"We are not conducting anything radical," declared Dr. Fisk, "we are simply trying to see how much the people can, without violating their customs, overcome the high cost of living. The food is wholesome and the men will thrive on it."

Some of the men called for a double portion of macaroni and cheese at the noon luncheon, and many asked for more than the four ounces of cornbread handed to each. There were others who left the cornbread on their plates. These were told that they were losing a large number of calories, so many in fact, that a whole loaf of white bread would not make up the number they had lost. Most of them said "calories" didn't seem like anything to eat.

At breakfast the men had oatmeal and milk, toast and coffee, and at luncheon boiled macaroni, cheese, cornbread, and tea. The menu at dinner last night consisted of meat loaf, fresh fried potatoes, graham bread, date pudding, and tea.

Mrs. Eula McCleary takes care of the men when they enter the establishment and tells them when dinner's ready. The rookies assembled at 5:36 o'clock last evening for dinner and fell to without delay. They finished eating exactly twenty-eight minutes later. There was nothing left on the table, not even a slice of bread. Hannibal Parsons, the negro cook, had some more left in the kitchen and the diners could have had more if they had so desired.

Four of the young men who had feasted, drew cigarettes from their pockets as soon as the repast was over and "lit up." They are not requested to give up any of their habits.

The rookies were then asked to write on slips of paper their opinions of the meals served thus far. The results of the symposium were recorded by the twelve as follows:

"Exceptionally good." "Fine and dandy." "Very good." "Satisfied." "Fine and dandy." "Very good indeed—service and foods included." "Everlastingly good." "Well satisfied." "Very good—satisfied." "Satisfied." "Fully satisfied." "Very good. Have ordered waistband of trousers from 36 to 38."

Miss Walker gave out the following as samples of the prices she had paid for food supplied to the policemen: Apricots, 17 cents a pound; sugar, 50 cents for seven pounds; coffee, 20 cents a pound; tea, 35 cents a pound; lamb's neck for stew, 75 cents for four pounds; beans, 13 cents a pound; nut butter, 25 cents a pound; macaroni, 10 cents for eleven ounces; cheese, 25 cents a pound.

She admitted she had to do much shopping before getting some of the articles at these prices. All the food is being bought at retail.

An interested visitor at the evening meal was George A. White, chief clerk of Bellevue Hospital. He is trying to hold the cost of feeding a patient in Bellevue Hospital to 18 1-10 cents a day, the amount fixed by the Board of Estimate. It now costs 26 cents a day to feed a patient. Mr. White thought he might get some good pointers on reducing the diet per diem by watching the experimenters.

Police Commissioner Woods will be the guest of the men at luncheon tomorrow. During the three weeks of the test it is planned to have prominent scientists, medical men, and city officials attend the meals.

TWO THEATRES ON WENDEL PROPERTY

Estate, Breaking Long-Standing Rule, Gives Lease for 21 Years.

BOTH FOR MOVING PICTURES

Land to be Improved Is in Broadway, Between Fiftieth and Fifty-first Street.

Departing from a traditional policy of never making long leases, the Wendel estate has leased to Messmore Kendall, operating under the name of the Moredall Realty Corporation, the north half of the block front on the west side of Broadway between Fiftieth and Fifty-first Streets for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of about $100,000 as a site for an office building and two theatres. The property is at present occupied by old one, two and three-story buildings. It has a frontage of 100 feet on Broadway, 268 feet on Fifty-first Street, and 137 feet on Fiftieth Street.

The theatres to be erected will be devoted to motion pictures. One will have a seating capacity of about thirty-eight hundred, and will be the largest movie theatre in the United States. This theatre will be popular priced. The other will have about the same seating capacity as the Rialto, and will be especially appointed for exhibition of special film productions of high class.

The Broadway front will be improved by a tall office building with entrances to the east of the theatres, and stores on the ground floor. Thomas W. Lamb has prepared plans for these improvements which will cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. Construction will begin at once.

Prior to this time the longest lease made by the Wendel estate was for five years, covering the three-story automobile building on the northwest corner of Fiftieth Street and Broadway adjoining the property just leased by Mr. Kendall. During the life of the late John G. Wendel he often boasted that no Wendel property was ever for sale. Few improvements of Wendel properties have been made by the erection of structures of modern type and use. Many of the small, old-fashioned one and two-story buildings from Thirty-sixth Street north on Broadway are owned by the estate.

JACOB H. SCHIFF IS SEVENTY TODAY

PUBLIC FUNCTIONS DECLINED

Philanthropist Tells Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations Why He Cannot Attend Dinner.

Jacob H. Schiff, banker and philanthropist, will celebrate his seventieth birthday today. Mr. Schiff, who was born in Frankfort-on-Main and who came to this country in 1865, has declined many invitations to formal public functions in honor of the anniversary, but there will be hundreds of expressions of congratulation and good wishes from both Jews and non-Jews all over the country.

The First Hungarian Congregation Ohab Zedak, at 18 West 116th Street, will, at its regular service next Saturday, say a special prayer composed by Rabbis Dr. Bernard Drachmann and Dr. Philip Klein, and thanksgiving services in appreciation of the life and works of Mr. Schiff will be conducted by Cantor Joseph Rosenblatt and the full choir. The Executive Committee of the Rabbi Jacob Joseph School yesterday sent a message of congratulation and appreciation of Mr. Schiff in the name of the 5,000 members and 700 pupils. The message was signed by Julius J. Dukas, President.

The Board of Directors of the Central Jewish Institute presented a leather-bound hand-illumined book with an inscription, which says in part: "May you continue, as you have so truly been, a noble and self-sacrificing benefactor to all humanity, and may you serve, as you have ever done, as an inspiration for all that is lofty and good."

Although Mr. Schiff belongs to the reformed wing of the Jewish faith, the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America, through Albert Lucas, its secretary, invited Mr. Schiff to a dinner, which he declined in a letter reading as follows:

"Replying to your courteous letter of the 10th inst., I have, since I received it yesterday, discussed its contents very earnestly with Mrs. Schiff and other members of my family, who all strongly counsel me not to alter now, when I am in the evening of my life, the position I have always taken in regard to the public honors that have frequently been offered to me, and which I have in every instance declined. Mrs. Schiff and my family, who naturally know and understand me better than any one else, are aware that the way I am constructed I would only become depressed if I accepted honors which I felt, as a general proposition, men should seek to avoid, and I can only repeat, if I could see my way to make an exception in any instance I would do this in the great compliment my co-religionists of the orthodox faith have so kindly offered, through you, to pay to me."

The Board of Directors of the Hebrew Free Loan Society decided to celebrate the birthday by formally occupying today its new building at 108 Second Avenue. The current issue of The American Hebrew contains an editorial by Herman Bernstein, headed "Mr. Schiff at Seventy," and referring to him as one "in whom the finest traditions of Judaism and the noblest ideals of Americanism are so happily blended."

The American Hebrew further publishes a letter from Israel Zangwill to Mr. Bernstein, which reads in part as follows:

"Congratulations on such a birthday fall rather to the world which has still the privilege of Mr. Schiff's presence than to the man himself saddened by having lived to see the breakdown of European civilization, and two great nations, with both of which he has ties and sympathies, and which together might have lifted the world forward to peace and happiness, finding no better occupation than to keep a strangle-hold on each other's throat. The best birthday wish one can send him is that he shall see the end of this fratricidal conflict, if not by his seventieth birthday, at any rate by no very much later date.

"He has walked with Kings and Emperors, but the simplicity and meekness of his ancestral heritage have remained unimpaired. Not that he is incapable of rigidity—it has indeed been my misfortune to have been more than once in collision with his conceptions or preconceptions—doubtless each of us considers the other the most obstinate man he has ever met—but it has also been my good fortune to co-operate with him in one of the greatest of those conceptions of his and to have been honored for many years now with his friendship. That friendship will, I trust, survive any further frictions of idea that these great tragic times may bring us. On my part it is founded like a rock on admiration and affection."

LANSING ASKS ABOUT DEATH

Wants Fact Regarding Luis D'Antin's Demise in Mexico.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The State Department today sent to Acting Special Agent Thurston at Mexico City instructions to report the facts concerning the death of Luis d'Antin, late interpreter and law clerk of the Mexican Embassy at Washington. D'Antin left this city a week ago with Ambassador-designate Eliseo Arredondo, for Mexico City. His death was sudden and was reported last night.

On several occasions some of his close friends intimated that he "knew too much," and it reported today that friends, laughing, warned him, just before he left Washington, to keep out of Mexico or he would never come out alive.

Secretary Lansing was requested in a telegram sent from here last night by the widow of Luis D'Antin to order an investigation into the death of her husband. Mrs. D'Antin declared that early yesterday the Mexican Consul General here informed her that he had received a message last night which merely said that D'Antin had been taken ill suddenly on a train and had died of hemorrhages.

Mrs. d'Antin said her husband had complained of headaches for several days before he left this country with Ambassador-Designate Arredondo for Mexico City, but showed no other signs of ill health. A Frenchman by birth, Mrs. d'Antin said, her husband was naturalized as an American citizen about ten years ago.

Refuses to Enjoin "Arms and the Girl."

Judge Julius M. Mayer in the Federal District Court yesterday refused to enjoin William Harris, Jr., from producing Grant Stewart's and Robert M. Baker's play, "Arms and the Girl." The application for an injunction was made by Burton E. Stevenson, who set forth in his petition the claim that the play was an infringement of his novel, "Little Comrade." The play was recently seen at the Fulton and is now being presented on tour.

OLD TRINITY DROPS ITS ANCIENT WAYS

CONTROLLER CAMMANN OUT

Complete Reorganization of System, Long in Vogue, Planned by Dr. Dix's Son-in-Law.

The alterations in the business management of the huge real estate holdings of Trinity Parish, which have been forecast for some time, were formally brought about yesterday afternoon, when the Vestry met and elected William H. Wheelock, Vice President of the real estate firm of Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company, as manager of the real estate of the parish. H. H. Cammann, the Controller, resigned the office which he had held for nearly twenty years, but will continue as a member of the Vestry.

This change means, according to those conversant with the business affairs of Trinity Church, a complete reorganization of the system by which the real estate properties have been managed for many years, and the installation of more modern methods, which have been demanded by some of the younger men in the parish for several years. Changes in the plans of handling the real estate, it is said, have been made necessary in large part by the developments connected with the extension of Seventh Avenue to Varick Street and the construction of the Seventh Avenue subway, most of the Trinity properties being in that part of Greenwich Village through which the cut passes.

In this part of New York Trinity owns 360 houses, and its holdings are assessed at $15,000,000. Most of these houses are two or three story brick front buildings housing a family on each floor, and they include many of those old-fashioned structures with Colonial doorways and dormer windows, which are among the quaint attractions of the district west and southwest of Washington Square. When the property was first taken over by Trinity it was of comparatively little value, but with the growth of the city it has become a possession of enormous worth.

There was much criticism of Trinity as a landlord several years ago, and the policy of secrecy as to all the affairs of the church which was then in force tended to lend color to the accusations of maladministration and poor housing conditions. Much of this criticism fell to the ground at once when a policy of publicity was adopted, and it is said that only ten of the 893 families that are tenants of Trinity moved at the last moving day.

The younger men, who for some time had been moving for more efficient methods in handling the realty, have had, it is said, the passive support of the rector, Dr. William T. Manning, and have at last succeeded in getting the management of the parish's properties into the hands of a man who is known as one of the most experienced real estate experts in New York. Mr. Wheelock is in charge of the real estate of the Presbyterian Hospital and the John Stewart Kennedy estate, and has an especial connection with Trinity in that he is a son-in-law of the late Dr. Morgan Dix, rector of the parish for more than fifty years. It is expected that a number of the old buildings will be torn down to make way for more modern structures, though whether apartment houses or loft buildings will replace them will be left to the decision of the new manager.

Do you want a clear skin?

If your skin is not fresh, smooth and glowing, or has suffered from an unwise use of cosmetics, here is an easy, inexpensive way to clear it:

Spread on a little Resinol Ointment, letting it remain for ten minutes. Then wash off with Resinol Soap and hot water. Finish with a dash of clear, cold water to close the pores. Do this regularly, once a day, and see if it does not quickly soothe and cleanse the pores, and leave the complexion clear, fresh and velvety.

Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment are sold by all druggists. For samples of each, free write to Dept. 8-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

The Ledger

The Newspaper Read By Philadelphia Automobile Buyers

The Ledger—morning, evening and Sunday—holds the key to the Philadelphia automobile market. It is indispensable to the advertiser of automobiles, tires and accessories, because of its concentrated circulation among the two portions of the community automobile advertisers desire to reach: the people who own or are able to buy automobiles. The steadily increasing volume of automobile advertising carried by the Ledger demonstrates this.

Two Great Automobile Show Numbers will be published by the Ledger during the week of the Philadelphia Automobile Show.

The first number will be issued on Sunday, January 14th—the day following the opening of the Show. It will be the brightest and most representative Automobile Number Philadelphia has ever seen.

The second number will be published with the Evening Ledger on Wednesday, January 17th, the day the Show hits its attendance stride, and the evening prior to the "Society - double admission price - day."

The combination rate of thirty cents per agate line covers insertion in both issues.

24th successful year
1893-1917

The first Haynes was made in 1893 and every model of the Haynes for 24 years has been a high-grade, dependable car—the best at its price. These new 1917 models, on display at the Show, Space A-23, are the latest evidence of Haynes reliability.

"America's Greatest 'Light Six'"

HAYNES

"America's Greatest 'Light Twelve'"

The lower priced car really costs more!

Lower after cost! Longer life! For these reasons many a buyer who expected to pay $1,000 or $1,200 for a car has bought a Haynes instead.

Compare upkeep costs. With the Haynes, tires average 8,000 miles or better. Surprisingly high mileages are obtained from gas and oil. Repair expense averages a mere fraction of a cent per mile. Let us cite you the definite figures.

Haynes Cars Overcome the Ravages of Time

Compare life. Look ahead a few years. Your Haynes will be in tip-top shape—running better than ever—at a time when the cheaper car will be wearing out and a frequent visitor to the repair shop.

Hundreds of Haynes cars, 10, 15 and even 20 years old, are still giving good service. Thousands of Haynes cars, 5 years and older, are in daily use.

Haynes cars are built to last. For 24 years they have been constructed that way. And today Haynes cars are even better made.

Cars Which Will Not Grow Out of Date

Furthermore, the Haynes you buy now will be thoroughly modern for years—in both design and mechanical features.

The Haynes design does not follow fads or freaks. Look at the Haynes cars of the 32 months past. They are modern cars today.

So will it be with the new 1917 Haynes models, which embody every worth-while feature and convenience born of the New Year.

Haynes "Light Sixes" of 1917 are akin in power-plant, weight and principal mechanical structure to Haynes "Light Sixes" of the 32 months past.

Literally so successful, so close to mechanical perfection, that with all our 24 years of automobile manufacturing experience—our 24 years of motor-building—we have found it impossible to better their in-built fundamentals, aside from here and there a minor improvement.

Low Upkeep Costs Assured for Years

Critical inspection of the refinements which characterize the new 1917 Haynes cars reveals the margin by which they excel in the company of other new models.

But recall, as you gaze upon their outward beauties, that here are no untried new cars.

That cars fundamentally alike to these, in the hands of 15,000 average drivers, have given over 100,000,000 miles of hard road-proof during the 32 months past.

That the low upkeep cost of these Haynes cars is thus assured to you, not alone for 1917, but for 1918, 1919, 1920 and on.

Performance of a Matchless Type

Any Haynes "Light Six," new or old, with its gear ratio unchanged, is capable of:

One to 60 miles per hour ON HIGH GEAR. You can snail along in crowded traffic—or you can "let 'er out" for sixty without a gear shift.

You can pick-up from a stop to 30 miles an hour in 7½ seconds. You'll beat them all in get-away when the traffic cop gives the "go ahead." You can take the longest "low gear" grade on high.

There's more pulling power in the Haynes engine, at moderate speeds, and through hub-deep mud, snow and sand, than you'll find in any other motor of 3½-inch bore and 5-inch stroke. Tests prove this.

Yet the Haynes engine is wonderfully simple and very accessible. 24 years of specialization upon building engines for Haynes cars thus speaks most eloquently for itself.

Haynes "Light Twelve" a Tremendous Success

The new 1917 Haynes "Light Twelve" also awaits you at the Show. Here is a multi-cylinder motor car which, for supreme flexibility, vast reserve power, speed, lightning pickup and operating economy, knows no equal. No car at any price surpasses it. You are master of the road in a Haynes "Light Twelve."

Demand Always Exceeds Supply. Order Early

Last year 10,000 intending purchasers were unable to secure Haynes cars, so great was the demand. Placing your order at the Show is therefore recommended. On-time delivery, upon the date you select, may thus be assured.

STRAND ROOF GARDEN RAIDED BY POLICE

After-the-Theatre Crowd Sees Arrest of Waiter and Cabaret Singers.

Detectives under Inspector Daly, armed with warrants issued yesterday on indictments handed down by the Grand Jury, raided the Strand Roof Garden, at Broadway and Forty-seventh Street, late last night and arrested the headwaiter and four cabaret singers on a charge of keeping and maintaining a disorderly resort. Although the place was crowded to capacity with an after-theatre crowd, so quietly did the Inspector and his men work that scarcely any one knew that a raid was in progress. Until the defendants were apprehended all exits were guarded by detectives.

The defendants were taken to the West Forty-seventh Street Station and later transferred to the Tombs to await arraignment this morning. The raid followed complaints made by mothers, who declared their daughters had been led astray by companions they had met in the Broadway cabarets.

"We have only scratched the surface," Assistant District Attorney James F. Smith said, "I firmly believe conditions have never been so bad in New York as today, and I say this advisedly. We expect to lay evidence before the Grand Jury against some of the best known places in the city. As soon as we get the indictments we will raid them in the same way as tonight."

The Strand Roof Garden was originally conducted by Miss Anne Morgan and Miss Elisabeth Marbury as an experiment to provide a respectable place of amusement for working girls. At its opening it was said that a stock company was backing the project, which numbered among its patronesses Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, Mrs. John Purroy Mitchel, Mrs. William D. Sloane, Miss Lillian D. Wald, Mrs. James Speyer, Mrs. Henry Clews, and Mrs. Otto H. Kahn.

Miss Morgan closed the place early last Spring. It was then reopened by the present management, which is in no way connected with its original proprietors.

Earlier in the evening Inspector Ryan and his men made a number of raids on resorts in Harlem frequented principally by colored people. The nine defendants were locked up in the Tombs and will be arraigned today.

Hamilton Multometer

A large user of motor trucks says:

"The Hamilton Multometer is the one instrument all truck users have been waiting for, for years. In truck service it is necessary for us to keep an accurate record of operating expense in order that we may know our exact ton mile cost.

"The factors which have been more or less guesswork have been those of tire mileage and fuel and oil consumption. We have also been suffering from excessive repair costs, due to neglect in the matter of proper attention at the end of each 500 or 1,000 miles of service.

"The Hamilton Multometer makes these records and adjustments a matter of mechanical certainty. It is essential to the satisfactory operation of any motor truck.

MARMON 34

The Voice of Authority

What better guide can a motor car buyer find than the choice of the engineers and officials of the motor car industry? These men know materials and construction. Their voice is the voice of authority. And last year no car of the leading class was bought by so many of these men as the Marmon 34.

You will be interested to know why they selected the Marmon.

When this car made its first appearance at the New York Automobile Show a year ago, it introduced a new school of motor car construction.

Through the application of scientific principles it gave the world a high-powered, long wheelbase car a half-ton lighter than the customary type, yet easier riding and more roadable.

Aluminum was used extensively. Not only did it serve to lighten the car, but it added very much to its efficiency.

The automatic system of chassis lubrication and oilless bearings reduce the number of oil cups on the entire car to four.

This simplicity and convenience is a far cry from the customary practice of having from forty to sixty grease cups calling for your frequent attention.

The two biggest items in automobile expense are fuel and tires, and the extent to which the Marmon 34 has cut these costs has been one of the big surprises of the year.

With a wheelbase of 136 inches and 74 brake test horsepower, the Marmon 34 has averaged from 50 to 75 per cent more miles per gallon of gasoline than any car of this class before it.

By the same token this car is sparing on tires. Talk with Marmon owners, get the results of their metered tests.

The interest that centered around the Marmon exhibit at twenty-two motor shows last year has started out this season unabated.

This is gratifying not only to us, but encouraging to all motor car makers, because it signifies that the public is quick to recognize and reward any worthy achievement.

Open and Closed Bodies, assembled chassis and individual parts have been gathered at our exhibit in Grand Central Palace to enable us to explain in detail the new-day Marmon practices that are wielding so much influence on the newer cars at the show.

DORT

The Enduring Car of the Enduring Class

There are but two classes of motor cars.

One class is made up of poorly built and weakly merchandised cars. The point of saturation for this class has been reached. It cannot endure.

The second class—the class that forms the backbone of the automobile industry—is made up of honestly built and properly merchandised cars. The point of saturation for this class is far in the future. This class will endure.

It is to this enduring class that the Dort belongs. For the Dort is a car that is built to endure. It is the leader among moderate-priced cars—beautiful, sturdy, honestly built and honestly sold.

MR. PADEREWSKI'S RECITAL.

The Pianist Heard by a Very Large Audience in Carnegie Hall.

Mr. Paderewski was in a stormy mood in the recital which he gave yesterday afternoon in Carnegie Hall, his second this season. The storm centres were Beethoven's sonata, Op. 111, and his own, Op. 21. Between them as a contrast came Schumann's "Papillons," into which he turned much of the fire and energy that glowed in the two longer works; and he continued with four pieces by Chopin, his compatriot Stojowski's "Chant d'Amour" and "Près du Ruisseau," and ended with Liszt's fantasia on Mendelssohn's music to "A Midsummer Night's Dream." The sonata by Beethoven he has repeatedly played here, and in it has disclosed some of the greatest qualities of his art, making the first movement of grandiose eloquence, and rising to celestial heights in the variations of the second, the arietta. His finest performance yesterday was in these variations. The colossal utterance of the first movement urged him to demand more of the sonorities of the instrument than its physical limitations can give. The same thing was true of his playing of his own sonata. It is a magnificent work, unsparingly sombre and tragic in its mood throughout, and, though written when Poland had not yet reached the climax of her tragedy, now more than ever embodying the feelings of her sons. Mr. Paderewski himself first introduced it here nine seasons ago. It was difficult for its listeners then, and it is difficult now; but its intense and passionate expressiveness is not invalidated by its austerity, which is lightened only by gleams of a gentler sentiment in the first movement and the slow movement. Mr. Paderewski played his music with a tempestuous and fiery energy that was almost ferocity. And if this gave the fullest liberation to the spirit of the music, it often clashed violently with the inescapable limitations of the instrument.

The other compositions on the program called for different methods and yielded different results in the great master's performance. In the "Papillons" the scale was large; but the music was treated with rich imagination and plastic grace. The audience was very large.

THE CINCINNATI ORCHESTRA.

A Visiting Organization Under Ernst Kunwald Plays.

It is several hundred miles from Cincinnati to New York, yet the Cincinnati Orchestra, with Dr. Ernst Kunwald, its conductor, took this long journey in order to give a concert in Carnegie Hall last evening, in a city which had already had seven orchestral concerts within less than a week. Yet there was an audience of considerable numbers to hear them and to give applause and a polite greeting to the conductor, remembered here as one of the "guest conductors" of the Philharmonic Society some years ago. The visiting orchestra hardly made a profound impression on the New York lovers of orchestral music, though it is a serviceable body and showed great qualities in its performance. It is not yet a thoroughly homogeneous organization; its quality of tone has not reached the point of the highest refinement and beauty, and there were passages in which there was lack of precision and fine balance.

The program was made up on Wagner's prelude to "Die Meistersinger," Beethoven's "Pastoral" symphony, and Strauss's "Symphonia Domestica." The playing of the "Meistersinger" prelude was in many ways praiseworthy. The orchestra appeared to less advantage in the symphony, and especially in the last movement, in which the finish of the ensemble was not all it might have been. Dr. Kunwald has ideas about flexibility of tempo which show a certain lack of imagination. The reading of the symphony was not the disclosure of a poetical conception.

JERSEY OPENS FIGHT FOR RATE REDUCTION

Witnesses at Inquiry Contend Imposition of Lighterage Charges Is Unjust.

MANY LAWYERS ATTENDING

Petitioners, Favoring an "Integral Harbor," Admit They Want More Shipping Business.

New Jersey began actively yesterday its efforts to gain the lion's share of the shipping of the Port of New York by obtaining a freight rate preferential over Manhattan and Brooklyn. There began before Special Examiner Wilbur La Rose, Jr., of the Interstate Commerce Commission in the Chamber of Commerce rooms a hearing on the petition of the New Jersey State Board of Commerce and Navigation to have freight rates to the Jersey shores lessened by the cost of the lighterage of freight to Manhattan and Brooklyn. This cost is 3 cents a hundred pounds. At present freight rates to the cities on the Jersey shore and to New York are the same, irrespective of the fact that railroads delivering freight in Manhattan and Brooklyn bring it across the Hudson.

The case was characterized by lawyers as perhaps the most important that had ever come before the Interstate Commerce Commission, for the reason, they said, that the granting of the New Jersey petition would mean the disruption of the whole system of zone freight ratings, and would make necessary a countrywide readjustment, if not the formulation of a new principle of ratemaking for railroads.

It was frankly admitted by the petitioners that they were out to get more shipping busines. They said they were looking for "justice," but admitted that more shipping for New Jersey meant less shipping for New York.

The New Jersey petition was opposed by an array of legal talent led by George W. Wickersham and Julius Henry Cohen. In the hearing room there were several hundred lawyers representing railroads and civic and business organizations.

In opening the case for the petitioner, George L. Record read a statement of his side's position, in which he made these main points:

1. The cost of transporting freight by lighter from the Jersey shore to Manhattan was at least 3 cents for 100 pounds; and that since this is neither rendered to nor required by New Jersey shippers and consignees, it is unjust to charge the latter for such service in the freight rate.

2. There are no adequate switching facilities connecting the railroads which terminate upon the New Jersey shore.

3. On carload shipments arriving in New Jersey terminals and reconsigned to points in the harbor, there is a reconsigning rate of $2 a car, but if reconsigned to New Jersey points, there is a charge of $5 a car.

"It is our belief," Mr. Record said, "that the granting of our petition in these respects will not be injurious to any legitimate New York interest. We believe the existing traffic situation in New York has become serious. The railroads' existing accommodations are inadequate for the business they are called upon to transact."

Calvin Tomkins, who was Dock Commissioner under Mayor Gaynor, was the first witness for the petitioners. He said he wanted to see conditions arise that would make New Jersey competition compel New York to improve its port facilities. He believed that it would be best for the Interstate Commerce Commission to indicate that it would not always tolerate free lighterage, and thus force New York to co-operate with New Jersey in a system of "harbor integration" by which, he explained, he meant that all the shores of the harbor should be physically connected by a system of bridges or tunnels.

Mr. Tomkins criticized the proposed west side railroad plans because, he said, they did not give to railroads other than the New York Central much chance at Manhattan freight traffic.

On cross-examination by Mr. Cohen, Mr. Tomkins said he had a manufacturing business in New Jersey and was also financially interested in a port development project on the Jersey side of the harbor.

J. Spencer Smith, President of the New Jersey State Board of Commerce and Navigation, said that what New Jersey wanted was "justice," explaining that if it cost less to take freight to the Jersey shore than to bring it to Manhattan, New Jersey should pay less freight. He said that freight that could be handled outside New York City ought not to be brought in and rehandled because it added to the congestion already existing. He thought, too, that the New Jersey railroads ought to pool their interests to contend with the New York Central.

The lawyers then questioned Mr. Smith in an endeavor to get upon the record that a preferential rate to Jersey City would lead to demands for reductions in rates for other cities which now have a rate predicated in part upon that made to New York as a port, which, of course, included Jersey City.

The hearing adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning, with Mr. Smith in the stand.

"I am going down there tomorrow," said Mr. Weinstock yesterday, "and it is going to be a fight to a finish. I have a legal receipt for the seat"—he displayed it—"and while my visit tomorrow will be merely for the purpose of serving formal notice of my ownership, I shall continue the fight until I win."

Adjustable foot pedals. Clutch action very light.
New carburetor air control. One switch for ignition and lighting.
Tail lamp operates independently of other lamps.

Issued from new factories whose added facilities cost over $750,000 in 1916.

A year ahead in beauty. In all that makes for value, too.

The most beautiful Hupmobile you have ever seen.

The most luxurious in its appointments.

The most appealing in appearance, in convenience.

25 Improvements That Captivate

Twenty-five worth-while improvements to make Hupmobile captivation complete.

Sixteen that set style for a year from now.

No car supplies all individual wants.

None ever can meet them all.

But the New Hupmobile comes closest to doing so.

Many of its features are ahead of the times.

That is why you, too, will call it the Year-Ahead Beauty-Car.

The World's Best Four Now The Beauty-Car

It stands, also, at the pinnacle of performance.

It is, in very fact, the world's best Four. That needs no further proof than the testimony of 17,000 owners.

In our four-million-dollar factories, with nearly $1,000,000 of recent improvements, it now receives the outer dress befitting its famous inner virtues.

Many tell us we build the car too good. That we pay too much for things people never see.

If We Build Too Good: Why—We Build Too Good

We could not be content to give Hupmobile owners less.

Quality and performance—these long have been our ideal.

Surely we have reached our goal in a car fit to stand as the world's best Four.

So we studied people's style-wants.

We prepared for them by building new factories.

In The New Hupmobile, see how we have met them. How we have gone a year ahead.

Note the new upholstery. The gloss, the softness of the leather. The depth of the cushions. The stylish French seam.

Be Guided By Your Own Style-Sense

You see the rear quarter curtains on few other cars—unless costlier. A top fashioned in our own factories, on Hupmobile design.

Dim the headlights. See how the light is graduated—down to a dull pin-point glow.

Drop the side curtains into place. See the ease of placing the supports in the doors. They convince instantly that here, at last, is an open car which quickly avails the perfect bad-weather comfort of a closed car.

Let your own style-sense guide you as you go over the car.

Do this, and you can have no doubt that The New Hupmobile is indeed the Year-Ahead Beauty-Car.

WALLSTEIN ACCUSES SWANN OF NEGLECT

Upbraids District Attorney for Alleged Failure to Press Graft Cases.

LATTER SENDS A REPLY

Insisting Lack of Evidence, He Tells Commissioner to Go Before a Magistrate.

The Swann-Delehanty-Breckinridge controversy which originated in the charges of Judge James A. Delehanty to Governor Whitman accusing District Attorney Swann of failure to prosecute cases in his office because of politics, was extended yesterday to include among those concerned Commissioner of Accounts Leonard M. Wallstein. Mr. Wallstein sent a letter to Mr. Swann holding the District Attorney responsible for the failure of other cases to reach prosecution.

There were graft charges against nine employes of the License Department, the result of an investigation of this department by Mr. Wallstein's office last March. The charges ranged from "the acceptance of illegal fees to the planting of a pickpocket to rob license applicants as they stood in line in the License Department." Mr. Wallstein put his information at the disposal of Mr. Swann and made no public complaint of the failure of the District Attorney to act until an evening newspaper on Saturday published a letter sent on the preceding Thursday by Mr. Swann to George H. Bell, Commissioner of Licenses.

In this Mr. Swann asserted that five cases which came under his jurisdiction had been investigated by an assistant and in four of them his office had decided there was not sufficient evidence to warrant prosecution. One case, he said, was awaiting further action by Mr. Wallstein, who had been invited to present his evidence to the head of the indictment bureau in Mr. Swann's office.

Mr. Wallstein, after reviewing the manner in which the charges were made and the evidence found by him, called to Mr. Swann's attention the fact that on the same evidence the District Attorney of Brooklyn had caused indictments in two of three cases which fell to his jurisdiction. He questioned the manner in which the cases presented by him had been investigated by Mr. Swann's office, and remarked that the District Attorney had altogether ignored one case.

Mr. Swann at once sent a reply, asserting the accuracy and honesty of his investigation, suggesting that Mr. Wallstein take the cases up with a Magistrate at his own convenience, a procedure which Mr. Swann characterized as the proper one "under the rules," and closing with the declaration that his office was "too much engaged with real work to present cases which, after thorough investigation, it feels are defective."

Mr. Wallstein may reply today. He did not have time last night.

BAR DODGES SWANN CASE.

No Reference at Annual Meeting of City Association.

The Association of the Bar of the City of New York, at its annual meeting last night, took no cognizance of the Delehanty-Swann-Breckinridge controversy. It was stated that if this controversy should come before the association it would have to be considered by the Committee on Grievances.

Prominent Men Support Stand by Princeton Sophomores.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 9.—The attack on the upper class club system at Princeton University by a number of the leaders of the sophomore class received encouragement today when a letter signed by ten prominent seniors appeared in the Daily Princetonian upholding the stand taken by the members of the under class in revolting against the present system as subversive of democracy in Princeton.

In their letter to the daily organ of the university the seniors said: "The statement of principles of the sophomores contains a criticism which is wholly justified." Cintinuing, the letter said:

"We wish to express to the sophomores our sympathy for the motive which has impelled them to take this action, and to assure them of our willingness to co-operate with them in every way possible to bring about some satisfactory and practicable solution."

Among the prominent seniors who signed the communication were George W. Perkins, Jr., Chairman of the Senior Council of the university; Alexander McKaig, Editorial Chairman of the Daily Princetonian, and J. Nicholas, editor in chief of the Daily Princetonian.

Armour's Part in Keeping Down Food Costs

To occupy the place that Armour does in relation to the country's food supply imposes responsibilities of stupendous importance. And in this time of high food costs, higher than any of us have ever known them, it is only fair to the American people, that they should know how fully Armour realizes these responsibilities—how thoroughly the Armour organization lives up to its stewardship.

It must be remembered that Armour is not a producer, but a purchaser of raw materials; not a retailer, but a manufacturer of finished food products.

In this position, as a great public servant, it is Armour's highest aim to provide the farmer with a steady and continuous market, that he may be stimulated to greater production.

As increased yield brings greater revenue to the stock grower, so does it bring greater volume. But, most important, greater supply likewise means lower prices to consumer.

Yet encouraging greater production is but one way in which Armour strives to keep prices at true-value levels. In scientific handling, Armour effects wholesale economies which further hold down living costs.

And this is accomplished by turning all inedible portions into valuable marketable by-products. Under less economical systems, these parts would be charged to you in higher prices for meats.

But even such efficiency in preparation is not enough. Your food supply must be distributed cheaply, and without undue shrinkage or spoilage. So Armour has built a line of refrigerator cars. And because Armour and Company own and maintain these refrigerator cars, no outside car shortage can ever stop the delivery, nor raise the price of meats, your most energizing food.

These factors act as a wholesome influence generally in keeping prices at true-value levels.

Once this is borne upon you, it follows as a matter of course that in specifying Armour foods upon your table, you are working for your own best interests.

TRADE MARK REG.

$105,000,000.00

Our Biggest Year

40% Increase

1916 was the biggest year in Overland history.

We sold approximately 150,000 Overland and Willys-Knight automobiles.

This means a total volume of about $105,000,000.00.

This is a net gain of better than 40 per cent over 1915.

This is the largest volume of business ever done in one year by any producer of cars now selling above $400.

Think back a minute and you can better grasp the immensity of this gain.

Eight years ago we shipped during a whole year only 465 cars. And we thought that wasn't so bad.

The company was then worth a little over $50,000. In those days that sounded pretty large.

Today the company's net assets are more than $68,000,000.00.

For this year we reach the culmination of our biggest idea—our dream to manufacture a complete line of cars under one executive organization, one factory management, one purchasing unit, one sales force, one group of dealers.

We are the first manufacturers to do it, and we know it to be the one and only plan by which we can continually increase the quality and at the same time decrease the price to you.

Watch us during 1917.

STATE PROHIBITION LAWS MADE EFFECTIVE.

As a happy escape from the oppression and injustice of an amendment to the Federal Constitution prohibiting the sale of liquor throughout the Union, the decision of the Supreme Court affirming the constitutionality of the Webb-Kenyon act will be welcomed and applauded. It is from that point of view, indeed, that approval of the decision will be chiefly given, easiest given, for the success of certain States in forcing upon all the States the adoption of their views, their practices, and their habits would be repugnant to the sense of natural right and justice, it would be destructive of our theory of local self-government. That the court has found for the country a way of escape from that peril will serve in most minds as a very substantial offset to the many and grave objections, on constitutional grounds, urged against the very action the court has now taken.

The court has decided that the Webb-Kenyon act, giving force and effect to State laws prohibiting the transportation in interstate commerce of liquor consigned to persons in prohibition States, is constitutional. There were many and serious obstacles in the way of such a decision. First of all, the Constitution of the United States, which reserves to the Federal Congress the exclusive power to regulate commerce, was an obstacle. There stood in the way, too, many former decisions of the court itself. It is evident that the court called to its aid human reason and common sense. The exclusive right of Congress to regulate interstate commerce is undoubted. The right of a State to exercise its police power for the suppression of the liquor traffic is equally beyond doubt. But the two rights are in conflict, as abundant experience has proved. If the State is powerless to prohibit the bringing within its borders of liquor as an article of interstate commerce, its local prohibition law is to that extent nullified. The Wilson act of 1890 only in part met the difficulty arising out of this conflict. The Webb-Kenyon law meets it completely. To have declared the later act unconstitutional would have left an obvious wrong without remedy. In passing upon the Wilson act of 1890 the court, Mr. Justice WHITE delivering the opinion, said that "Congress, sedulous to prevent its exclusive right to regulate commerce "from interfering with the power of "the States over intoxicating liquor, "by the Wilson act adopted a special "rule enabling the States to extend "their authority as to such liquor "shipped from other States before it "became commingled with the mass "of other property in the State by "sale in the original package." That is, when delivered to the consignor, a package containing liquor became at once subject to the State law. It is in that spirit, it is with a desire to prevent the exclusive Federal right of regulating commerce from interfering with the right of the State to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquor, that the court now goes to the extreme point of virtually surrendering or delegating to the State some part of the exclusive Federal right of regulation, to the end that the State may exercise its police power unhampered.

The Supreme Court had in the case of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad vs. F. W. Cook Brewing Company positively affirmed that "it is not "competent for any State to forbid any "common carrier to transport such "articles from a consignor in one "State to a consignee in another," yet the court now decides that under the authority of the Webb-Kenyon act States may forbid such commerce. By innumerable decisions the court has affirmed the principle that the regulation of interstate commerce is within the exclusive province of the Federal Congress, and in passing on the South Carolina Dispensary act it declared that "a State law which "denies such right or substantially "interferes or hampers the same is "in conflict with the Constitution of "the United States." That position is manifestly abandoned in the present decision. Also, it appears that in respect to the liquor traffic the Federal Government by this act and this decision delegates to the States some part of its exclusive right of control over interstate commerce.

So far as prohibition laws and the liquor traffic are concerned, the objections to the view now taken by the court will not be considered very serious. It is better that prohibition laws should be made effective in communities that want them than that by a Federal amendment the rule of prohibition should be extended over unwilling States. The really serious ground of objection is in the possibility that this precedent may be used to justify further inroads upon the Federal power of regulation over interstate commerce. That would be a danger, it is a danger from which the makers of the Constitution felt that they had extricated the country. It was to get away from the evils and abuses of State jealousies and narrowness that the convention conferred upon Congress the exclusive right over commerce between the States. It is entirely conceivable that, having surrendered a part of that power in respect to liquor, a similar situation may arise, say, in respect to prison-made goods or the products of child labor, or in respect to any commodity as to which the people of any given State should chance to hold an unfavorable opinion. Mr. TAFT pointed out that peril in his veto of the Webb-Kenyon act in February, 1913:

> Now if to the discretion of Congress is committed the question whether in interstate commerce we should return to the old methods prevailing before the Constitution or not, it would seem to be conferring upon Congress the power to amend the Constitution by ignoring or striking out one of its most important provisions. It was certainly intended by that clause to secure uniformity in the regulation of commerce between the States. To suspend that purpose and to permit the States to exercise their old authority, before they became States, to interfere with commerce between them and their neighbors, is to defeat the constitutional purpose.

Mr. TAFT is an able lawyer, he was a sound Judge. The best lawyers of the Senate and the Attorney General, Mr. WICKERSHAM, agreed with him in believing the act to be unconstitutional. The court disagrees with them all. It is possible that the great tribunal was in some measure influenced, as properly it should be influenced, by public opinion, the tide of which is setting toward prohibition. But the court could not yield its judgment of what the Constitution means to a popular belief in the wisdom of certain laws. Undoubtedly the court felt that it was not giving up its legal convictions, was not amending the Constitution. It must have felt that under the authority of the Constitution and within the limits of its power under that instrument it could sustain the constitutionality of the act, even though, if not actually reversing itself, it was obliged to broaden and very much extend the views expressed in many earlier decisions.

A FALSE MILITARY SYSTEM.

The report of the Executive Committee of Mayor MITCHEL's Committee on National Defense on the mobilization of the National Guard does no sort of injustice to either the officers or the men of our militia regiments, who have performed good service on the border. It admits their enthusiasm and personal sacrifice, but finds in the mobilization, nevertheless, only proof of the need of universal training under single Federal control. The Commissioners reach the conclusion, which so many other disinterested persons had already reached, that the voluntary enlistment system and dual State and Federal control have failed. They report that 65 per cent. of the men who were called to military duty had to give up their regular civilian incomes. That was to be expected. Nearly all of the 2,400 men who have been questioned favor universal training. They have seen a great light. As a matter of fact, every sane person in this country favors universal military training at this moment, unless he favors no military training at all and believes we should adopt a purely non-resistant policy.

The Mayor's investigators speak of the National Guard system as one that leaves everything undone until the last moment. But in that respect, with the elimination of some of the National Guard politicians, it could be improved. The lesson of the year is to be derived not from the fact that so many of the men sent to the border had never received any training and that the work of transportation and equipment was so sadly bungled, (for which the Washington bureaus were responsible,) but from the clear proof that the partial and purely political "federalization" of the State militia will not serve for national defense. The lesson will go for nothing, however, unless Congress can be induced to take action.

THE WARSHIP SCANDAL.

The naval situation is a national scandal. Congress was induced to enact a measure for adequate naval extension with great difficulty. Every important item in the program was fiercely opposed. The fight was long and beset with discouragements, but ended in a seeming victory for preparedness. Seeming only. The building of great new warships is authorized, enormous sums of money have been laid aside to pay for them, but it seems they are to exist for a long time to come only on paper. Projected ships do not strengthen our naval defenses. We cannot shut our eyes and make believe we have a navy simply because Congress has authorized naval extension. Secretary DANIELS has appealed for a further appropriation in the next fiscal year of $12,000,000 to enable him to provide the means of building more of the larger warships in Government yards.

In the New York Navy Yard two large ships can be built at the same time, and provisions are making for the extension of the shipbuilding facilities at San Francisco and Philadelphia. It will take a long time, however, to get other navy yards ready for such work. Yet what else is Mr. DANIELS to do? In his present plight he is certainly entitled to public sympathy. He has managed to arrange for the building of the superdreadnoughts authorized in the 1917 installment of the new program, but there are four battle cruisers and three scout cruisers, vessels which should be built with as little delay as possible, for which no satisfactory bids have been made. The time asked by the private yards is from four years to fifty-one months. The money proposals are not satisfactory. Yet the allowance for each of the battle cruisers if built speedily is more than $19,000,000. It is inconceivable that the work cannot be profitably done for that.

In a letter to Chairman PADGETT of the House Naval Committee, Secretary DANIELS says that "the private "shipbuilders of the country are un"able or unwilling to undertake the "complete program with any assur"ance of speed in completion, even at "prices which the department regards "as unreasonably high." Are the private shipbuilders too profitably occupied with work for foreign countries to permit them to serve their own country's need in a critical moment? The people of this country ought to be informed as to this. The whole situation should be made clear to the public mind.

SAFETY ON RAILROADS.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company may well regard with satisfaction the record which shows that the life of no one of the 196,000,000 passengers carried by its cars was lost in a train accident of any kind last year, although the traffic, both passenger and freight, was the greatest ever known since the roads were built. And this was the third consecutive year—the fourth for the lines east of Pittsburgh—of such avoidance of fatal accident.

While our railroad companies were buying nearly $400,000,000 worth of cars and locomotives last year, paying prices higher by 75 per cent. than the average in normal times, they were not neglecting safety appliances. For the year's improvement in safety equipment they are commended in a recent report of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Inspection showed that only 3¾ per cent. of the freight cars and less than 2 per cent. of the passenger cars were not fully in accord with the standards prescribed. The year's gain, said this report, was "particularly gratifying, in view of "the tremendously increased volume "of business the railroads have been "called upon to handle." Among the coming improvements will be the adoption of a standard coupler, the use of which will reduce expenses and give greater safety to employés. The companies are doing what they can to save the lives of passengers, and the number of those killed on lines which are two-fifths of the world's mileage is very small.

But more than 5,000 trespassers on the tracks are killed every year, and for these deaths the companies cannot be censured. In many ways the Pennsylvania and other companies have been striving to prevent them. Hundreds of thousands of warning posters, printed in several languages, have been distributed, and the help of school teachers has been sought. Safety appliances on trains will not save trespassers from the consequences of their carelessness and folly.

MR. LANSING'S CONFIDENCES.

The "leak" seems to have been discovered, and while there is nothing scandalous about it, there is room for regret that Secretary LANSING is not more worldly-wise. Some time ago he said that he had never speculated and would not know how to go about it if he wanted to. It is evident that the possible effect of the note on the stock market never occurred to him. In fact, when a Congressman asked him if it had, he replied, "I never gave it a thought: it never entered my mind."

Therefore he saw no reason why he should not tell the newspaper correspondents at 11 o'clock that he would have an important piece of news for them at 5 o'clock. It is customary to trust the correspondents, and they are the custodians of many secrets. But Mr. LANSING walked out into the anteroom and made his announcement to all who were there. Most of them were newspaper men, and Mr. LANSING assumed that they all were. He did not know then, but knows now, that three of them were strangers waiting to see him; one of them, indeed, was a New York broker, who now says that he instantly figured out for himself that "it was a peace note," and saw that it was "the greatest advance financial news" since the battle of Waterloo, but did not use this information for his "personal" profit.

In future Mr. LANSING might, without abandoning the justified confidence he is accustomed to repose in reporters, profit by examining the methods used by other statesmen when they reposed that confidence. When Mr. ROOT was Secretary of War, for instance, he did not walk out into an anteroom and bestow his confidences on whomever he might find there. The correspondents were invited into his inner office. When they came in he looked them over to make sure he knew them, and if a stranger was with them the stranger was formally introduced before the Secretary began to talk. When Mr. HAY was Secretary of State any newspaper correspondent could get in to see him, but only in his office, not in an anteroom, and only after the shrewd and experienced EDDIE SAVOY, the old doorkeeper with the wisdom of centuries on his head, had passed him in. When Mr. ROOSEVELT was President and wished to notify the correspondents that an important statement would be ready at 5 o'clock, he did not walk out into a public place and make the announcement; he had Mr. LOEB call them up on the telephone and tell them to come. If either of these, to mention no more of Mr. LANSING's predecessors in high office and the confidence of newspaper men, had ever walked out into an anteroom to utter his confidences, he at least would certainly have looked the crowd over to see if he knew its members.

THREESCORE YEARS AND TEN.

This community will today give to Mr. JACOB H. SCHIFF upon the seventieth anniversary of his birth greetings and sincere congratulations that will bespeak its appreciation of one who has spent so many years and won high distinction in its service. Mr. SCHIFF is recognized not only as eminent in financial affairs, with a profound understanding of the business of the world in which the City of New York now has so large a part, but as one who by his great philanthropies, what we may call his habit of benefaction, and his willingness to give aid by counsel and influence to innumerable good causes, has so constantly given proof of his good citizenship. Mr. SCHIFF has long been a conspicuous figure in the activities of the community, he has won the respect and esteem of the entire nation, and he stands among the foremost in the roll of its citizenship.

ECONOMY IN THE SENATE.

A caucus of Democratic Senators has declared, in the terms of a resolution proposed by Mr. NEWLANDS, that the Appropriations Committee should be "supported in its efforts to prevent in"creases beyond the actual needs of "the Government, and as far as pos"sible to obtain decreases." In the shadow of an enormous deficit in the Treasury, any appropriations beyond the actual needs of the Government should be impossible. From party, as well as national and patriotic, motives, Democrats in Congress should be eager to avoid superfluous and extravagant appropriations. The unavoidable burden of taxation will be heavy. The country will not tolerate waste.

THE TIMES hopes that the Democratic Senators will carry out the resolution of the caucus, carry it out, if necessary, to the discomfiture of their brethren in the House or in the Senate who have not yet learned that in the presence of imperious national necessities the trade of the pork parceler must end.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Princeton's Clubs Are Doomed.

So well supported is the present attack on the club system at Princeton that its supporters might as well, apparently, yield to the inevitable with whatever grace they can command, and limit their efforts to saving from the wreck what little they can of their large investments, financial and other. As yet they have not spoken audibly in their own defense. Whether this silence is due to the fact that their case is entirely bad, and there is nothing to be said for it, or because of a haughty refusal to answer criticism considered by them of no consequence—that remains to be seen.

The first of these suppositions is the more plausible. It is perfectly obvious that the existence of these clubs, conducted as they are, is a violation of the democratic spirit which should be—and when present is—the chief glory of a college or university. The standards established by the clubs are not only irrelevant to all the proper objects of an educational institution; they are antagonistic to those objects, and, so far as they prevail, they make the success or failure of the student depend, not upon the industry and intelligence with which he avails himself of the opportunities for acquiring knowledge and culture provided by one of these great schools, but upon his ability to meet tests of a wholly different sort—tests which should never be applied to a student in a college.

It is a highly encouraging feature of this campaign against the Princeton clubs that it was started, and seemingly is wholly to be carried on, by a fraction, and a not unimportant fraction, of the undergraduate body. Headed by the son of GROVER CLEVELAND, and including not a few young men who cannot be suspected of insincerity in declaring the club grapes sour, the rebels have already secured the approval of many members of the threatened organizations as well as that of President HIBBEN. The latter has judiciously refrained from doing more than express his sympathy with the movement. As a result of that, the reform when effected will have been entirely voluntary, instead of something effected by the exercise of authority.

And that is always the best—perhaps the only real—kind of reform.

Relation of Armies to Freedom.

That an oath of enlistment, as that truly remarkable exponent of militarism, Major HARLEE of the Marine Corps, told the Senate Subcommittee on Universal Service, is "an oath of bondage" can hardly be denied. Certainly the soldier is held to the performance of his allotted tasks—tasks quite voluntarily assumed, by the way, in any country where universal service can be made the national policy only through the exercise of the popular will—with a sternness unknown in any other trade or profession. But the Major's implication and evident assumption that this, or any, degree of "bondage" is an evil and incompatible with free institutions is not as nearly sure as he seems to think.

Being what and where he is, the Major must admit that an army is among the needed instruments of a nation—that upon its existence depends the preservation of national safety and order. That being the case, he accepts, or should accept, as legitimate the adoption of such measures and devices as have been shown by immemorial experience to be those upon which the creation of an army depends. And an army composed of men free to quit the ranks whenever they choose, and for any reason that at the moment seems good to them, if not quite inconceivable, is not far from it.

To establish such a rule would be to end all discipline at once and to make the uses to which an army could be put, the evolutions it could be asked to perform, depend on the approval of the men in the ranks. No charge could be made until after a vote on its wisdom and probable outcome had been taken, and, of course, the appointment of officers and their retention of their positions would be determined in the same quarter. Neither war nor the prevention of war can be achieved in that manner.

But under the system of universal service there is no such thing as "enlistment," in the ordinary sense of that word, and membership in the army is for no fixed term, since even old age does not prevent calling upon a man for the performance of such duties as he may still be capable of. It has been well said that manhood suffrage and manhood service go naturally together, and there is tacit recognition of that truth in what has always been the theory, if not the practice, of our militia. Only because without training a man is not and cannot be a soldier has our practice been out of harmony with our theories.

A Possibility Doubted by Nobody.

There would be more interest in the attempt to prove that, even in these times, life and health can be maintained at a cost of 25 cents a day for food if everybody did not already know that the thing can be done, at least for a while. And really that is all the experiment now in progress here can demonstrate.

The value of this experiment in dietetics is lessened, too, by the fact that its subjects belong to a carefully selected class, by no means typical of the general population. They are a husky lot, with appetites that enable them to eat with more or less enjoyment—and therefore to digest and utilize—a few plain foods. In this they are fortunate rather than meritorious. Even they, however, would not look with satisfaction on a whole life, or even a year, passed on fare so simple and undiversified.

The man who eats to live has been often and justly reprehended, but, on the other hand, nobody is under obligation to eat merely to live. Nobody does it except under a compulsion that soon comes to be resented, and well it may be, for there are innocent pleasures of the table, besides those that are gross and therefore guilty.

Mexican Post Office Authorities Refuse to Deliver Copies to Subscribers

A subscriber in Mexico City who has been unable to obtain his copies of THE TIMES sends the following translation of a letter from the Mexican Post Office Department:

> The General Administration of the branch, in a note on the subject, advises this office under my charge, as follows:
> "In reply to your note cited in antecedents, and that you may so inform the complainant, I manifest to you that so long as these periodical publications edited in the United States make obstructionist labor against the dispositions emanating from the administration of Government of the Republic, putting difficulties in the way of its pacification, the Directorate General, which is under my charge, in accordance with the right conceded it in the final part of Paragraph 5 of Article 16 of the Postal Union Convention, extensive to all the countries of said Union, has proceeded and will proceed right along to restrict all copies of that kind."

The letter is dated Dec. 15, 1916.

A Tribute to Jacob H. Schiff.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

JACOB H. SCHIFF'S SEVENTIETH BIRTHDAY.

When Jacob woke up from his dream,
He took a stone and vowed to build
An altar to The Most High God,
And lay upon it sacrifice.

Another age, another land—
Again did Jacob dream a dream
And vow an altar he would build
And bring unto it sacrifice.

This time the altar was not stone,
But was his human living heart;
His sacrifice he brought to man,
And so unto The Most High God.

The German People.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

No people on earth was ever riper for a republic than the German people, the most efficient, the most advanced, the most forceful, and yet the most loving, sympathetic, and hospitable people the world ever knew. How long will they tolerate the Hohenzollern or any other form of imperialism?

CARLOS HOFFMAN.

THE TAVERN OF ROMANCE.

I met him on the sunny road,
And it was far from here,
Out where each little happy breeze
Caught sweetness from the grass and trees
And whispered words of cheer.
And when I asked him whence he came
He smiled and made reply,
"Out of the Melting Pot of Things
I came to hear the thrush that sings
Beneath the good blue sky."

"Where will you rest tonight?" I said,
(So many do not know!)
"Where will you drink the health of years,
And eat the simple food that cheers
After the sun is low?"
And he replied, and in his smile
He answered more, perchance,
"My wine shall be from some clear spring,
And I shall eat and I shall sing
In the Tavern of Romance."

"Where is the Tavern of Romance,
Oh, where?" I shouted then,
"A thousand hearts I know that wait
To enter at its olden gate,
To laugh and sing again."
He looked, oh, far away, and smiled,
And then his voice rang clear:
"I built it for myself," he said.
"No matter where my feet are led
It is forever near!"

SENATE VOTES, 55-32, FOR DRY WASHINGTON

CAME OVER REFERENDUM

Only 355 Wet Counties Left in the 2,543 in All the States of the Union, W. H. Anderson Says.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The Sheppard bill for prohibition in the District of Columbia after Nov. 1 was passed by the Senate today and sent to the House after a long fight. The vote was 55 to 32. The decision followed the rejection of the Underwood amendment, proposing to submit the question to a popular referendum, by a tie vote of 43 to 43 As the Vice President was not present to cast the deciding ballot the amendment was lost under a rule of the Senate.

The vote on the referendum is being considered tonight as a fair indication of the line-up in the Senate on the proposed referendum regarding a constitutional amendment for national prohibition which has been reported favorably by the Judiciary Committee, and which would require a two-thirds vote to pass.

Neither the vote on the referendum amendment nor that on the passage of the bill was on party lines. There were 26 Democrats and 17 Republicans voting for the referendum and 23 Democrats and 20 Republicans voting against it. Most of the Republicans of the Progressive group voted against it. For the bill itself there were 28 Democratic and 27 Republican votes, with 22 Democrats and 10 Republicans against it. All the Progressives voted for passage.

The bill says that after Nov. 1 "no person or persons, or any house, company, association, club or corporation, his, its or their agents, officers, clerks or servants, directly or indirectly, shall, in the District of Columbia, manufacture for sale, or gift, import for sale, offer for sale, keep for sale, traffic in, barter, export, ship out of the District of Columbia or exchange for goods or merchandise, or solicit or receive orders for the purchase of any alcoholic liquors for beverage purposes or for any other than scientific, medicinal, pharmaceutical, mechanical, sacramental or other non-beverage purposes."

Scientific Needs Recognized.

Another section says the measure cannot be construed to prevent the manufacture, importation, exportation or sale of denatured methyl alcohol or of ethyl alcohol for scientific, medical, and like purposes, but their manufacture and sale are limited to licensed druggists or manufacturers. The so-called locker system is specifically forbidden.

All common carriers bringing intoxicants into the District are required to keep a record of the shipper and consignee, who must make affidavit that the intoxicants are for personal use.

Heavy penalties are provided for violations, including a provision aimed at physicians who prescribe liquor for patients without a cause. Efforts to forbid absolutely manufacture in the District and export from it were beaten without a record vote. An amendment by Senator Phelan which would permit sale of "wine, ale, beer and porter" also was defeated.

The vote was preceded by little debate on the terms of the bill, but many explanations were given by Senators of their reasons for voting for and against the Underwood referendum amendment.

There were fewer absentees than at any other vote this session. During the several hours after the bill automatically came up and before the vote was taken every seat in every gallery except that reserved for the Diplomatic Corps was filled, and scores were standing or sitting in the aisles. About half the spectators were women. The crowd made only one real demonstration, that of hearty approval when the final vote was announced.

Legislation to prohibit liquor traffic in Hawaii was urged today before the House Territories Committee by representatives of the Anti-Saloon League of America and the Women's Christian Temperance Union. The committee tomorrow will hear arguments in favor of a drastic liquor prohibition law in Alaska.

PREDICTS A "DRY" NATION.

W. H. Anderson Expects National Prohibition in Ten Years.

"It looks like very dry times ahead, and in the very near future. The upholding of the Webb-Kenyon bill by the Supreme Court will precipitate a regular epidemic of State laws restricting interstate shipment of liquor, and in ten years I believe this country will be absolutely dry."

This was the comment of William H. Anderson, Superintendent of the New York wing of the Anti-Saloon League, yesterday, on the action of the United States Supreme Court Monday, when it held the law prohibiting shipment of liquor from wet to dry States to be valid. The decision brought joy to the camps of all of the different organizations that have been fighting liquor in various ways, some of them advocating total prohibition, some local option, and others temperance.

"This is rapid progress," Mr. Anderson said. "The public scarcely realizes to what extent the United States has gone dry in recent years. All of the wet territory in this country today could be put into the State of Texas. Of the 2,543 counties in all of the States of the Union, there are only 355 wet counties left, and some of these are partly dry.

"It now appears exceedingly probable that Congress will submit the national prohibition amendment to the voters of the country before 1920."

Mr. Anderson said that the Webb-Kenyon bill itself would not prevent liquor from being shipped to most of the present dry States, as only three or four of these had passed laws absolutely prohibiting shipments of liquor. But, Mr. Anderson said, the action of the Supreme Court could not have come at a more opportune time, as most of the State Legislatures were now in session.

The National Executive Committee of the Anti-Saloon League will hold a meeting tomorrow in Washington.

A map obtained yesterday from the Anti-Saloon League here shows graphically the onward march of prohibition throughout the United States. As done in black and white—the white representing the "dry" States, the black the "wet"—New Jersey stands out as the only State in the Union where liquor is sold throughout all its confines. Next, as a State where license predominates, comes Nevada, where liquor is sold almost universally with the exception of two "dry" spots, one on the Northern border and one near the California line.

Entirely dry are Maine, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Michigan, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Colorado, Arizona, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, and Washington. New York State is almost half "dry"; Pennsylvania more than half. The "dry" territory spreads over almost half of Wisconsin. Minnesota is roughly a third "dry," and the anti-liquor forces have conquered much of California.

States in which local option has driven liquor nearly out, but which remain "wet" as States, are Utah, Wyoming, New Mexico, Texas, Florida, and Delaware.

Ten Men and Women Contribute $10,000 Each for Zoological Building

Ten prominent men and women have contributed $10,000 each for a museum to be erected in the Zoological Garden in Bronx Park. This was announced to some fifteen hundred members and friends of the New York Zoological Society at its twenty-third annual meeting in the Waldorf-Astoria last night.

Madison Grant, Chairman of the Executive Committee, in explaining that the museum is to contain the magnificent horns and heads on hand, said the donors were Mrs. Russell Sage, Mrs. F. F. Thompson, the late John D. Archbold, Jacob H. Schiff, George F. Baker, Louise W. Carnegie, Andrew Carnegie, Edmund C. Converse, "A Friend," and Samuel Thorne, in Memoriam. The museum will be erected on the east side of Baird Court and plans for it are now being considered. Director Hornaday, he added, was largely responsible for the gifts.

ELECTIONS BY SUFFRAGISTS.

Leaders Are Chosen by Women in City's 63 Assembly Districts.

Each of the sixty-three assembly district organizations of the New York City Woman Suffrage Party held its elections yesterday. Two meetings took place in the afternoon and the others in the evening. One change was in the Twenty-ninth, the wealthiest Manhattan district, where Dr. Mary Halton, who has been an active leader for some years, has found her professional duties too pressing and the leadership will be taken by Miss Camilla Morgan.

Leaders who were re-elected in some of the larger districts were Mrs. Edward van Zile in the Twelfth, Miss Emily M. Hooper in the Fifteenth, Mrs. Robert T. Oliver in the Nineteenth, and Mrs. Charles L. Guy, wife of Judge Guy, in the Twenty-third. In twenty out of the thirty-one assembly districts in Manhattan, the leaders were re-elected. A few of the elections were held in residences, but the greater number in schools, halls and the rooms of political clubs which were thrown open to the women. The borough conventions will be held in the different boroughs on Jan. 16, when the borough officers will be elected.

Miss Morgan, the new assembly district leader of the Twenty-ninth, is the daughter of Mrs. Milton Barger, and is one of the younger group of society women who are actively engaged in the 1917 suffrage campaign. Her assistants include other women prominent in the younger set, among them Mrs. J. Gordon Auchincloss, daughter of Colonel E. M. House, who will be the first vice leader; Miss Edith Percy Morgan, Recording Secretary; Mrs. J. Lloyd Derby, Corresponding Secretary, and Mrs. George Place, Treasurer. The election was held at the home of Mrs. Howard Mansfield, 535 Park Avenue.

A NEW WEST SIDE APPEAL.

Civic Organizations Committee Assails "Secrecy" of Contract Terms.

The Committee of Conference of Civic Organizations, of which the Rev. Dr. John P. Peters is President, will appeal to Mayor Mitchel today for information as to the latest developments between the city and the New York Central Railroad regarding the West Side Improvement plan. A petition has been prepared which says:

"We understand that the Corporation Counsel of New York has drawn up a contract with the New York Central which the public is not permitted to see. This contract is said to give the railroad perpetual rights along the Hudson shore and terminal facilities on the lower west side of incalculable value. In return, the city gets practically nothing. We ask that the facts be made public. We ask that you, the Mayor of New York, furnish us with a copy of this contract. We furthermore ask for a proper length of time in which to study all the details of the contract, before the Board of Estimate sets a date for hearings."

The West Side Improvement matter came up in the Board of Aldermen yesterday when Alderman Quinn, a Republican, who represents the Fifteenth Aldermanic District on the west side, introduced a resolution providing that the board recommend to the Legislature the passage of the Ottinger-Ellenbogen bill which has for its purpose the transfer from the Board of Estimate to the Public Service Commission of jurisdiction over the improvement. The Alderman asked that the resolution be made a special order of the day, but this was objected to and it was referred to the Committee on General Welfare.

WHITMAN MEETS LEADERS.

State Committee Expected to Elect Glynn Chairman Friday.

Governor Whitman had several conferences yesterday with Republican State leaders regarding the meeting of the Republican State Committee here on Friday when the question of selecting a successor to Chairman Frederick C. Tanner is to be taken up. The Chief Executive, among others, saw William L. Ward of Westchester, F. J. H. Kracke of Brooklyn, Public Service Commissioner William Hayward, and George A. Glynn, Executive State Auditor, who is slated to succeed Mr. Tanner.

The Governor is satisfied that there will be no trouble at Friday's meeting of the State Committee over the selection of Chairman Tanner's successor. The question of having a paid manager to run the committee will probably be left to a sub-committee, and if possible, the matter will be settled quietly. No opposition has appeared to Mr. Glynn as a possible Chairman, but there is considerable objection to having a paid manager appointed. A new Secretary in place of Lafayette B. Gleason, who has announced that he does not care to continue in the office, will also be selected at Friday's meeting.

REPORT SAYS GUARD SYSTEM IS FAILURE

Mayor's Committee on Defense Indorses Universal Army Training Instead.

NATION NO LONGER ISOLATED

Both from a Military and Economic Standpoint Present Status Should Be Revised.

The Executive Committee of the Mayor's Committee on National Defense, of which Willard Straight is Chairman, the other members being Cleveland H. Dodge, Sheriff Alfred E. Smith, John Mitchell, William N. Dykman, and Alexander M. White, made public last night its report on the National Guard and the mobilization of that arm into Federal service six months ago. The report represents the work of a staff of trained investigators, a great deal of the information having been obtained from the War Department, from National Guard Headquarters in New York, and at first hand from officers and men of the Guard.

Mobilization of the National Guard last Summer, the report says, afforded a test of the military system of the nation, and in undertaking the investigation the committee adds that it has been moved "by a consideration of the new and quite unforeseen status that the great changes of the last few years have forced upon the United States."

"The present war," the report adds, "has driven home to us as the incidents of a time of peace never could, the meaning of these changes. We have now seen how a nation in control of the sea could transport troops thousands of miles and land them on a hostile coast, and how the enterprise failed only because an adequate and well-prepared land force was ready to meet the invaders.

"We have seen submarine merchantmen elude their enemies on the surface and come safely to harbor on this side of the ocean. We have seen a submarine torpedo boat appear without warning in one of our ports, take on supplies, depart, and in a few hours later destroy commercial vessels within sight of our shores.

No More Isolation for Nation.

"These startling events have made us understand clearly that our isolation is ended. An invasion of the United States today would involve a sea voyage of fewer difficulties and perils than faced Napoleon when he waited for favorable winds to take his armies across the English Channel for an attack upon Great Britain.

"To recognize this altered condition is not to give ourselves up to vain imaginings and fears. To realize that we are no longer a distant, but a near, neighbor of the other nations of the world is not to assume that we must quarrel with them. We may be expected to prefer the ways of peace in the future as we have preferred them in the past. But there is before us the history of other peoples who have been led into war against their will; and in these very days has been written down the proof that diplomacy is not a sure preventive of war.

"Therefore it is nothing more than common prudence that the United States should prepare to protect itself. It may now happily be taken for granted that the people are agreed to that. The question that remains is: How is complete protection to be assured?

"We are entering upon years that promise to bring the gravest national problems. If we are to be safe and free to solve them, the nation must have the active devotion of all its citizens. The individualistic tendency must not be stifled, but it must be modified to meet a situation that demands a keener consciousness, a more ready acknowledgment, of the individual's obligation to the State. No half-hearted response, no response from a fraction of the population, will do."

The committee summarizes its conclusions under two heads, economic and military. This summary and the conclusions are set forth as follows:

"Economic—By bringing into service men with heavy family and business responsibilities, although there was available in the country a far more than adequate number of unmarried men who had not attained a high economic value, the mobilization showed that the National Guard scheme of defense was economically unsound. It caused widespread distress to the dependents of guardsmen, and it took mature men from positions where they had established their usefulness to commerce and industry. The burden it threw upon employers was inequitably distributed, in that some employers continued to pay their men during service, while others cut off their men's pay. Under the prevailing system of voluntary enlistment it was not possible to select for the National Guard, either before the mobilization or afterward, the class of men most easily to be spared for military duty.

Failure as Arm of Defense.

"Military — The mobilization proved that the National Guard was not to be depended upon for defense. Reports of the Secretary of War and the bureaus of the War Department show that only enough recruits were obtained to bring the guard to 55 per cent. of the required war strength on Aug. 31, and that the guard troops on the Mexican border and in State camps on that date were only 1,000 officers and men above their prescribed minimum (i. e., peace) strength. Under a control divided between the nation and the States, the troops could not be properly equipped, mobilized, and concentrated. Three months after the call the organizations on the border did not have the equipment required for action in the field, and, classing as recruits the guardsmen who had had less than three months' service previous to June 18—that is, whose whole training had been less than a dozen armory drills—63 per cent. of the force consisted of untrained men.

"A body of troops such as the National Guard, the control of which is divided between the nation and the States and the ranks of which must be filled by voluntary enlistment, cannot be expected to assume the responsibilities and perform the duties of a national force. To impose upon it such service as it was called upon to render last Summer, or such as might be necessary in any national emergency, is not only an injustice to the men who compose the guard, their families and employers, but is also futile as a measure of defense.

"The immediate need is for a standing army sufficient for the protection of the country's borders and for similar service in the public defense. But only through universal military training, as a part of universal education, can the manhood of the nation be qualified to afford real and permanent protection."

Ebployers Want Universal Service.

The committee communicated with 431 employers of labor and asked them to express their opinion regarding national preparedness in general, and the replies showed that 429 favored preparedness, while only two were against it. Furthermore, 356 out of 369 of the employers said they favored a system of universal military service, while only four favored a continuance of the present National Guard system.

Twenty-four hundred of the guardsmen of New York State communicated with the committee. Their replies showed dissatisfaction with present military conditions. It was gathered from their replies that it was not rough military life they objected to, but inequality of treatment.

Based on census figures, the report shows that the available resources of the country in unmarried men from 18 to 24 years of age, inclusive, are 5,756,674, and that to offset those who could claim exemption for physical disability or other reasons there are 4,271,011 unmarried men between 25 and 44 years. There are 12,825,520 married men and 477,716 widowed or divorced men of military age in the country.

MISS FISKE IS WED TO REV. E. D. EVANS

Bishop Fiske Performs Ceremony in Chuoh of St. Mary the Virgin. —A Musical Program.

The wedding of the Rev. Edward Dering Evans, rector of St. Luke's Church, Baltimore, and Miss Helen Fiske, a daughter of Haley Fiske, Vice President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and Mrs. Fiske, was solemnized at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. Mary the Virgin, West Forty-sixth Street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles Fiske, S. T. D., LL. D., of Syracuse, Bishop Coadjutor of the Diocese of Central New York, a cousin of the bride, and a solemn nuptial mass followed, celebrated by the Right Rev. Dr. Reginald H. Weller, Bishop of Fond du Lac, Wis., assisted by the Rev. George Thatcher Lascelles of the church. The chancel of the church was banked with tall palms and white flowers.

The bride, who walked with her father, wore a short-skirted white satin gown, completely covered with her mother's old-point lace, and the court train, from the shoulders, was also covered with point lace. The long sleeves were tulle, and so was the veil, which was held by a wreath of orange blossoms. Miss Marione Virginia Fiske, a sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, in light blue tulle, embroidered in silver over blue, and the bridesmaids, two more sisters, the Misses Katherine Cushman Fiske and Margaret Lois Fiske, were in pink silk frocks, with white lace fichus. All wore silver lace hats, trimmed with pink roses, and carried roses. Little Miss Margaret Ayres, in a Kate Greenaway frock of flowered silk and carrying a flower-filled golden basket, was the flower girl, and Master Francis C. Ayres, Jr., was the page.

The best man was Merriman Casey of Baltimore, and the ushers were William J. Tully, Dr. Augustus S. Knight, Dr. Anthony Bassler, Ferrars H. Tows of New York, Howard H. M. Lee and T. Burch Athey of Baltimore, Norman F. Cushman and Alfred Z. Reed of New York, Archibald F. C. Fiske of Providence, R. I., and Haley Fiske, Jr.

The musical program was a novel one. The Mendelssohn-Bartholdy march from "Athalie" and the nuptial mass began with a Hoyte's hymn and ended with Elgar's march in D.

The reception and wedding breakfast were held at the Fiske residence, 39 Riverside Drive.

GEN. CARROLL'S WILL FILED.

All to Wife, Who Is Asked to Give Daughter $1,000 a Month.

The will of General Howard Carroll, filed for probate yesterday, leaves $1,000 a month for life to his daughter, Miss Caramai Carroll, through a request to his wife, Mrs. Caroline S. Carroll, who inherited the entire estate, that she deliver securities sufficient to insure this income to the Farmers Loan and Trust Company.

General Carroll, who died Dec. 30 last at the age of 64, made no provision for his sons, Lauren and Arthur Carroll, but it was said that they are satisfied with the terms of the will.

Commandant Davis Dies in London.

Is Your Son Successful at School?
Failure in his studies will shake his confidence in himself and make him less fitted mentally and morally to enter the larger struggle. Let us teach him to CONCENTRATE, as we have many boys and girls who had been unsuccessful at "large class" schools. The Clark Method of constant individual encouragement and examination by teachers who KNOW their subjects and who teach almost wholly without text books, engenders quiet, concentrated effort on the part of the student. A long record of remarkable results has established the great value of Clark methods for either the "slow," normal, or brilliant student. Glance over the following

AUTO PIONEERS SHOW NO SIGNS OF AGE

WHY THEY ALL KEEP YOUNG

Looking Ahead for New Ideas, They Have No Time to Think of the Past.

Pioneers of the automobile industry foregathered at the National Automobile Show at Grand Central Palace yesterday. They were an exceptional body of men, being in the main without the white hair, wrinkles and rheumatism that usually go with the distinction of belonging to the pioneer class. For it was only twenty years ago that the automobile industry was in its infancy. There is an inner group of pioneers, elder pioneers, so to say, men who advanced to automobile making from the days of the bicycle. Even these, though further along in years, are fresh and vigorous looking.

"It's looking ahead constantly for new ideas and new improvements for the automobile that keeps us young," one of them said. "We're different from most pioneers. We don't look at the past. We haven't time to think of the past. In fact, we are not really conscious of any past yet in our industry, just a bunch of very busy years behind us. To keep young, look ahead. Drive an automobile and you'll have to look ahead or get arrested."

As proof of the forward-looking habit, the main subject of conversation among the pioneers yesterday was the future, especially in the present year. The general opinion was that this year would see another increase in motor vehicle production, but no sensational predictions were made. Among the men long and prominently connected with the automobile industry who were in the city to take part in Pioneers' Day were Elwood Haynes, Alexander Winton, George Brown, Thomas Henderson, Ransom E. Olds, William E. Metzger, Windsor T. White, Elmer Apperson, Benjamin Briscoe, Howard Marmon, W. H. Van Dervoort, L. H. Kittredge, John W. Bate, Charles T. Jeffery, Howard E. Coffin, Charles C. Hanch, Alfred Reeves, S. A. Miles, Charles Clifton, Roy D. Chapin, Henry B. Joy, A. C. Newby, E. R. Hollander, George M. Dickson, John Brisbane Walker, Frank Roche, Charles W. Mears, D. J. Post, C. M. Hall, Colonel George Pope, H. O. Smith, E. E. Schwarzkopf, Charles E. Duryea, and A. G. Batchelder.

The Manufacturers Dine.

The annual dinner of the automobile manufacturers took place at the Waldorf-Astoria last night. It was a gridiron affair, and the only speech of the evening, besides one of welcome by Charles Clifton, President of the organization, was made by Job E. Hedges. In addition to burlesque decorations on six of the manufacturers who have been prominent during the last year there was a mock trial described as "Lost in Litigation," a four-cylinder affair in four acts and sixteen fire escapes. There were more than 300 at the dinner.

A gold carburetor, gold electric starter, and gold generator are announced as parts of the "Half Million Dollar Motor," which is the centre of attraction in the Brisco exhibit. The whole mechanism is highly polished and parts of the crank case, two cylinders, one of the pistons, the waterjacket, and two spark plugs have been cut away, and the valve chamber removed to make it easy for spectators to see the working principles of this power plant.

"The Premier Aluminium Six with Magnetic Gear Shift," gives interest to the display of the Premier Motor Corporation. A push button operates the gear-shift, and the six cylinder of the car is lighted by the use of aluminium. The appearance of the car is distinctive, the design being given the name of "bullet body lines." This car is priced at $1,895.

Commanding simplicity marks the body lines of the Mercer six-passenger touring car, in the display made by this company. Two of the seats are of the auxiliary type and can be folded away under the centre cowl. The Mercer is one of the higher priced cars, the makers of which elect to install the four-cylinder engine as the power plant rather than one of the multiple types of motor.

The F. B. Stearns Company has on exhibition for the first time a new roadster of the clover-leaf type, mounted on that company's standard eight-cylinder chassis. The rear seat has a greater width than is customary in the construction of these bodies and furnishes room for three passengers, thus making the capacity of the car five passengers. The car is supplemented by a snugly-fitting top.

A new car in the Dodge exhibit is a sedan on a short coupled chassis for turning quickly in and out of city traffic. The body is a dark blue with white line and white wire wheels. The upholstery is gray and blue cloth with leather seat for the driver. It is convertible, and in the Summer may be changed into a touring car with permanent roof. The sedan is priced at $1,185.

Some Other New Cars.

A cut-out chassis showing the working of the Maxwell power plant is in the foreground of the exhibit of this company. One of the new offerings in this display is a cabriolet, in black, with seats for two, at $865.

A cream-colored seven-passenger touring car with Victoria top is noteworthy in the Oakland exhibit. A feature is an adjustable tonneau windshield which rests on two brackets behind the front seat. The windshield can be moved backward and forward along these brackets to suit the pleasure of the owner. It is in three sections, and the end sections may be folded in at any angle.

A five-passenger six-cylinder touring car model is a new addition to the Oldsmobile list. Two years ago the Oldsmobile company dropped making sixes for eights, and this new car marks a return to the six in connection with the continuance of the manufacture of eights. The lines of the new model are original and attractive.

A car finished in silver wins attention in the Crow-Elkhart exhibit. The body, chassis, upholstery and the top of the car have silver finish. The body is specially built in the Crow-Elkhart shop for the show.

An attractive combination of color picks out a chummy roadster for attention in the Chandler display. The body is a dark blue with cream-colored running gear, and the upholstery is black leather.

Boat-line body in battleship gray marks one of the interesting cars in the Grant exhibit. It is a three-passenger roadster. The upholstery is in gray leather to match the body color. The wheel basis of the Grant chassis for this body has been lengthened to 118 inches.

Turnabout is the name of a four-seated affair, divided in front, in the Allen display. This new car is offered in three different color schemes, "London smoke," brown and gray.

SALON'S SALES ARE DOUBLED.

Total Will Pass Half-Million Mark, the Management Believes.

An increase of 100 per cent. in sale of cars at this year's Automobile Salon over last year's is assured, according to the management, which announced that a careful canvass of the exhibits, including the sales of yesterday, raised the total to over $4,000,000 since the opening on Jan. 2.

This is the last day of the salon, and the sales, it is expected, will pass the half million mark. The attendance has been 50 per cent. ahead of any previous year, and at no preceding salon have persons come from such great distances, nor have the cars of any other American salon evoked so much praise from persons competent to judge the merits of the cars on view.

This salon is considered to have advanced American coach builders to a new place in international competition, and it is believed that it will insure for the future a recognition of high-grade American cars not hitherto granted by European builders. Among the persons not hitherto mentioned who have purchased cars are John T. Pratt, Tyler Morse, William H. Nichols, Mrs. Thomas Hunter, Philadelphia; Reginald M. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Potter, Louis Sherry, James L. Breeze, Mr. and Mrs. Cerf, Rochester; Bertram Cruger, George Stanley Dart, John D. Wing, Jr.; Reginald Sinclair, Corning, N. Y.; Mrs. E. Vergil Neal, Mrs. Ogden Armour, Chicago; John T. Pratt, Mrs. E. M. Horne, Pittsburgh; C. C. Chapman, W. W. deB Voise, Mrs. Edwin Gould, Captain E. M. Poole, Detroit; J. L. Livermore, A. Wichfeld, Secretary of the Danish Legation, and Alfred I. duPont.

Col. Cody Shows Amazing Vitality.

DENVER, Col., Jan. 9.—The vitality shown by Colonel William F. Cady (Buffalo Bill,) said by his physician to be dying tonight, was a source of amazement to his medical attendant and members of the family at the bedside. According to Dr. J. H. East, who has been in constant attendance, the noted scout gained strength during the day, although the heart action was very weak. He was breathing spasmodically, Dr. East said, which was considered a grave symptom. At intervals during the day, when the patient rallied from the effects of medicines, the physician said, he was irrational.

MME. FARRAR HAS A COLD.

Unable to Sing Carmen in Philadelphia—Next Week's Opera Bills.

Geraldine Farrar was reported on the sick list at the Metropolitan Opera House yesterday. From the singer's apartment at the Hotel Biltmore it was said that she was suffering from a slight cold, but hoped to keep her engagement to sing in "Madame Butterfly" tomorrow night.

Two operas are added to the Metropolitan's current series in the list for the tenth week, posted yesterday. In "Die Meistersinger" on Wednesday next will appear Mmes. Hempel and Howard, Messrs. Sembach, Weil, Goritz, Reiss, Braun, and Bodanzky. "Siegfried" will be sung on Saturday evening, Jan. 20, for the benefit of the German Press Club, by Mme. Kurt, Mr. Urlus, and others already announced. Other operas next week will be "Francesca da Rimini" on Monday evening; Thursday, "Cavalleria," with Matzenauer, and "Pagliacci" with Caruso; Friday, "Fidelio," and Saturday matinée, "Carmen," again with Caruso. Next Sunday's concert star is Alma Gluck. There is a Tuesday "Carmen" with Farrar in Brooklyn.

The Kneisel Quartet Plays.

The Kneisel Quartet gave its first concert after holiday trips further afield before its accustomed audience of musical and social quality of this town in Aeolian Hall last evening. A program offering no problems later than Brahms, whose quintet in F minor was performed with Mr. Godowsky's help, afforded more than usual satisfaction. In particular Beethoven's F major quartet, the first of those on Russian themes grouped of opus 59, brought players and listeners together on familiar ground.

Eugene Ysaye Arrives.

Eugene Ysaye, the Belgian violinist, arrived yesterday from England on the American liner St. Paul, accompanied by his son Gabriel, to make a concert tour through the United States. He said that his estate in Ostend is in ruins, and his town house in Brussels is in the hands of the Germans. His wife is in London with several daughters and eight grandchildren. He saw Queen Elizabeth recently working as a nurse for the wounded in the hospitals.

ADEE SEES GRAVE PERIL FOR TENNIS

ANSWER TO WESTERN BODY

President of U. S. N. L. T. A. Restates Views of Executive Committee on Sporting Goods Issue.

George T. Adee, President of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association, yesterday issued a reply to the circular letter sent forth some time ago by the Pacific States Lawn Tennis Association in opposition to the proposed amateur rule in tennis which would bar sporting goods men from competition.

The statement by Mr. Adee is addressed "to the members of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association." The issue, as set forth by him, is: "Do you want tennis to be placed once and for all upon an absolute amateur basis, or do you want to leave it exposed to the dangers of commercialism?" No specific parts of the circular letter from the coast are taken up as such, but the entire question as viewed by the Executive Committee is presented.

Other governing bodies which have taken action to curb commercialism are named, and the question is asked whether the tennis association should lag behind. The members of the association are urged to determine the question on its merits, without allowing personalities to enter into the case. The Executive Committee, says Mr. Adee, believes that in most cases when a player enters the sporting goods business it is his tennis reputation which counts. The statement is as follows:

Statement of the Issue.

The issue before the annual meeting of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association is this: Do you want tennis to be placed once and for all upon an absolute amateur basis, or do you want to leave it exposed to the dangers of commercialism? Your vote will determine this issue, and therefore you should not permit personalities to be substituted for principles in discussing legislation of vast importance to the future of the game.

Last June the Executive Committee set forth its recommendations in a letter that discussed in detail the proposed amendments to the amateur rule. The committee still holds those views. It is not trying to force them upon the association, nor has it the power to do so. You must realize, however, that its proposals are not the result of any snap judgment, but the outcome of mature consideration not only of present tendencies in tennis but in other branches of sport.

The basic principle of all amateur sport is that no man should be allowed to commercialize his skill or prominence in any game and still remain an amateur. This theory has been adopted within two years by the United States Golf Association, the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America, and the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the governing body for intercollegiate sport in the United States.

Can tennis afford to lag behind?

That question is brought squarely before the national association, and your vote will help determine the answer at the annual meeting in February.

Danger Not in Vague Future.

The Executive Committee feels strongly that the possibility of professional tennis, unless a definite stand is taken now, is by no means remote. If you say, "What of it?" the answer is found in the degeneration of every sport where professional tendencies have been unchecked. Professional baseball has practically killed the amateur game, except for schools and colleges, and even they are now being invaded. Rowing is only just recovering from the slump into which professionalism plunged it. No comment is necessary on boxing or wrestling, for instance. Basket ball is another case in point. Most surprising in this connection are the drastic recommendations adopted within a few days by the National Collegiate Athletic Association to curb professional tendencies in football—heretofore regarded as a stronghold of amateur sport. Surely the conclusion is obvious that influences hostile to the best interests of baseball, golf, track, or football cannot be helpful to tennis.

The sporting goods issue is simply this: Is a prominent tennis player hired by a sporting goods house to represent the firm behind the counter—or on the tennis court? In other words, is such a player hired because of his selling ability or because of the advertising value of his prominence in tennis? The Executive Committee believes that in most cases the man's "tennis reputation" is what counts. The player is actually commercializing his reputation, and the practice, unless checked, will professionalize the game.

Permitting a club to pay the expenses of a player competing in its tournaments puts a premium on the box office. Making payments to the player through his association or club is bad, for it permits players' services virtually to be "knocked down" to the highest bidder. Such transactions have actually occurred, and unless this growing evil is checked it will professionalize the game.

The Executive Committee presents these statements for your consideration. The responsibility for shaping the policy of the association rests upon you.

PLEA TO GOLF DELEGATES.

Urged to Bring Open Minds on Controversy to U. S. G. A. Meeting.

Although President Frank L. Woodward of the United States Golf Association is in town, he is maintaining a guarded silence on all topics that are connected with the annual meeting of the association to be held on Friday night. He said last night that he had nothing further to add to the statement that he gave out recently, outlining the position of the U. S. G. A. in the controversy with the Woodland Golf Club, and he emphasized the importance of viewing the matter without prejudices of any kind. "All we wish," he said, "is that the delegates come to the meeting prepared to give their judgment on the matter as it will be presented there."

The stand taken by the U. S. G. A. President is directly in accord with the official announcement of the meeting, recently sent to all clubs by Howard F. Whitney, Secretary of the association, in which it was stated that so much that was unfair and untrue had been written on the amateur question that it was vitally necessary that delegates from the active clubs should come to the meeting without instructions as to voting. It is expected that the U. S. G. A. officials will uncover a mass of evidence that will be a surprise to those who have heard only the Woodland side of the controversy.

COLUMBIA BEATS CORNELL.

Local Quintet Wins in Last Minute of Play, 39 to 38.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 9.—Two long shots in the last minute gave Columbia five a 39 to 38 victory over Cornell in an Intercollegiate League basket ball game tonight. The game was marked by close guarding and fine team work and excellent basket shooting by both teams. It was the second league defeat for Cornell this season. With Cornell leading, 36 to 33, and only two minutes to play, victory looked almost certain for Dr. Sharpe's team.

Then Leonard caged one from midfloor, the score reading 36 to 35. Farrer then made a side shot, making Columbia 37 and Cornell still 36. Then Houck, Cornell's little guard, caged a long shot, but Leonard again shot from distance and time was called a moment after. Ortner, Flock, Kendall and Houck starred for Cornell. Leonard, Roberts and Latour did the best for Columbia.

The line-up:

Columbia, (39.)	Position.	Cornell, (38.)
Roberts	R. F.	Ortner
Latour	L. F.	Flock
Leonard	C.	Kendall
Farrer	R. G.	Allen
Farrell	L. G.	Houck

Goals from field: Cornell—Ortner, 4; Flock, 4; Kendall, 3; Houck, 3. Columbia—Roberts, 4; Latour, 2; Katz, 1; Leonard, 4; Farer, 2; Farrell, 1. Goals from foul—Ortner, 9; Leonard, 11.

Substitutions: Cornell—Ward for Allen. Columbia—Katz for Latour, Alexander for Farrell.

YALE FIVE BEATS GREEN.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 9.—Yale defeated Dartmouth tonight, 33 to 24, in the opening intercollegiate basketball game for both fives. Each quintet blocked effectively during the first half, the forwards rarely breaking through the compact defense, the score at the close of the half therefore standing at the low total of Dartmouth, 17; Yale, 15. The visitors lead nearly the entire half, although Yale scored first. Yale's passing game as developed by the new coach, Bernie Tommers, was manipulated more and more effectively by Captain Charley Taft's team as the game progressed, and it opened up a wider gap in the second half.

The line-up:

Yale, (33.)	Position.	Dartmouth, (24.)
Olsen	R. F.	Rau
Kinney	L. F.	Aishton

FAVORITES WIN AT TENNIS.

Count Salm and J. D. E. Jones Advance in Pinehurst Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 9.—In the midwinter tennis tournament here the favorites are pursuing the even tenor of their way without any serious interference on the part of their successive opponents. Count Otto Salm, West Side Tennis Club, lost one set today to Frank C. Lewis of the Norfolk Country Club, this being the only set Salm has lost so far in the tournament. He won the next two at 6—3, 6—2, and will play Howard Cordes of Cincinnati in the semi-finals. Cordes beat A. A. Collinge of Passaic today, 6—1, 6—0. J. D. E. Jones, Agawam Hunt Club, defeated his fellow club member, R. B. Weeden, 6—1, 6—1, and will play Hugh Whitehead of the Norfolk Country Club in the semi-finals, Whitehead having beaten J. C. Jones of New York today by 6—2, 6—2.

Most of the experts here expect the final contest to be between J. D. E. Jones, who already has two legs on the cup, and Count Salm. These two are playing as partners in the men's doubles and have come through to the final round without any troubles en route. Their opponents in the final will be either Hugh Whitehead and Frank C. Lewis, or Herbert Sweet and R. B. Weeden, these two teams having their semi-final match still to play.

In the women's singles, Miss Florence Ballin, West Side Tennis Club, defeated Miss Dorothy Brown of Montclair in two love sets today, and Miss E. M. Cohen of Philadelphia and the Merion C. C. beat Mrs. P. N. Davidson of Washington, 6—1, 6—3.

YALE CLUB'S LEAD GROWS.

CLASS B SQUASH TENNIS.
Standing of the Clubs.

SYRACUSE ELEVEN WRECKED BY EDICT

Eight Members of Squad, Including Captain Dumoe, Are Declared Ineligible.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 9.—Eight members of the Syracuse University football squad, including Joseph Dumoe, Captain-elect, were declared ineligible to represent the university in any athletic competition by the Athletic Governing Board tonight. The board also ordered the election of a new Captain.

The men, besides Dumoe, are Matt Brown, half back; Austin S. Boutin, centre; Roderick Dunn, half back; Christopher Schlachter, guard; Ray Witter, end; Captain Harry Robertson, centre of the freshman eleven, and R. W. Finsterwald, freshman half back. Robertson and Finsterwald were regarded as very promising 'Varsity candidates for next year.

The action of the board was unanimous and followed an investigation of a report that the eight men played in a football game at Providence, R. I., Dec. 9, in violation of the eligibility rules of the University. By its action the board sweeps aside the nucleus for the 1917 team.

The action of the Syracuse athletic authorities in declaring the above athletes ineligible, deprives the football machine of 1917 of its chief cogs. The majority of those mentioned were regulars on last season's gridiron team, and were a power on offense and defense. Schlacter's playing at guard made him considered as an all-American possibility, and Matt Brown also played a remarkable game at right half back. In the game with F. and M. Brown's scoring was the feature, as he negotiated three touchdowns and five goals from touchdown in that contest. Dumoe, also, played with consistency at right end, while the others named all played well during the season.

NEW RIVALS FOR SYRACUSE.

Seven of Ten Football Opponents in 1917 Not Met in 1916.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 9.—Seven new teams appear on the 1917 schedule of the Syracuse University football eleven, ratified tonight by the Athletic Governing Board. The team will take a Western trip at the close of the home season.

The schedule follows:

Sept. 28, Alfred at Syracuse; Oct. 6, New Hampshire State at Syracuse; Oct. 13, Rutgers at Syracuse; Oct. 20, Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh; Oct. 27, Tufts at Syracuse; Nov. 3, Brown at Providence; Nov. 10, Bucknell at Syracuse; Nov. 17, Colgate at Syracuse; Nov. 24, Michigan Aggies at Lansing; Nov. 29, Nebraska University at Lincoln.

PENN ELEVEN'S TASK HARD.

Twelve Games Scheduled Against Formidable Array of Teams.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—The University of Pennsylvania football team will play twelve games next Fall, according to the 1917 schedule, ratified by the Faculty Committee tonight. Opening with Albright, a newcomer, on Sept. 22, the season will close with the Cornell contest at Franklin Field on Nov. 30.

Games are scheduled with the Army, the Carlisle Indians, Bucknell, and the Pennsylvania Military College, none of which Pennsylvania met last season. With the exception of the Army game, which will be played at West Point, and that with Dartmouth at Boston, all the contests will be played at Franklin Field.

The schedule follows:

Sept. 22, Albright; Sept. 29, Franklin and Marshall; Oct. 6, Army; Oct. 13, Swarthmore; Oct. 20, Bucknell; Oct. 27, Pittsburgh; Nov. 3, Lafayette; Nov. 6, Pennsylvania Military College; Nov. 10, Dartmouth; Nov. 17, Michigan; Nov. 24, Carlisle; Nov. 30, Cornell.

N. Y. A. C. ELECTS OFFICERS.

Quorum Lacking, However, and Constitution Is Not Revised.

At the annual election of the New York Athletic Club last night less than 200 members attended to vote on a ticket that called for the re-election of all the old officers by virtue of there being no opposition to the regular nominations. Dr. Graeme M. Hammond, who served his first term last year and whose administration has been successful, will be the President of the organization for another year.

The fact that there was no opposition was the reason for the small attendance of members at the clubhouse. In one way this was considered unfortunate, as at the annual meeting, which takes place on the night of election, it was intended to revise the constitution of the club. At no time during the night were there 200 members present, the number necessary for a quorum, and it was therefore necessary to postpone action on the new constitution until Feb. 3.

The officers elected were:

President, Dr. Graeme M. Hammond; Vice President, Jeremiah T. Mahoney; Treasurer, Martin S. Paine; Secretary, Fred R. Fortmeyer; Captain, Arthur McAleenan; Governors to serve two years, William R. Delahanty, Matthew P. Halpin, William H. Seaich, M. F. Loughman, Walter A. Hines, E. W. Kearney, A. W. Teele, and C. H. Pond.

S.-C. Y. C. ELECTS OFFICERS.

Forty-second Annual Meeting Finds Club in Flourishing Condition.

The forty-second annual meeting of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club was held last night at the Harvard Club. The reports of committees showed the club to be in a flourishing condition. The membership this year slightly exceeds that of a year ago, there being about 350 members at the present time.

All of the flag officers were re-elected. Charles J. Nourse retired as Secretary, taking a place on the Board of Trustees. He was succeeded by Henry F. Atherton. The officers elected were: Commodore, Howard C. Smith; Vice Commodore, George Nichols; Rear Commodore, Gherardi Davis; Secretary, Henry F. Atherton; Treasurer, Albert Strauss; Measurer, Alexander M. Orr; Trustees, Class of 1920, Clinton Mackenzie, Charles J. Nourse, and Willis D. Wood; Race Committee, Daniel Bacon, Clinton Mackenzie, Harry L. Maxwell, De Forest Hicks, and H. E. Boucher; Committee on Lines and Models, John Hyslop, Jonathan Thompson, and Frederick M. Orr; Law Committee, Eliot Tuckerman, William A. W. Stewart, and Gherardi Davis; Committee on Seamanship and Navigation, George M. Bodman, Arthur Curtiss James, Willis D. Wood, and William J. Matheson.

COWLER IS KNOCKED OUT IN FIRST ROUND

One championship bubble received delayed brilliancy and another was hopelessly exploded last night at the Broadway Sporting Club of Brooklyn, where Fred Fulton, the erstwhile plasterer from Rochester, Minn., knocked out Tom Cowler, announced as "the Cumberland Man Mountain from England," in the first round of what was scheduled to be the main ten-round bout. The contest had hardly begun before it was ended, and ended in a workmanlike manner that indicates the victor is the most formidable contender for Jess Willard's coveted championship laurels.

The deciding series of blows which sent Cowler sprawling senseless to the floor of the ring came after a fraction of more than two minutes of actual boxing had taken place. The opening session had just eighteen seconds to go when the final sweep of Referee Johnny Hauckop's arm denoted the finish of the fatal count. Even then Cowler was unable to recover his footing, and it was necessary for his corps of seconds to clamber into the ring and assist their fallen idol to his corner.

Cowler, at the count of five, tried to regain his feet, but floundered. He managed to get erect before nine seconds had been tolled off, however, and staggered groggily to the ropes. There Fulton rained a series of right and left hand blows on Cowler's jaw, and the big English boxer collapsed, to be counted out in a sitting position, with his right arm hanging limply over the centre rope of the three surrounding the ring. The weights were: Fulton, 218 pounds; Cowler, 208¼ pounds.

MINOR LEAGUE MAN SIGNS.

Sandberg Joins Giants, Ignoring Request of Players' Fraternity.

George Sandberg, a minor league catcher, who was with Albany and Reading last season, is the latest player to ignore the requests of the Players' Fraternity and sign a contract with the Giants. Sandberg's document reached Secretary Foster yesterday. This marks the first break in the ranks of the minor leaguers, who, according to President David L. Fultz, were ordered not to sign until the National Commission had granted their demands.

Sandberg and Sterling Stryker, one of the Giants' rookie pitchers, have received permission from the New York Club to take a barn-storming trip to Cuba. On this barn-storming trip are other players recommended to Manager McGraw. If the trip to Cuba goes through the Giants' manager will have a chance to look over these youngsters and see if they are worth taking along to Marlin.

An infielder named Conifrey, an outfielder, Reubert, and a young pitcher named White will probably go to Cuba with Mike Donlin's team, and if they show any worth as players McGraw will take them over to Marlin when he returns from his vacation in Cuba.

Britton to Box Badoud Tonight.

Jack Britton, the Chicago welterweight boxer, and Albert Badoud of France will be the principals this evening in the main ten-round bout to be staged at the reopening of the Manhattan A. C., at 155th Street and Eighth Avenue.

HOCKEY PLAYERS BANNED.

League Refuses Wellington and Bawlf Amateur Recognition.

Before the opening of the Amateur Hockey League season at St. Nicholas Rink last night, two of the Irish-American A. C. team's best players, Alexander Wellington and Thomas Bawlf, who were slated to play on the wings in last night's game, were declared ineligible by the Executive Committee of the league. The committee passed two motions which stated that the players were not eligible to play in the Amateur League because they had failed to clear themselves of the charges of professionalism and also for failure to come within the three months' residence rule of the organization.

Secretary R. L. von Bernuth said after the meeting that the committee had learned that Bawlf was regarded as a professional by the Ontario Hockey Association. He also stated that the committee ruled that Wellington was not eligible because he failed to show that he had resided within fifty miles of New York for three months. Secretary von Bernuth stated that he could show only fifty-day residence here.

The committee ruled that Wellington was regarded as a professional by both the Ontario Hockey Association and the Montreal Hockey League.

Although two of its best players were barred for ineligibility, the Irish-American Club placed a winning combination on the ice. Livermore, a former Dartmouth player, and Tom Chatto, a former Canadian skater, took the places of the two skaters who were barred. One of the Irish club's new players, Whitten, who had been declared eligible did not play last night, but will probably be in the line-up in the next game.

KUMAGAE NOT TO COMPETE.

Letter from Mikami Says He Will Not Come Here Again.

Ichiya Kumagae, fifth ranking tennis player of the country on the basis of last year's records, may never again compete here, according to a letter received from Hachishiro Mikami, with whom he invaded the United States during the last Summer. Kumagae, he says, could not make the trip to Manila to defend his title as champion of the Orient because of having arranged to take a position in a bank in Tokio, and his business engagement will keep him from returning to this country for play during the coming season. Mikami says he hopes some other players will make the trip to the United States, but does not say that he will come this year.

WINGED FIST SEVEN BEATS HOCKEY CLUB

Patsy Sequin, Although Ill, Stars for I.-A. A. C. in Extra-Period Fray.

Patsy Sequin, the diminutive hockey player of the Irish-American A. C., left his bed against his physician's orders last night and buckled on his skates to battle with his crippled and disrupted team against the Hockey Club seven in the opening game of the Amateur Hockey League season at St. Nicholas Rink. The little Canadian skater forgot his illness and it was mainly through his efforts that the Winged Fist team was able to win out in an extra period game by a score of 3 to 2.

It was a game, nervy performance for wee Mr. Sequin and time and again he hurled himself into the thick of the scrimmage and saved his team from defeat. The Irish Club had things easy in the first half which ended in their favor by a score of 2 to 0. In the second period, the Hockey Club, under Captain Jimmy Britton, woke up and the hurly-burly game became thick and fast. When the bell rang at the end of the second period, the score was tied at 2 to 2.

Then came the extra period, which the hockey players call "sudden death," which means that the first goal scored wins the game. The extra period had just started when little Sequin rushed the puck down toward the Hockey Club net. Here he shot the rubber to Turk Smith, who smashed the disc at the net. Lewis blocked the shot and the rubber bounded back into the rink.

Then followed a wild scramble for the elusive puck, which was lost in the centre of a whirling ring of players. They hacked and slashed with their sticks, and from out of the bunch Larry Powers made a clever shot which edged in past Lewis and won the game. Sequin played at cover point for he was too weak to take his regular place in the forward line. He was all over the ice and frequently ran down the rink with the puck to splash it against Lewis's shinpads. Once in the first period, when the Hockey Club players assaulted the Irish Club's cage Sequin wormed his way through the scrimmage, stole the rubber, and carried it out of danger.

Abrahams shot the first goal for the Irish Club after Powers had passed the puck to him, and the second goal was made by Turk Smith on a shot from Abrahams. In the second period Jimmy Britton brought the crowd to its feet when he rushed down the ice all alone and dribbled the disc in front of the Irish Club's net until he fooled Woods and scored a goal. George tied the score for the Hockey Club, when he caught a rebound and smashed the rubber into the net past Woods. While the first period was slow, the players got under way in the second half and put up an exhibition of slam-bang hockey which kept the crowd in a glow of excitement.

I.-A. A. C., (3.)	Position.	Hockey C., (2.)
Woods	G.	Lewis
Dufresne	P.	Britton
Sequin	C. P.	Young
Smith	R.	George
Abrahams	C.	Cleary
Powers	L. W.	Gordon
Livermore	R. W.	King

Goals—First period: Abrahams, I.-A. A. C., in 1:32; Smith, I.-A. A. C., in 10:53. Second period: Britton, Hockey Club, in 8:49; George, Hockey Club, in 11:44. Extra period: Powers, I.-A. A. C., in 0:56.

Penalties—Powers, I.-A. A. C., 2 minutes for tripping; Sequin, I.-A. A. C., 2 minutes for slashing; Dufresne, I.-A. A. C., 2 minutes for illegal checking; Sequin, I.-A. A. C., 2 minutes for tripping.

Referee—William Dobby, Crescent A. C. Assistant referee—R. L. Von Bernuth, St. Nicholas S. C. Goal umpires—Joseph Brooks, I.-A. A. C., and Fred Coughtrey, Hockey Club. Time of periods—Twenty minutes each. Extra period—Fifty-six seconds.

Harvard Seven Beats M. I. T.

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—Harvard defeated the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at hockey tonight by a score of 8 to 0.

AMATEUR BILLIARD TITLE PLAY BEGINS

Six Games Contested on First Day of National Class C Tourney.

Play of a high order marked the opening of the national Class C amateur billiard tournament at Maurice Daly's Academy, Forty-ninth Street and Broadway, yesterday. This year's event has brought together twelve contestants, among them the winner of the tournament of a year ago, Dr. H. W. Hawley of Danbury, and Clyde B. Terry, a former holder of the Class C championship.

Six games were played yesterday, four in the afternoon and two in the evening. None of the more prominent players met with defeat; in fact, one or two of them put together some good runs for a high average in this class. In the afternoon, Dr. Hawley scored a victory over Charles J. Steinbugler by a score of 200 to 147; Julian Rice of Columbia defeated Louis A. Servatius by 200 to 180, Ferd A. Unger defeated Courtlandt P. Dixon, Jr., with the score of 200 to 180, and Clyde B. Terry defeated Irving I. Lewine by 200 to 161. In the evening Charles P. Mathews was victor over Irving Schwartz by 200 to 103, and Dr. Hawley added another victory to his credit when he defeated G. Gardner 200 to 174.

Mathews played a particularly fine game and established the best average of the day when he made 5 20-36 against Schwartz. The best run, however, rests thus far with Clyde B. Terry, who clicked off 48 points in the fifteenth inning of his match with Lewine. In the afternoon much interest centred about the table where the match between Rice and Servatius was being played. The latter is an old figure in billiard tournaments, while Rice is just beginning to forge to the front as a promising player.

The Columbia student was pitted against a man who is a master of safety play, and that he was able to pull out the victory speaks well for his ability. He found it difficult to count from the leaves which remained after misses by Servatius, but he held to his task even when defeat seemed almost upon him, and was rewarded by winning after forty-six innings of play. Rice at times showed good nurse play, but he was not allowed many opportunities for this style of work, Servatius keeping the ivories well separated. At one period in the contest Rice was some thirty-odd points behind, and it was not until the last few innings that he forced his way through to victory.

Dr. Hawley showed rare form in both of his matches. In the afternoon against Steinbugler he caught his stroke quickly, and while he did not count at any time in big figures, his progress was steady and for the greater part of the contest he was in the lead. His best run was 18, but he counted in double figures ten times during the forty-six innings. In the evening match, too, Dr. Hawley was not pressed. His opponent, G. Gardner, could not count as consistently as did Hawley, and it was evident before the contest had proceeded far that Hawley was in no danger.

The remarkable exhibition by Mathews was somewhat startling to billiard followers. His average was even better than that required for Class B, and Schwartz was forced to sit by and see his opponent hurry the contest to a conclusion. Mathews did not hold the balls close, but he displayed a sureness in his stroking that rapidly amassed the points.

The run of 48 by Terry was undoubtedly the most brilliant performance of the day. After bringing the balls into position he clicked off the points rapidly. The position play many times was faultless.

Burman Does Well in Ring.

Joe Burman, a clever little Chicago bantamweight, has made a favorable impression on local boxing enthusiasts in his engagements at metropolitan clubs. He has scored popular victories over some of the best local boxers in his class and has shown an interesting style in all his bouts. Burman has scored knockouts in twelve of the twenty-one bouts in which he has contested since turning professional.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Most Active Stocks Close Higher in Professional Trading—War Financing.

The heavy selling of foreign bond issues which was the feature of yesterday's bond dealings probably foreshadowed further allied financing in this market. Some observers of the market believed that another form of foreign financing, direct sales here of foreign-owned American securities, was also a factor in the trading. So far as speculative operations were concerned, they were almost entirely in the hands of the professional traders, to whom the market has lately been left by the public. The general bond demand and the investment demand for stocks was described as good, but operations on margin were swelled but little by public participation in the dealings.

If there was not a clear line of cleavage between the war financing requirements of the Allies at home and in this country, it would not be at all likely that a foreign loan would be thought of at the very time when England is engaged in the flotation of another huge war loan at home. Funds provided at home, however, do not meet the purpose of foreign issues, for loans of this latter class are designed not primarily to provide funds with which to carry on the war, but to provide funds specifically in this market. It is not possible to disburse pounds sterling in New York, and, no matter how abundant the supply of these may be, the British Government is still in need of providing for itself and for its allies whose finances it is aiding, dollars which may be spent in the United States.

That is why it is not believed that the flotation of an internal British war loan will preclude the placing of a new British credit in this country in the near future. It is thought likely in the financial district that this loan will be secured as the previous loan was, by collateral consisting one-third of American securities and two-thirds of Canadian and neutral foreign securities. It is likely to be issued in more than one maturity.

The improvement which was shown in many stocks in the course of yesterday's trading was attributed in large degree to a lessening of the short interest which traders had built up. Bearing in mind the construction which the stock market has been wont to place upon news suggestive of peace, it is likely that this betterment in prices indicated a belief on the part of speculators that the chances for peace were less favorable than they had previously believed. The dispatch by the Allies of an ultimatum to Greece may have contributed to this mood as being an indication of an intention to prosecute the war more vigorously in compliance with the mandate under which the new British and French Governments entered into power.

One begins to hear talk in the Street of the possibilities of peace as a bull factor in the stock market, but the action of traders is still based largely on the assumption that continuance of the war will be a good thing for the market and the return of peace a bad thing. It would be highly satisfactory to have that assumption overthrown by fuller recognition of the fact that even in a neutral country war brings its costs as well as its profits, and that in the long run peace is far better for trade than war is.

LONDON MARKET IS QUIET.

New Loan Will Appear on the Exchange Next Friday.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The stock market was generally quiet today. Gilt-edged securities were lower under realizing in order to exchange into the new loan, which it is now announced will appear next Friday. The old war loan was active, and there were more sellers than buyers. Grand Trunks, Chinese bonds, and diamond shares were firm and foreign issues had a cheerful tone, but Brazilian tractions were flat. American securities were almost lifeless and a fraction dearer.

Money and discount rates were quiet. An issue of French Treasury bills amounting to £8,000,000, to replace a similar sum, was quickly subscribed.

Prices Firm on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—Prices were firm on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 62 francs 25 centimes for cash. Exchange on London, 27 francs 81½ centimes. Five per cent. loan, 88 francs 45 centimes.

Bank to Open Russian Branch Soon.

The National City Bank's first branch in Russia will be opened next Monday at Petrograd, where a staff of twenty men has been installed and facilities supplied for collecting and disseminating credit information. R. R. Stevens is Manager of the new branch, and H. F. Meserve, General Representative of the bank in Russia. Twelve of the employes were sent out from New York. Difficulties were experienced in finding a suitable location for a bank in Petrograd, until it was discovered that the Turkish Embassy was unoccupied and available for a new tenant.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Rapid Short Covering.

Fairly steady buying of the copper stocks yesterday appeared to bear fruit in considerable short covering in various parts of the list toward the close. The tape ran in the final half hour with speed equivalent to its activity in the big markets of December. The "talent" believes that a large short account is still holding over from the peace slump, of which a part is of the nervous variety, jealous of its paper profits and moved to seize them whenever a show of strength appears. This element in the market, according to experienced speculators, is likely to bring about occasional sharp recoveries and to impart to stocks generally an erratic tendency. This supposition is based on the belief that the public has deserted for the time being the conduct of business to the professional traders.

Efficiency from the Trenches.

Steel men who have studied the foreign situation see greater efficiency in mill and factory abroad after the war ends than existed prior to 1915. Returned soldiers will convert the discipline and concentration of trench warfare into application and intelligent operation of their hands to a degree not known before. Here is a factor, say the steel manufacturers, which will have to be counted upon when the "war after the war" gets under way, and it will be coupled with determination on the part of Governments and individual employers to get all the world's trade that may be handled profitably. And plans are already being worked out by the industrial leaders of Europe to make the best use of the means they find before them when the conflict is over.

Trading in Cotton Contracts.

The New York Cotton Exchange does not keep any record of the volume of transactions in contracts for the future delivery of cotton, but data on this subject has been collected by Federal Government officials under the United States Cotton Futures act, which requires brokers to file monthly statements showing the business transacted. Thus far these figures have not been made public, but some members of the Exchange feel that it would be both interesting and useful to have the information published. The statistics would make possible a comparison of the volume of contracts dealt in with the actual number of bales of cotton delivered upon contracts. In the old days, when the Exchange was constantly under Congressional investigation and attack, some of the members would have deemed it unwise to give currency to data of this nature, but under changed conditions there does not seem to be any objection to the publication from within the Exchange.

Records of Other Exchanges.

As is well known, the New York Stock Exchange does not officially compile records of transactions, but newspapers collect the data from the Exchange ticker. In the case of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange no records are kept. Years ago the Coffee Exchange made it a practice of reporting the total of a day's transactions, but discontinued it a few years ago. The New York Produce Exchange likewise does not report the volume of transactions, although it furnishes, like all the other Exchanges, valuable information of trade interest.

Under the Microscope.

It is said that slander travels with twice the speed of truth, so that once loosened it is never overtaken by a retraction or correction, but the peace leak inquiry at Washington has given a number of prominent men an opportunity to go on record with effective denials of the innuendos that have been playing about their names since the break in prices accompanying the President's peace note and Secretary Lansing's explanations that followed it. It will undoubtedly prove disappointing to rumormongers to learn that bank Presidents and others holding prominent places in the financial district do not work with one eye on the ticker, ready to buy or sell stocks on inside information. Otto H. Kahn and Charles H. Sabin, two of the most prominent bankers in New York, have both gone on record as saying that they never sold a share of stock short. The same thing will probably develop from the testimony of other leading financiers, if they are called to the stand. A man cannot be a successful speculator and successful banker at the same time, and Wall Street may eventually come to believe that the ignorance which prominent men show about market movements before they have had a chance to study quotations at the end of the day is real and not assumed.

No Increase for Atchison.

Without good reason, it appears, many traders persuaded themselves that the Atchison dividend was to be increased at yesterday's meeting, and when the board declared the regular 1½ per cent. quarterly the stock dropped quickly. The price got down to 104½ on the announcement, and closed at 105⅛, with a net loss of 2¼.

New Low for U. S. Realty.

Both the stock and bonds of the United States Realty and Improvement Company made new low records yesterday, the shares selling down to 15 and the convertible debenture 5s to 57¼, off more than 5 points from last Saturday's price. There was a partial recovery before the close. The decline was accompanied by reports of losses on the company's subway work, but officials say that its rentals are on the increase and the outlook bright.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Early uncertainty was succeeded by decided strength in the closing dealings on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. The coppers were the first stocks to display an upward tendency, but the movement gradually extended to the rest of the list. United States Steel common advanced in the late afternoon to 114, the best price it touched in Wall Street. It closed at 113⅞, with its sales for the day exceeding 41,000 shares.

CHANGE IN BANK RECORDS.

New England Institutions Adopt New Method of Showing Reserve.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The larger New England banks have indicated a desire to co-operate with the Federal Reserve Bank of their district and, with the concurrence of their Clearing House Committee have inaugurated a new method of showing their reserve position each week. The Federal Reserve Board announced this change to other banks today and gave it their hearty approval. In the past the New England banks have announced the deficiency or excess of their value cash, and also their deficiency or excess with the Federal Reserve Bank.

Since the adoption of the ruling making it optional with member banks to keep reserves in vault or in the Federal Reserve Bank, the Boston banks have shown a deficiency in their vault cash, and an excess with the Federal Reserve Bank. It has been felt that these items might properly be consolidated, just as similar figures are combined in English bank statements, and that such consolidation would be a final recognition on the part of the Clearing House that deposits with the Federal Reserve Bank are practically interchangeable (so far as reserve availability is concerned) with cash in vault. When the matter was recently called to the attention of the Clearing House Committee in Boston, the members acquiesced in the suggested change.

Savings Bank Balances

It is wise to keep a balance in the Savings Bank—up to a reasonable amount, say 10% of your income.

Any savings above that amount should be carefully invested in good bonds to obtain a higher rate of interest and to keep you in touch with investment opportunities and investment methods.

Safety and high yield may be obtained by investment in any of the following:—

T. E. BURTON HEADS MERCHANTS' BANK

NEW SYNDICATE IN CONTROL

Old Directors and Senior Officers Supplanted with Entirely New Board.

Theodore E. Burton, formerly United States Senator from Ohio, was elected yesterday as President of the Merchants' National Bank of the City of New York. He was selected to head the institution by a syndicate which recently obtained control of the stock of the bank, and succeeded yesterday in ousting the old Directors and senior officers and supplanting them with an entirely new Board of Directors.

Ex-Senator Burton is 65 years old. He was a member of the National Monetary Commission, and is the author of a number of books, including "Financial Crises and Periods of Industrial and Commercial Depression."

Robert M. Gallaway, who served as President of the Merchants' National for the last twenty-three years, and Edward Holbrook, President of the Gorham Manufacturing Company, who until yesterday was a Vice President and a Director of the bank, were elected to the Board of Directors of the Hanover National Bank. Joseph Byrne, Vice President and cashier of the bank, was appointed yesterday a Vice President of the Hanover National Bank.

The Merchants' National Bank was founded in 1803, and is the third oldest bank in the city. It is capitalized at $2,000,000, has a surplus and undivided profits of $2,519,000, and deposits of about $23,379,000. Several months ago G. C. Warner, a lawyer, circularized the stockholders of the bank in behalf of a syndicate which had determined to buy a large block of stock of the bank and to obtain proxies in order that at the annual meeting it would be in a position to put in its own management. The new Directors elected yesterday are Theodore E. Burton, Walter S. Eddy of Saginaw, Mich.; Eberhard Faber, manufacturer; Raymond E. Jones, New York Agency, Royal Bank of Canada; Arthur G. Meyer, Arthur G. Meyer & Co., dry goods commission; William F. Neu, Treasurer Steel Rail Supply Company; Charles E. Potts, President and Treasurer J. B. Locke & Potts, linens; W. Ross Proctor, New York; Robert Hamilton Rucker, New York; Carl F. Sturhahn, United States Agent, Rossia Insurance Company; William F. Wall, President Wall Rope Works; F. S. Whitten, Lair & Co., Wilmington, Del.

Owen S. Paynter, who has been with the bank twenty years, is the new cashier.

There was also appointed an Advisory Council to serve the interests of the bank, composed of George C. Van Tuyl, Jr., President of the Metropolitan Trust Company, Chairman; Joseph W. Harriman, President of the Harriman National Bank; Dean Sage of Zabriskie, Murray, Sage & Kerr, who have been counsel for the bank for fifty years; Anthony R. Kuser of Newark, Frank G. Crowell of the Hall-Baker Grain Company, Kansas City, Mo., and Waldo Newcomer, President of the National Exchange Bank of Baltimore.

NATIONAL BANK ELECTIONS.

Comparatively Few Changes Announced in Directorates Here.

There were comparatively few changes announced as the result of the annual elections of national banks here yesterday, inasmuch as the vacancies in the Boards of Directors caused by resignations due to the operation of the Clayton act, which became operative on Oct. 15, had previously been filled. In some cases, the election of Directors chosen since the last annual meeting was ratified yesterday. Following is a list of the changes:

NATIONAL CITY BANK—Earl D. Babst, President of the American Sugar Refining Company was elected a Director. John H. Fulton of New Orleans was made a Vice President. George E. Gregory, for several years cashier, was promoted to a Vice Presidency and Thomas A. Reynolds was made cashier to succeed him. Andrew Mills, Jr., formerly in the bond department, was made an assistant cashier; Edward P. Currier, for several years secretary to Mr. Vanderlip, was appointed assistant to the President.

NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE—Charles E. Dunlap of the Berwind-White Coal Mining Company was added to the board.

CHASE NATIONAL—Henry B. Endicott of Endicott, Johnson & Co., Boston, and Edward T. Nichols, Vice President of the Great Northern Railway, were added to the Board of Directors. The board elected Gerhard M. Dahl, formerly Vice President of the Electric Bond and Share Company, a Vice President of the bank, and S. F. Telleen, Robert I. Barr, and S. S. Shaw as assistant cashiers.

FIRST NATIONAL—John R. Morron, President of the Atlas Portland Cement Company, was added to the Board of Directors, making the number twelve, and to the board of the First Security Company, making sixteen.

SECOND NATIONAL BANK—F. Colt Johnson of J. H. Lane & Co., and Thomas A. Howell of B. H. Howell, Son & Co. were elected Directors.

NATIONAL CITY COMPANY—C. S. Wall was elected Secretary, succeeding Thomas A. Reynolds.

CHATHAM AND PHENIX NATIONAL—John J. Raskob, Treasurer of the du Pont Powder Company, was added to the board.

MARKET AND FULTON NATIONAL—William B. Franklin and Frank C. Jennings were added to the board.

NATIONAL PARK—John Jay Pierpont and Lewis Cass Ledyard, Jr., were added to the board.

COAL AND IRON NATIONAL—John F. Bermingham, President of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Coal Company; William M. Hager, and Stanley P. Jadwin elected Directors to succeed E. E. Loomis, W. H. Woodin, and Samuel Weil, who retired.

SHERMAN NATIONAL—James M. Dixon of the Tobacco Products Company was added to the board, and W. Eitingon was elected a Vice President.

UNION EXCHANGE NATIONAL—Louis J. Robertson succeeded Albert H. Wiggin as Director.

HARRIMAN NATIONAL—Francis G. Lloyd, President of Brooks Brothers; William Bayne, Jr., coffee merchant, and Charles Thorley were added to the board.

GARFIELD NATIONAL—Joseph H. Emery and William N. McIlravy were added to the board.

LINCOLN NATIONAL—William S. Hawk and Edward W. Brown were added to the board and Henry C. Phipps retired.

BATTERY PARK NATIONAL—Frank A. Dillingham was added to the board.

INTERNATIONAL BANK—The following Directors were elected: Guy Cary, R. L. Farnham, John E. Gardin, E. W. Harden, L. M. Jacobs, Arthur Kavanagh, W. S. Kies, and Willard Straight. Lawrence M. Jacobs was elected President and William Reed a Vice President.

The following national banks re-elected their Directors: the Chemical, the Irving, the Importers & Traders', Citizens Central, Atlantic National, the Fifth National, the Butchers & Drovers, the East River, and the Bronx National.

H. M. TILFORD OIL DIRECTOR.

Takes John D. Archbold's Place on Standard Company's Board.

Henry M. Tilford was elected a Director of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey at the annual meeting yesterday, to succeed the late John D. Archbold. In discussing future prospects in the oil trade, F. W. Weller, Vice President, told stockowners that recent construction of refining facilities in the country had brought them to a level more than adequate for handling the production of crude oil.

"Outside capital has been used largely in providing this excess," said he, "and when the lean years come, as they do with great regularity in this business, this new capital will be brought to a realizing sense that it is uneconomic to pay fancy prices for either production or refining capacity. However, concerns that have been conservatively operated will probably, on account of the demand, continue to enjoy prosperity during the current year."

CASH DIVIDEND OF $100.

Harriman Bank Directors Will Also Double Capital Today.

Directors of the Harriman National Bank at their first meeting today following the annual election will vote a cash dividend of $100 a share. At the stockholders' meeting yesterday it was voted to increase the capital stock from $500,000 to $1,000,000, and to offer the new stock pro rata at par. Today's dividend will give the shareholders the amount needed to take up the new stock.

Subscription warrants for the new shares have been mailed to stockholders, who must exercise their rights by Feb. 15. With the old stock quoted at $425, the "melon" represented by the increase and dividend distribution amounts to $262 a share.

Tobacco Securities

enjoy the good will of the American investor to a remarkable degree. Corporate management unsurpassed in other lines, a steady growth in earnings, and generous dividends are the reasons.

When you invest in tobacco stocks you are generally assured of a good income and, what is quite as important, you have nothing to worry you.

Through its distribution as a dividend by the British American Tobacco Co. the stock of the Imperial Tobacco Co. of Canada has become accessible to the investing public. This is the premier tobacco company in Canada.

WHAT TO BUY TODAY.

With the Security market at its present high level, we advise great caution in making purchases.

Do not buy into the "regular" list, but confine yourself to the many really wonderful opportunities in stocks and bonds which will not be seriously affected by signs of Peace.

The Management of Your Estate

Demands: Absolute Safety of Principal, Stability of Income

These in turn demand: The constant exercise, on the part of your executor, of Sound Business Judgment

The only certain way of securing this indispensable requirement is by appointing some reliable trust company as Executor and Trustee under your will.

The Union Trust Company is now safeguarding estates for the fourth generation of those who originally entrusted their property to us—fifty-two years successful administration of Trusts.

We are also qualified to serve you as

Guardian—of minors, or Committee of incompetents,
Depositary—for funds of every description,
Treasurer—of a corporation or association,
Registrar—or Transfer Agent for corporations,
Agent—to attend to all details of Real Estate management.

The officers of this company are always accessible and will be glad to discuss your financial problems with you, in person or by correspondence.

SUGAR

The securities of many of the better known sugar companies have shown great enhancement in market value, due to the enormous demand for their products. There are certain companies whose securities have not discounted their phenomenal earnings that can be purchased at prices to yield over 8%.

We will be glad to furnish information regarding such companies or will analyze any security in which you may be interested.

TO THE HOLDERS OF FIVE PER CENT. COLLATERAL TRUST SINKING FUND GOLD BONDS OF THE SYRACUSE LIGHT AND POWER COMPANY, DUE JULY 1ST, 1954:

The Equitable Trust Company of New York, as successor to The Trust Company of America, Trustee, under the Deed of Trust of The Syracuse Light & Power Company dated April 10, 1907, hereby invites proposals for the sale to it of as many bonds secured thereby as will exhaust the sum of Four thousand two hundred twenty-seven and 24-100 dollars ($4,227.24) in accordance with the sinking fund provisions of the said Deed of Trust.

Sealed proposals will be opened at the office of the undersigned, No. 37 Wall Street, New York City, at 12 o'clock noon on January 16th, 1917, and should be endorsed "Proposals to the Sinking Fund of The Syracuse Light & Power Company." The right is reserved to reject any and all tenders.

Proposals of bidders unknown to the Trustee must be accompanied by satisfactory references.

THE EQUITABLE TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, Trustee,
By LYMAN RHOADES, Vice-President.

GREAT FALLS POWER COMPANY.
First Mortgage dated May 1, 1911.

Bankers Trust Company, as Trustee under the above Mortgage, gives notice that it will receive at its office, No. 16 Wall Street, New York City, up to 12 o'clock noon, on January 29, 1917, sealed proposals for the sale to it at a price not exceeding 107½% and accrued interest, of sufficient bonds secured by said Mortgage to exhaust as nearly as practicable, the sum of $117,387.40. Such proposals should be delivered in sealed envelopes prior to 12 o'clock noon on January 29, 1917. Notice of purchase of bonds will be mailed on January 30, 1917, and the bonds so purchased must be delivered to the Trustee before the close of business February 2, 1917, on which date interest thereon will cease. In case more bonds are offered at the same price than the Trustee can purchase, it will be determined by lot which bonds shall be taken.

CALLS FOR TAX ON SUGAR GROWN HERE

The Federal Refining Company Shows Government How to Raise Revenue.

MAKE GROWERS DIVIDE UP

At Present They Are Pocketing $46,600,000 a Year Under Tariff on Foreign Product.

The Federal Sugar Refining Company suggested yesterday, in a statement by Frank C. Lowry, that the Government raise additional revenue by putting a tax on sugar produced in this country.

"In 1916 we consumed 3,658,607 tons of sugar," said the statement, "and after allowing for drawbacks on re-exports the Government received a tariff revenue of but $38,000,000, or 54 per cent., as 1,977,118 tons of the total were untaxed domestic sugars. The tariff, however, cost the public $84,500,000, or about $4 a barrel on the amount consumed, the domestic beet and cane producers having pocketed the difference of $46,500,000 by basing their selling price, not on the cost of production, but upon the duty-paid value of foreign sugars refined here. Altogether over $1,000,000,000 'pork' has been acquired in this manner by the beet and cane sugar growers of the country, at the expense of the public."

Mr. Lowry said he favored taxing the domestic commodity one-half the present tariff rate, taking the Cuban rate as the basis. This would yield the Treasury $23,250,000 a year in addition to the $38,000,000 obtained on imports, he asserted, and would require the domestic sugar interests to turn over to the Government only one-half their tariff profits.

Reserve Board Plans to Purchase $15,000,000 Worth of U. S. Bonds.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The Federal Reserve Board, acting under the terms of the Federal Reserve act, will again this year, as last, provide for the retirement of national bank circulation by the purchase of United States bonds. The amount, however, will not be as large as it was last year, the limit of the amount of bonds to be purchased being $15,000,000.

The Reserve Board will require Federal Reserve banks, on April 17, to buy circulation-bearing bonds to the amount named, or so much of it as may be offered, on or before March 21, the last day on which applications from member banks will be received by the Treasurer of the United States.

The Reserve Board will allot the bonds thus purchased to each Federal Reserve bank in proportion that the capital and surplus of such banks bears to the aggregate capital and surplus of all the reserve banks. The circulation outstanding against such bonds will be permanently retired when redeemed.

Shifting Investments

No. 5

In 1911 we urged the sale of New York Central stock (then selling at about 115) and suggested reinvestment in Northern Pacific and other standard issues. We also, during that year, urged the sale of Western Pacific First 5s (then quoted at 88 to 94) and suggested reinvestment in Seaboard Air Line First 4s (at 86) and other standard issues of like type. After that, the old Western Pacific 5s defaulted and sold below 30. Seaboard Air Line 4s have sold at 92 and are now quoted at 82. Enough said.

FOUNDED 1803 FOUNDED 1803

The Merchants National Bank of the City of New York

CAPITAL, SURPLUS AND PROFITS $4,500,000

THE Articles of Association of the Merchants National Bank, the third oldest bank in New York, hark back to the days of Alexander Hamilton, by whom they were drawn, and the history of the institution is an integral part of the history of banking in the United States.

Originally commencing business in 1803, at No. 42 Wall Street, upon which site it stands to this day, the Merchants National Bank is in its second century and one Hundred and fourteenth year of business. It has paid its two Hundred and twenty-seventh consecutive semi-annual dividend. There are accounts upon its books which have dealt continuously from the beginning of the bank. Its reputation in the financial world is not confined to the United States, but extends to every trading centre of the globe.

The mere fact that an account is maintained with the Merchants National Bank is of itself an asset to any business house. The bank has prospered exceedingly by conservative banking methods, and it is governed by principles rather than by policy. No period of stress has ever caused the bank's customers a moment's uneasiness; they have confidently relied upon its aid at all times, and have received what they were entitled to, and what was agreed upon, in times of depression as well as in times of prosperity. No customer in standing has ever been turned away, or consideration of his requirements deferred.

The Merchants National Bank, in the spirit of the day, extends to that portion of the business community which can weigh and value a sound and stable banking relation, a cordial invitation to learn by personal inquiry and discussion what such a relation signifies to any progressive business activity.

COTTON IRREGULAR ON CABLE ADVICES

Break Wipes Out Earlier Gain and Market Closes 1-4 Points Higher.

CENSUS REPORT IS BULLISH

Shows 11,045,225 Bales Ginned to Jan. 1, Smallest Amount on Record for First Half of December.

The cotton market was very irregular yesterday. After an early decline, there was an advance which was practically lost in the late trading, the closing being unsettled and showing a net gain of 1 to 4 points. May contracts sold up from 18.60 to 19.08, and closed at 18.89.

The Census report, showing 11,045,225 bales ginned to Jan. 1, indicated the smallest ginning for the first half of December on record and was considered more bullish than otherwise, but at the same time it seemed to be a signal for considerable realizing. The amount of cotton ginned to Jan. 1 exceeded the Government's estimate in the States of Alabama, Florida and South Carolina, but the difference between the total ginning to Jan. 1 and the Government's estimate of 11,511,000 bales is greater than the cotton ginned after Jan. 1 last year, although, of course, the ginning figures are in running bales, while the Government's estimate is in bales of 500 pounds gross.

The market opened at an advance of 1 point to a decline of 12 points, and sold 17 to 31 points net lower during the middle of the morning. Disappointing cables were responsible for reactionary sentiment, but there was buying by spot houses on the downward scale, and the market became firm in the early afternoon. For a time there was an active demand partly from brokers with Wall Street and Western connections which possibly may have been based on reports that peace rumors were being circulated in the grain market.

Following were yesterday's quotations:

The local market for spot cotton was quiet and 25 points higher, at 18.80c, for middling upland. Southern spot markets, as officially reported, were unchanged to 50 points higher, with New Orleans, which was closed on Monday, reporting an advance of 62 points; Memphis, 18.50c; Houston, 18.50c; Little Rock, 18.25c; New Orleans, 18c; Savannah, 18.62½c; Norfolk, 18.25c; Augusta, 18.75c; Galveston, 18.50c; Charleston, 18c, and Wilmington, 18c.

Liverpool cables reported a fair business in spot cotton. Sales, 8,000 bales; speculation and export, 800; American, 7,000. Imports, 35,000 bales, all American. Middling upland, 11.41d. Futures opened steady, 7 to 13 points higher. Closed quiet, but steady, at net unchanged to 2 points decline. PLANS FOR AMERICAN ICE.

Holding Concern to be Dissolved and New Stock Offered to Holders.

The reorganization plan of the American Ice Company, details of which were obtained yesterday, calls for the dissolution of the American Ice Securities Company, the holding concern which owns nearly all the outstanding shares of the operating company. It is proposed that stockholders of the Securities Company be offered 57,150 shares of 6 per cent. noncumulative preferred stock of the American Ice Company to the extent of 30 per cent. of their holdings at $66 a share. The stock bought will carry with it a bonus of 40 per cent. of common stock.

The balance of American Ice stocks held in the Securities Company's treasury are to be distributed to that company's stock owners. The owner of 100 shares of Securities Company stock will get 48 shares of preferred and 25 shares of common American Ice stock and will have the right to subscribe to 30 shares of preferred stock with the bonus in addition. The plan has been underwritten by a syndicate, which will be managed by Harris, Winthrop & Co. and C. D. Barney & Co. A commission of 5 per cent. will be paid the syndicate, which has agreed to take up any of the preferred stock not subscribed for at the same price made the shareholders.

OIL SELLS AT $3.05 A BARREL

Producers Are Now Expected to Market Their Holdings.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 9.—The long expected goal of the oil producer was reached and passed here today, when at the opening of the market it was announced that the principal purchasing agencies had lifted the price of Pennsylvania crude 10 cents a barrel to $3.05. Other grades were advanced as follows: Mercer black, 8 cents, to $2.43; Corning, 8 cents, to $2.38; Cabell, 8 cents, to $2.35; Somerset, 8 cents, to $2.18, and Ragland, 3 cents, to $1.

These are the highest prices commanded by these grades of crude oil since speculation in oil was stamped out by the Standard Oil Company and its subsidiaries many years ago. They are due, refiners say, to the enormous demand for home consumption and the steadily increasing demand from foreign countries. Producers have long been holding oil for $3 a barrel, selling only as much as was absolutely necessary, and it is now expected that they will market their holdings freely. Hundreds of thousands of barrels are said to be above ground in West Virginia alone.

It was also predicted that drilling would again be actively resumed, not only in new territory, but in old fields where veteran oil men say they have hopes of bringing in more paying wells.

Amends Denver & Rio Grande Order

Judge Learned Hand, in the Federal District Court, yesterday amended the injunction order issued on Saturday in the litigation instituted by the Equitable Trust Company of New York, as Trustee, against the Western Pacific Railway Company and the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad Company, so as to permit the latter corporation to withdraw not exceeding $100,000 from the funds on deposit with the Equitable and Bankers Trust Companies to pay current expenses. The injunction was granted to prevent the removal from this jurisdiction of $2,000,000 on deposit with banks here.

COTTON GINNING REPORT.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Cotton ginned prior to Jan. 1 amounted to 11,045,225 running bales, including 188,052 round bales and 113,359 bales of Sea Island, the Census Bureau today announced.

Last year prior to Jan. 1 ginning amounted to 10,636,778 bales, or 96.1 per cent. of the crop, including 105,785 round bales and 88,933 bales of Sea Island. Ginnings by States follow:

Alabama, 540,820; Arkansas, 1,060,708; California, 28,237; Florida, 50,355; Georgia, 1,811,266; Louisiana, 436,337; Mississippi, 777,213; Missouri, 55,727; North Carolina, 642,824; Oklahoma, 798,963; South Carolina, 922,080; Tennessee, 357,114; Texas, 3,526,106; Virginia, 26,192; all other States, 11,283 bales.

COMMODITIES MARKETS.

WHEAT.

A reactionary tendency developed in the wheat market yesterday, and, after an opening advance of nearly 2 cents a bushel, prices eased off under profit taking, and at the close were 1⅜@2⅜c net lower. In the local cash market No. 2 hard Winter wheat was quoted at $2.13½; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $2.23½; No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $2.27½, all free on board, New York.

CORN.

The corn market was also heavy, and at the close showed net losses of 1⅛ to 1¼c. Reports from Argentina were very unfavorable on the crop outlook, and some authorities placed the apparent exportable surplus as low as 40,000,000 bushels, compared with shipments last year of about 150,000,000 bushels. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $1.11c, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

The oats market was lower in sympathy with wheat and corn and under liquidation, but a number of traders seem inclined to take a favorable view of this market on the theory that prices are low compared with other grains. The local cash market was easy; standard quoted at 65½@66c; No. 2 white, 66½c; No. 3 white, 65@65½c; No. 4 white, 64½@65c; fancy clipper white, 67@70c; ordinary clipped white, 66@68c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was higher early in the day on scattered buying, prompted by a further show of strength in the hog position, but most of the advance was lost under liquidation, with more or less selling of lard on reports that the Belgian Relief Commission was buying compound. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 40,000; estimated for Wednesday, 56,000. Kansas City received 18,000 and Omaha 26,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Reports that the Belgian Relief Commission was in the market for about 1,000,000 pounds of compound lard had a stimulating influence on the cotton oil market early in the day and brought about more or less buying by commission houses. Longs were disposed to take profits, however, and subsequently most of the advance was lost with sentiment bearishly influenced by the action of cotton and lard. Final prices were 1 to 5 points net higher, and total sales for the day were 25,900 barrels. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

The coffee market was lower yesterday under scattered selling, which was most generally attributed to realizing from Wall Street and cotton trade sources. Offerings were well enough absorbed to cause slight rallies in the late trading, however, and the close was net unchanged to 8 points lower, with sales estimated at about 70,000 bags. A fair demand was repodted in the spot market, with prices unchanged, on the basis of 10c for Rio 7s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

The sugar futures market opened 2 to 7 points lower, with some of the selling pressure coming from local trade sources, but later in the day there was renewed buying by Wall Street and European interests and values advanced several points from the initial level, the near positions holding steady. The close was irregular, 2 points net higher to a net decline of 5 points, with sales for the day estimated at 9,700 tons. Range of prices:

There was a little local inquiry for refined sugar, but otherwise the demand was light, with buyers inclined to hold off and await developments. Prices were unchanged at 6.75c for fine granulated. Refiners showed a further buying interest in Cubas and Porto Ricos, local interests being 9,000 bags Cubas, afloat, at 4⅝c, cost and freight basis, and 19,000 bags Porto Ricos, to clear about Jan. 17, at 5.33c, cost, insurance, and freight. Quotations follow: Centrifugal, 5.39c; molasses, 4.52c; cost and freight, 4⅝c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 14,476 packages. Considerable weakness developed at the opening and under rather strong pressure to sell prices were shaded ½@1c. At the reduced figures buyers are taking hold slowly expecting to secure further advantages before the week is over. The weakness has extended to practically all grades. Creamery, higher scoring than extras, per pound, 40@40½c; extras, (92 score,) 39½c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 36@38½c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 34½@35½c; thirds, 33@34c; creamery, unsalted, higher scoring than extras, 41@41½c; extras, 40@40½c; firsts, 36½@39½c; seconds, 35@36c; creamery, held, higher scoring than extras, 38c; extras, 37@37½c; firsts, 35¼@36½c; seconds, 34@35c; thirds, 33@33½c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 38½@39c; good to prime, 36@38c; common to fair, 30@35½c; renovated, extras, 34½c; firsts, 33@34c; lower grades, 30@32c; imitation creamery, firsts, 31½@32½c; ladles, current make, firsts, 30½@31c; seconds, 29½c; lower grades, 28@29c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 29@29½c, No. 2, 28½c; lower grades, 27@28c.

EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 8,453 cases. The shortage of fresh gathered eggs of desirable quality continues and the market holds strong and in sellers' favor. Mild weather prevails throughout producing sections, and there is a general expectation that collections at interior points will increase soon. In the meantime, the supply available is hardly sufficient for the needs of the trade, and the stock is clearing promptly at strong prices. Storage eggs held firm. There is little change in the range of values, although some lots of strictly fancy early packings have been sold as high as 38c; the greater part of the business ranges from 37½c down to 35½c, with most sales at 36@37c. Nearby white eggs are cleaning up better; the scarcity of other goods is making a better market for the ordinary qualities of nearby stock, and strictly fancy lots of large size are in light supply. Fresh gathered, extra fine, per dozen, 53c; extra firsts, 52c; firsts, 50@51c; seconds and poorer, 45@49c; Fall gathered, poor to fair, 34@40c; refrigerator, firsts, 37@38c; seconds, 35½@36½c; lower grades, 33@35c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 55@57c; ordinary to good, 50@54c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 50@55c; nearby pullet eggs, whites, 45@48c; Western and southern, gathered whites, 50@52c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery, browns, 53@55c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 50@53c.

Were Paid for Returned Goods.

A novel case involving the return of goods was cited yesterday by a selling agent. A jobber, after receiving delivery of a certain quantity of dress goods, wanted to return the entire shipment. After talking the matter over with the selling agent, he compromised by returning only a portion of the goods and, upon the selling agent's insistence, paid 20 cents a yard for the trouble to which the mill was put. There were no imperfections in the goods, and the selling agent is positive the jobber will buy back later on the very goods he rejected, at an increased price.

A New Knitted Fabric.

A knitted fabric will be put on the market shortly by one of the best-known woolen selling organizations. The cloth is adaptable to men's wear and women's wear overcoatings, cloakings and suitings. It is said to be a cloth that does not shrink. The yarn is composed of 30 per cent. cotton and 70 per cent. worsted and, when the fabric is sponged, it increases its width from 27 to 32 inches and stays at the wider dimension. A variety of colors will be offered which will be suitable for sport clothes. The price will be 92 cents.

Still Higher Prices for Gloves.

Still higher prices both for fabric and leather gloves are predicted as a result of the increased cost of raw materials and production, but in spite of this buyers are taking both kinds liberally for Spring. Purchases of fabric gloves are especially heavy, the great bulk of them being short ones. It is said that 99 per cent. of the women's fabric glove business for Spring has been done on wrist lengths because of prevailing styles in waists. White has been freely bought, with tans and putty shades in favor in the colored gloves. Men's fabric gloves have shown up well in the advance business done.

Appeal on Cotton Fabrics Duty.

The Treasury Department has decided not to accept as final a recent decision of the Board of General Appraisers dealing with the classification under the Tariff act of 1897 of cotton fabrics known in the trade as Oriental stripes. The board held that the merchandise was dutiable as "cotton cloth" at the appropriate rates under Paragraphs 304 to 309, otherwise known as the "countable cotton cloth" paragraphs of the old law. The Government held that the stripes constituted embroidery or at least "ornamentation" of the fabrics within the meaning of Paragraph 339, and accordingly took duty at 60 per cent. Assistant Attorney General Hanson has been directed to appeal the board's decision to the Customs Court. A decision in favor of the Government, it was said, would have a bearing on the return of similar goods under the present tariff.

Not Much Gray Goods Trading.

Buying of gray goods continued to lag more or less in this market yesterday, but there was nothing to complain of on the score of price firmness. The mills made no move to encourage sales by meeting views of buyers as to what goods should cost, and as a result the business put through was limited. Some small business, presumably from second hands, was put through on 39-inch 68-72s at 8½ cents, but first hands were firm in their demands for an eighth to a quarter more. Spot and nearby 38½-inch 64-60s were firmly held at 7¾ cents by first hands, but, from all accounts, buyers were not overwilling to meet this price. Sheeting and other coarse-yarn goods business was none too large, and it was featureless for the most part. These prices were representative mill quotations at the close:

BUSINESS NOTES.

The account of D. J. Healy & Co., Detroit, Mich., is now being handled in this city by Brown & Macrae, resident buyers, 1,270 Broadway.

British blockade restrictions on the exportation of yeast to Holland have been canceled, according to a cablegram from the American Consul General at London.

The Department of Commerce has been informed by the American Consul General at Paris that Ministerial orders of Jan. 2 abrogate export permits for the shipment to allied countries, and those of North and South America, of bones and of rough diamonds suitable for industrial purposes.

The shoe buyers of the firms represented in this market by W. T. Knott, resident buyer, 23 and 25 East Twenty-sixth Street, will hold a semi-annual meeting here on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week.

The J. J. Nathan Company, Beaumont, Texas, has been added to the list of firms that are represented in the local market by Baer & Lilienthal, commission merchants, 1,150 Broadway.

FOR THE NEXT FUR SALE.

Upward of $1,000,000 worth of furs will be placed on sale at the New York fur auction which starts on Jan. 22. An inventory of the shipments received was completed yesterday, and showed that in several particulars the sale should prove especially attractive to buyers.

There will be 61,000 Australian opossum skins offered, which up to this time have reached this market only in small quantities. The muskrat and skunk lots that will be sold have sampled, it was said, at unusually high grade. The offering of mole skins, which promise to become popular as a Summer fur, comprises 80,000 pelts. The general conditions of the sale will remain the same as in the past, except that manufacturers will be given a period of four months in which to make payment for their purchases. Last year they had to pay cash. Prompt day has been set for Feb. 15.

Several foreign buyers are already in the market and will be present at the sale.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

An important deal on Fifty-seventh Street and the leasing of the large Wendel plot on the southwest corner of Broadway and Fifty-first Street for improvement with an office building and theatre were the leading features in the realty market yesterday.

The Fifty-seventh Street deal involved the sale by Mrs. Blanche Horton Hutton of the property at 144 and 146 West Fifty-seventh Street and 139 and 141 West Fifty-sixth Street, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues, having a frontage of 40 feet on Fifty-seventh Street, running through the block 200 feet, with a frontage of 50 feet on Fifty-sixth Street. The plot contains 9,000 square feet.

The purchaser was Mitchell Kennerley of the Anderson Galleries. He has no immediate plans for improvement. The Fifty-seventh Street plot is occupied by two old dwellings, a few doors east of Carnegie Hall.

Joseph P. Day and Frederick W. Joy were the brokers in the transaction.

Enlarge Candy Factory Site.

The Stern & Saalsberg Company, candy manufacturers, purchased from Nellie J. Bragan 420 West Forty-fifth Street, a four-story tenement, on a lot 25 by 100.5.

The buyers will use the property to enlarge their plant, which occupies 416 and 418 West Forty-fifth Street.

Builder Buys in West Harlem.

John J. Mahon has purchased from Lowenfeld & Prager a plot, 56 by 99.11 feet, on the south side of 141st Street, 225 feet east of Lenox Avenue. Charles Kuntze was the broker.

Buyers for Private Dwellings.

William D. Bloodgood & Co., Inc., sold 227 West 128th Street, a three-story and basement house, to Duncan Higgs for investment.

Tenement Deals.

Ennis & Sinnott, operators, have resold No. 308 East Seventieth Street, a five-story tenement on a lot 27 by 100, to Rudolph Troest, an adjoining owner. O'Reilly & Dahn were the brokers.

Bronx Sales.

Kurz & Uren, Inc., sold 525 East 146th Street, between Brook and St. Ann's Avenues, a five-story new law tenement, on a lot 50 by 100.

Brooklyn.

Tutino & Cerny have sold for Jacob Frye to a client for investment, the two-story, two-family dwelling, on plot 20 by 100, at No. 641 Fiftieth Street.

Long Island.

Dr. James J. Shay purchased a farm of five acres and buildings on Huntington Avenue at Huntington, Long Island, from Sarah E. Hall. Theodore S. Hall was the broker in the transaction.

G. Taus & Sons sold the two twenty-room cottages at 15 and 17 Beach Street, Rockaway Beach, to a client for investment.

Sale at Yonkers.

The Robert E. Farley Organization has sold to L. E. Aldrich a plot on Myrtle Avenue, in the Nepperhan Heights section of Yonkers. Mr. Aldrich will erect a house for his occupancy.

Packard Motor Car Company Buys Site for Newark Branch.

As a site for a building, the Packard Motor Car Company has purchased from the Dryden estate the property at 1,020 to 1,026 Broad Street, extending through to Orchard Street, Newark, N. J.

On the property, which fronts 116 feet on Broad Street and 365 feet on Orchard Street, are two large dwellings formerly occupied by the late John F. Dryden, former President of the Prudential Life Insurance Company, and his son-in-law, Colonel Anthony Kuser. Feist & Feist negotiated the sale, the property being held at about $180,000.

Commercial Leases.

Charles F. Noyes Company leased for the Schulte Cigar Company, for a long term of years to Daniel Cahn, a store at 2,710 Broadway; for George Nash Company, to Walworth Manufacturing Company, a store and basement at 224-226 Pearl Street.

Edward J. Hogan leased to the Gordon-Detwiler Institute and School of Languages a large portion of the twentieth floor of the Tribune Building for a term of years.

Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd have leased for the Greenwood estate the five-story building, 25 by 100, at 53 Murray Street to the Quaker City Rubber Company of Philadelphia as their New York branch.

Private Dwellings Leased.

E. H. Sothern, who has been compelled to retire from the stage temporarily, has leased for his city residence the dwelling, furnished, at 18 West Fifty-third Street, from Mrs. Riley Miles Gilbert. Pease & Elliman were the brokers.

Julia Beverley Higgens has leased for Joseph B. Bourne his house at 76 East Eightieth Street to Robert Dunbar Pruyn, and for Henry Wainwright Howe his house at Bedford Hills to Cecil F. Shallcross.

The Houghton Company has leased to Louise B. Milligan the four-story dwelling at 60 West Seventieth Street for Ida and Lillian Hallett.

The annual meeting of stockholders of New York Title and Mortgage Company was held at 135 Broadway yesterday. The Directors were re-elected with the exception of Harold T. White, who retired in favor of Guy DuVal.

The number of title items booked during the year 1916 was 49 per cent. greater than during 1915. The gross amounts of fees for 1916 was 73 per cent. greater than for 1915. The total amount loaned on bond and mortgage during 1916 was $11,734,183.07, compared with $7,119,924.47 during 1915. The total sales of mortgages during 1916 aggregated $12,231,824.06. In 1915 the sales aggregated $7,814,502.59. The amount of guaranteed mortgages outstanding on Dec. 30, 1916, was $37,852,685.26.

The net earnings for the six months ended Dec. 30, 1916, covering the first six months of operation, since the merger of the New York Title Insurance Company and New York Mortgage and Security Company, were over 11 per cent. per annum. Dividends are now being paid at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum.

Degnon Offices Move to Queens.

The Degnon Companies removed their offices last week from the Forty-second Street Building in Manhattan to the six-story Queens Subway Building in Long Island City. The Hunters Point Avenue station of the Queensboro subway is in the basement of the Queens Subway Building, which adjoins the Degnon Terminal, where some of the largest industries in Queens are located.

Contract for Brooklyn Factory.

The Turner Construction Company of New York, Buffalo and Boston have received a general contract for the erection of a reinforced concrete warehouse, 200 by 80 in plan, four stories and basement in height, for the W. Beckers Aniline and Chemical Works, at Eighty-third Street and Ditmas Avenue, Brooklyn.

Want New Subway Station.

A meeting of property owners and business men represented by Attorney C. S. Levy has been called for Thursday evening at Dr. Price's Church, 153d Street and Amsterdam Avenue, to formulate plans to secure a subway station at 150th Street and Broadway.

AWARDS DU BOIS $123,775.

Baltimore Judge Reduces the Figures of the Hammond Jury.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 9.—A judgment in favor of Addison G. Du Bois, plaintiff, in the suit against John Hays Hammond, the mining engineer, for wrongful conversion of stock of the General Cotton Securities Company to the amount of $123,775, was entered in the records of the Superior Court this afternoon. This was the amount fixed by Judge Gorter several days ago, when the case came up before him on a motion for a new trial filed by Hammond's attorneys. The jury awarded Du Bois $238,750 damages, and when the arguments on the motion were concluded the court said that it would reduce the award to the amount named above.

Withdraw Action on Cummins.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 9.—The Tennessee Senate and House reconsidered today their acceptances to attend a dinner given here last night in honor of William J. Cummins, the New York banker, recently pardoned by Governor Whitman after serving a prison term for bank wrecking. In the Senate the acceptance was expunged from the record with a few dissenting votes, and the acceptance voted last week by the House was rescinded by a viva voce vote.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Low barometric pressure now prevails in all sections east of the Rocky Mountains, with storm centres over New England and the Upper Mississippi Valley. Pressure is rising rapidly over the Northwest, and it continues abnormally high west of the Rockies.

Snow flurries have occurred within the last twenty-four hours along the northern border from Maine westward to Montana, and local rains in Southern New England, the Middle Atlantic States, and the Upper Ohio Valley.

Temperature has fallen decidedly along the northern border, and it continues high in other districts east of the Rocky Mountains

The weather is unseasonably warm over the Middle West and the South and East.

Indications are that the storm that is now over the Upper Mississippi Valley will advance rapidly eastward and be attended by snows Wednesday in the region of the Great Lakes, the Ohio Valley, and rain or snow by Wednesday night in the Middle Atlantic States and Southern New England and be followed by fair weather in these districts on Thursday.

This change will be of the nature of a cold wave in the lake region, the Ohio Valley, and the Middle Atlantic States and New England, over which regions cold wave warnings have been disseminated.

Winds for Wednesday and Thursday along the North Atlantic Coast will be strong shifting, overcast weather and probably rain or snow. Middle Atlntic Coast, strong southwest, shifting to northwest by Wednesday night, unsettled. South Atlantic Coast, fresh west, fair.

FORECASTS: TODAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York and Southern New England—Overcast and colder Wednesday, probably followed by snow at night. Thursday, fair, colder, cold wave.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Overcast Wednesday, probably followed by rain, colder by night. Thursday, fair, colder, cold wave.

Northern New England—Overcast, colder Wednesday and Thursday, cold wave.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

3 A. M.	14	38	4 P. M.	29	45
6 A. M.	13	38	6 P. M.	26	43
9 A. M.	15	39	9 P. M.	28	39
12 M.	25	44	11 P. M.	30	37

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 42; for the corresponding date last year it was 21; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 30.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 38; at 8 P. M. it was 39. Maximum temperatpre, 47 degrees at 2:30 P. M.; minimum, 36 degrees at 4 A. M. Humidity, 66 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 92 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 29.64 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 29.47 inches.

Education Notes

Plans for 1917 were launched Monday night at the monthly meeting of the Executive Committee of the Interborough Association of Women Teachers, which was held in the banquet hall of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Miss Grace Strachan presided. More than fifty members of the committee were present and discussed at length the proposed salary increase schedule, which affects teachers from 1A to 6B. This plan is sponsored by the association, and a hearing has been granted by the members of the Board of Education. Acknowledgements were received from the various recipients of the association's holiday charities.

Elementary and advanced courses in Spanish will be given at the Hunter College evening session by Dr. Fernando Staud y Ximenes, formerly the Spanish Consul in Chicago, who taught Spanish for several years at the Lewis Institute and at St. Ignatius College, both in Chicago, and who has edited Calderon's "La Vida es Sueno" for English students.

Professor Blanche Colton Williams of Hunter College will lecture before the Columbia Institute of Arts and Sciences on "The Modern Ghost Story" in Havemeyer Hall on Jan. 19.

The Newman Club of Hunter College will give a the dansant at the Hotel Majestic on Feb. 3 for the benefit of the Keating Day Nursery.

The graduating class of the Great Kills School will hold a get-together party this afternoon, at 3 P. M., in the auditorium of the school. The object is to meet the alumni of the school who are in high, vocational, and other schools, or in the different walks of life, and discuss with them their experiences. The members of the 8B class will act as hosts and hostesses.

On Jan. 19, at 7:30 P. M., there will be a vocational assembly, when pupils who are soon to graduate, parents, alumni, and teachers will confer on "Starting Our Children in Life." The President of the Board of Education, the President of the Borough of Richmond, the Superintendent of Schools for the Borough, and other officials will be present. The assembly will be held at the Moravian Church, Great Kills, S. I.

The Committee on High Schools will submit a report at today's meeting of the Board of Education in favor of the organization of two new high schools, one in Brownsville, Brooklyn, and the other on Washington Heights.

The Central Pension Committee will meet at 4 P. M. tomorrow in Public School 27, Forty-second Street, east of Third Avenue. Its Executive Committee will meet at 4:15 P. M. today in the Board of Education Hall.

The New York Schoolmasters' Club will hold a meeting at the Aldine Clubrooms on Saturday. Dr. Haven Emerson will speak on "The Public School an Asset and Not a Liability for Public Health."

The Principals' Club will hold a meeting on Friday afternoon in the assembly room of the Waldorf-Astoria.

WAX REAL 'OLIVER,' HOTEL MAN INSISTS

Dapper Prisoner, in Court at the Trial of Safford, Is Positively Identified.

DENIED BY ACCUSED CLERK

Defendant in the Case Still Maintains He Did Not See Government Witness at Inn.

Charles W. Wax, who says he is the elusive Oliver Osborne, appeared yesterday in the Federal District Court where Franklin D. Safford, the Plainfield hotel clerk, was on trial before Judge Learned Hand on a charge of perjury. Safford's alleged offense was committed at a rehearing of the trial of Rae Tanzer on an accusation that she had used the mails to defraud James W. Osborne, the lawyer. The hotel clerk then testified before United States Commissioner Houghton that James W. Osborne was the man who had accompanied Miss Tanzer to the Kensington Hotel in Plainfield and there had registered as "O. Osborne of New York."

There was a silence, followed by a rustle in the courtroom, when William Rand, Jr., the special prosecutor, called to a court attendant, "Bring in Mr. Wax." The man of many aliases was carefully dressed in a dark blue suit and in his dark tie he wore a large cameo pin.

Wax was called into court to be identified by William J. Kitchen, the former proprietor of the Kensington Hotel in Plainfield, as the man who had come to his hotel with Rae Tanzer. Mr. Kitchen had just scrutinized James W. Osborne and said emphatically that he was not the man. Just as emphatically he said that Wax was.

"He certainly is the man," the witness said, after looking at Wax.

As Wax was leaving the enclosure Benjamin Slade, representing Safford, halted him and asked Safford, who was sitting at the counsel table, if Wax was the hotel visitor. The defendant half rose from his place, looked at the jaunty though pale Wax and shook his head. Then Wax was led out of the room.

William G. Swain, a Post Office Inspector, who was the first witness called, told how, at the hearing, he had seen Albert J. McCullough, a private detective, nudge Safford several times and then point to James W. Osborne, who was in the courtroom. After this Safford went on the stand, he said, and readily pointed the lawyer out as Rae's companion on the trip to Plainfield. He was followed by Joseph A. Baker, an investigator of the Department of Justice, who related the circumstances surrounding the arrest of Safford in a Brooklyn hotel where he had registered as S. A. Ford.

Frank C. Lapp, who was working at the Kensington when Oliver Osborne visited there, told of a brief talk with Oliver, and when James W. Osborne stood up in court the witness said he was sure he was not the man with whom he conversed in Plainfield. But Lapp testified also that he had seen Wax and that he could not identify him as the man who had visited the hotel with Miss Tanzer. He was followed to the stand by Kitchen, who identified Wax.

The trial will be continued this morning.

ADOPT ZEPPELINS FOR OUR AIR FORCES

Daniels Announces that Construction Will Be Begun at Once—Big Mobile Rifles Planned.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The War and Navy Departments are to undertake ordnance and aircraft innovations designed from lines developed by the European belligerents. They include Zeppelin type airships and large calibre mobile rifles and howitzers to be mounted on railroad trucks for coast defense, or hauled by tractor engines over country roads.

Secretary Daniels announced today that the Zeppelin type airships would be constructed at once. The determination to build the craft was reached after a study of the question of rigid airships by a committee of officers representing the aeronautical branches of both services, the General Staff of the army and the General Board of the navy.

The recommendations have been approved by Secretaries Daniels and Baker and the cost will be divided equally between the army and navy.

POLLNER GIVES UP FLIGHT.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 9.—The Christiania newspaper Dagbladet yesterday announced that Ensign Pollner had given up his intention of flying across the Atlantic in an aeroplane. His original plan was to start in July. The reason given for his renouncing the flight is that he cannot obtain a sufficiently powerful motor.

It was learned here today that Kulbeck, Norwegian aviator, had been sentenced by a court in his own country to five months in prison. He is said to have falsified a subscription list of a weekly paper by adding 200 names and addresses of people who did not exist. He was also sentenced to lose his civil rights for a period of ten years, owing to his having been twice formerly sentenced for similar offenses.

REPORTS BELGIANS WILL BE SENT BACK

Dutch Correspondent Says Germany Is Making Plans to Stop Deportations.

THE HAGUE, Wednesday, Jan. 10, (via London.)—The Aardenburg correspondent of the Nieuwe Courant, who has been touring Belgium on a charitable mission, learns that the German authorities, with the co-operation of the Belgian communes, are planning to cope with the unemployment problem.

Work will be provided in Belgium, says the correspondent, and thus deportations will be suspended, and those who have been deported will be sent back.

Despite the many protests lodged with the Berlin Government and indignation meetings held in America and other neutral countries, there has been no previous intimation that Germany would discontinue the deportation of Belgians.

Alexander Winton, Esq.
Cleveland, Ohio.

Dear Mr. Winton:-

It was way back in 1899. I thought you might like to see it again. Well, here it is.

Do you remember how, in those old days, all Cleveland used to stand agape as you drove down Euclid Avenue in your "horseless carriage"?

The first car bearing your name marked an epoch in this country's great automobile industry. Today, luxurious Wintons by the thousands are seen on the highways and byways of the land.

Cosmopolitan is proud of its part in the conspicuous success of the Winton car. For years a large share of the Winton advertising has gone into Cosmopolitan because you knew that Cosmopolitan readers are the kind of people who can afford to buy high grade cars.

Just as you have aimed at perfection in manufacture, Mr. Winton, so have we striven to make the best magazine that brains and money can produce. The reward of our efforts is more than a million circulation.

Glance at the great February Cosmopolitan. It sells for 20¢ a copy, but the public is always willing to pay for real quality. Do you wonder that Cosmopolitan enjoys the greatest newsstand sale of any magazine in the world?

Mr. Mears skillfully brings out in your advertisements in Cosmopolitan the individual, made-to-order character of Winton cars. I can imagine no line of appeal more calculated to impress well-educated, well-bred, out-of-the-ordinary people.

No wonder Cosmopolitan finds so many new customers for Winton!

Sincerely,
Francis L. Wurzburg
